The modern design on the walls of the first floor of the new addition was accentuated by the light streaming in from the Clark Street windows. The well-ventilated halls were fluorescent lighted.

The completion of the new addition in January reflected the progress of the school in 1961. The three-story building, designed by Haarstick and Associates and constructed by Dawson, Inc., of Minneapolis, enabled much expansion and improvement of the science, mathematics and library departments.

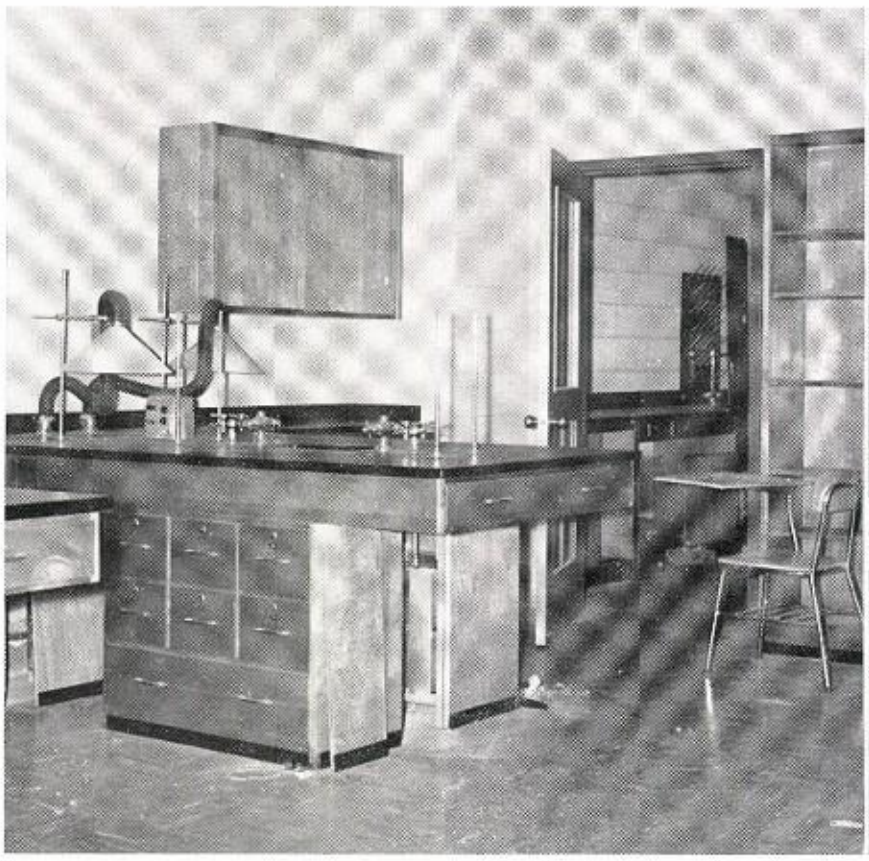
All physics, chemistry and biology classes were moved into specially-built science rooms. Each room, designed to accommodate 30 students, was equipped with seven lab tables, hot and cold water, gas and compressed air. An additional feature of the physics laboratory was an electric panel timer and rectifier with which the amount of electricity supplied to the individual lab tables could be controlled.

Mathematics classes were also moved into new classrooms. Each room was lighted with fluorescent light and equipped with new desks and a floor sound outlet for movie projectors.

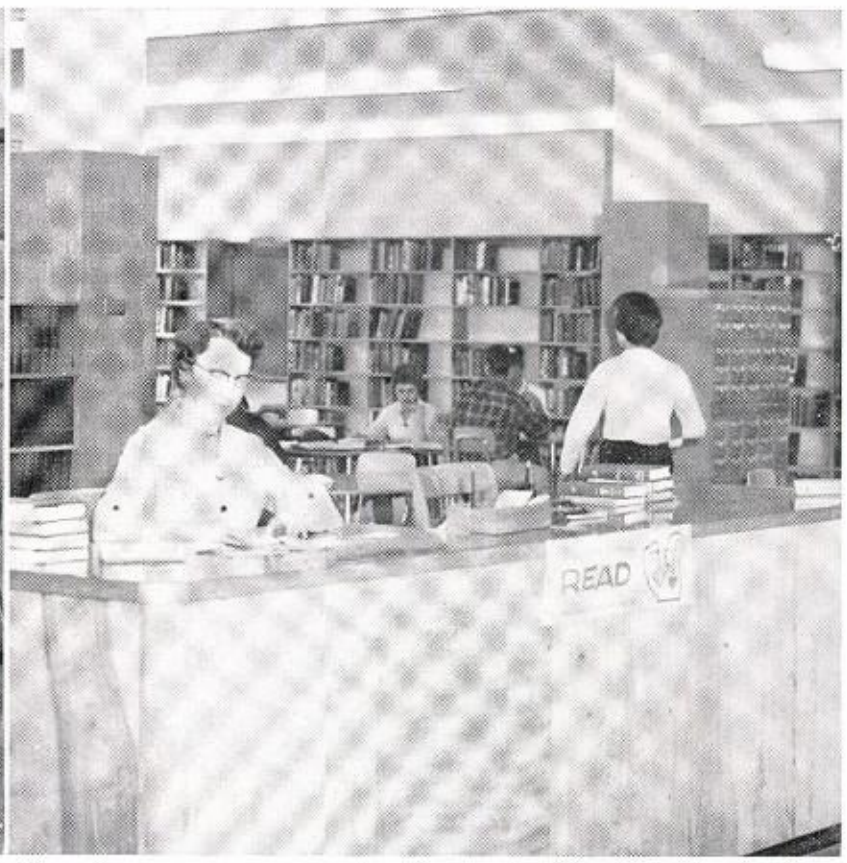
The entire first floor of the addition was devoted to a new and more expansive library, designed to be the educational material center for the school. Besides an increase in shelf space and student working areas, special music and conference rooms were offered to facilitate private study. A classical record collection was established and a stereophonic phonograph assembled.

Construction of Addition Reflects

Each laboratory table in the chemistry rooms was equipped with modern scientific conveniences and storage cabinets. A laboratory for long projects adjoined each room and was similarly equipped.



The check-out desk was the center of the new library. Surrounding it were shelves of reference materials and fiction and non-fiction literature. The larger study area facilitated more study room.



Progress

The addition of the new building created an elongated effect on the Clark Street side of the high school. Completed in January, the extension immediately alleviated crowded conditions prevailing in the old building.

FACULTY and ADMINISTRATION

From the last day of August through the first day of June, faculty and administration members worked to improve the school's curriculum through instruction and participation. The daily school routine was supplemented by weekly faculty meetings and special conferences. Each instructor's and administrator's efforts reflected the combined academic spirit of the school.

Administration

A good school requires many things—students who want to receive the most profitable education, teachers who are interested in the students and an administration that desires to make the school the best possible.

Mr. Lorne S. Ward served as superintendent of the Albert Lea schools. By proving to the students that he is interested in the welfare of them and the school, he did much to urge the students to do their best work.

Senior High principal, Mr. J. R. McElhinney, by his friendly manner and always present dignity, showed that fun and work can go together. Mr. Roland Ellertson, assistant principal, gave the school pep.

Administrative assistant Mr. Irvin J. Anderson was in charge of managing the lunch programs and school bus transportation as well as the care of school finances. Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, Mr. Martin Jordahl, was in charge of the maintenance staff.

The main duty of the school board this year was to supervise the construction of the new building. It also controlled the policies of school functions and employed all members of the faculty and administration.

Helping the Administration in its work throughout the school year was the office staff.

Miss Jennely Ingvaldson was secretary to Superintendent Lorne S. Ward, and Principal J. R. McElhinney was assisted by Miss Lorraine Bangert. Miss Phyllis Roorda was secretary to the Administrative Assistant, Mr. Irvin J. Anderson. Helping Mr. Martin Jordahl, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, in performing his duties, was Miss Marilyn Krueger.

Serving as bookkeeper was Mrs. Ethel Folck, with Mrs. Karen Stegenga as assistant bookkeeper. Miss Lorraine Horning was Guidance Secretary and Miss Marilyn Mickelson was the senior high clerk-typist.

Senior high girls assisted the office staff. Working for one hour each day they answered the office telephone and delivered messages. They also picked up attendance slips and distributed the daily bulletin.

Library Offers Better Opportunities

ALPHABETIZING AND ARRANGING books were just two of the library responsibilities undertaken by Pat Enderson, Joy Hanson and Edna Kycek, senior high volunteer workers.

Better lighting and more room for study and new books are two of the features found in the new library.

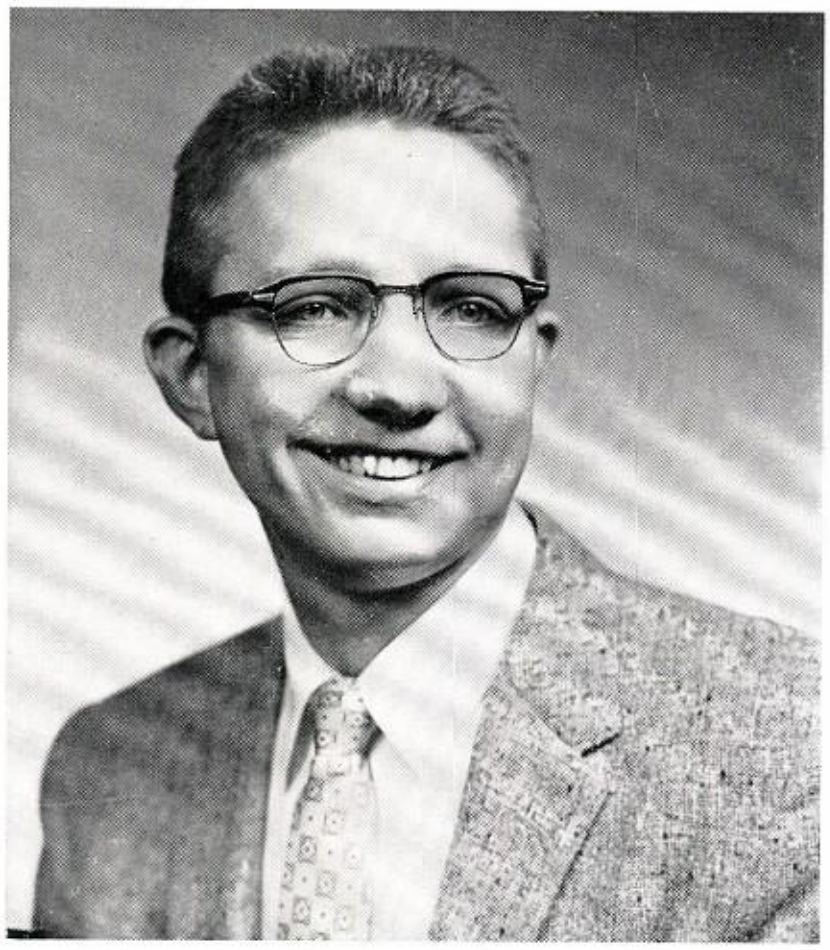
The large size of the library permits 150 students to study there while the old library had room for only 45 people. Many new books are added each year as there is now room for twelve to fifteen thousand books as compared to nine thousand in the old library.

Students wishing to listen to music assigned to them by their instructors listen to the records in the new music room in the library. Filmstrips and slides are also shown there. Students may use maps of the United States and Minnesota which are hung throughout the library. College catalogs from many colleges of the United States are also available to students.

Past magazines are so arranged that students may obtain them themselves. A special check-out window is in the library so that magazines may be taken out.

Readers' Guides are placed in a special table which is used only for students using the magazines. A new atlas stand is another feature. This stand provides a better opportunity for students to make use of the atlas.

Guidance Counselors Aid Students



Dale Shuldes, Guidance Director

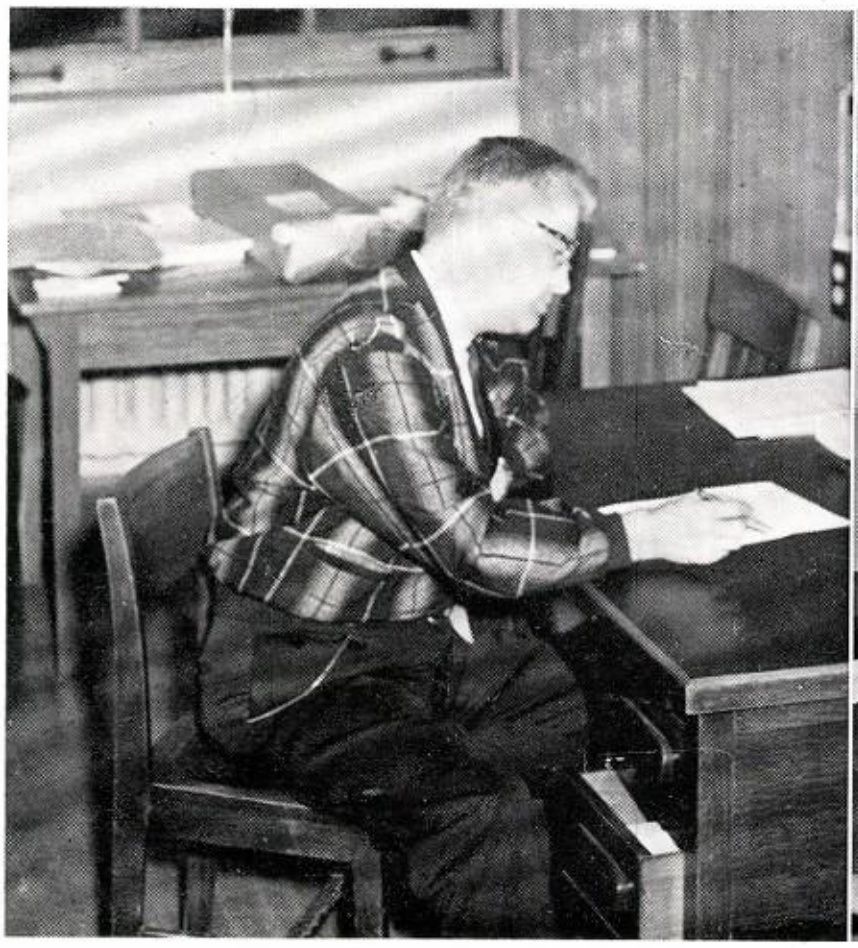
The guidance department, under the direction of Mr. Dales Shuldes, continued its program as a consolidated department to guide, counsel and aid the student in his academic and extra-curricular activities. Counselors of the Central and Southwest Junior High Schools were included with the Senior High School counselors, enabling co-ordination of counseling activities.

Helping students in choosing their educational curriculums constituted the major duties of Miss Gertrude Piers, sophomore counselor, and Mr. Stanley Mittlestadt, junior guidance director. Another duty of these counselors was to record standardized test scores.

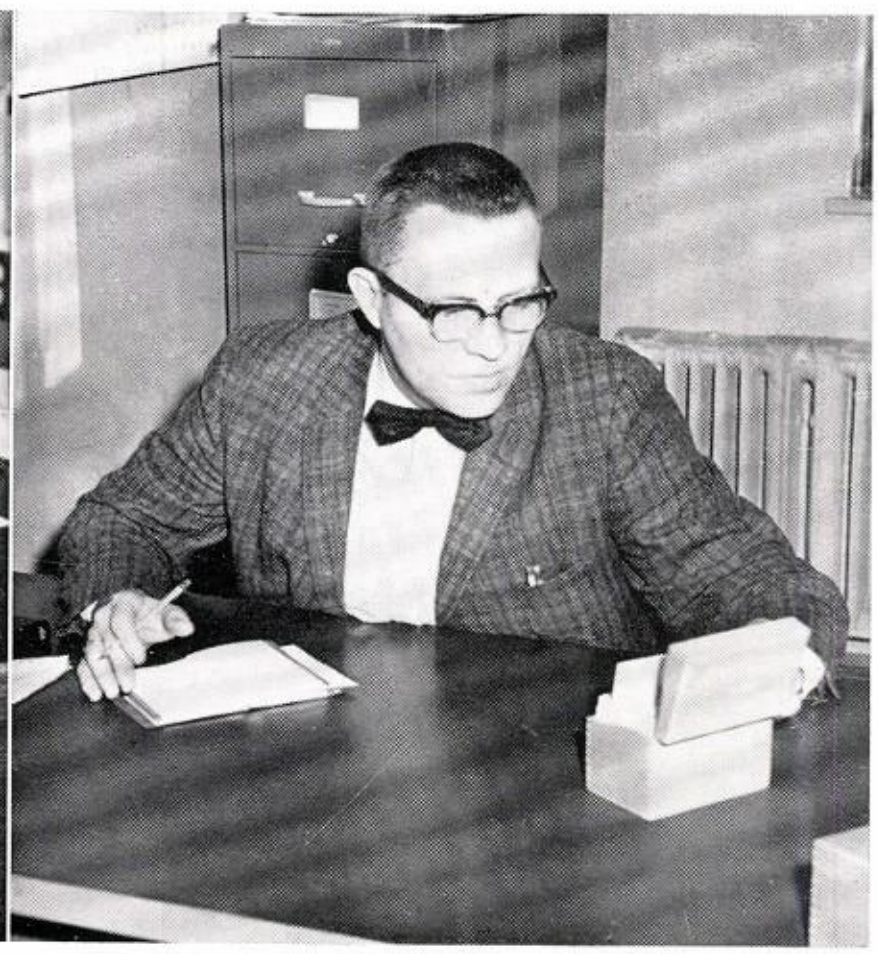
Mr. Egil Hovey and Mr. Shuldes, counselors of the senior class, assisted students in making preparations for college and other opportunities upon graduation from high school. It was their responsibility to report the various scholarship test scores to the students.

With the innovation of the seven-hour day, the required credits for graduation were raised to 13. Subjects required included three years of English, three years of social studies and one credit of a science.

ONE OF THE MANY duties of Mr. Egil Hovey, senior counselor, was to relate college entrance information to seniors.



MR. STANLEY MIDDLESTADT, junior counselor, checked his file for the name of a prospective counselee.



With Present and Future Plans

Helping future seniors choose and plan their senior class schedules was one of the main responsibilities of the Junior Class counselor, Miss Gertrude Piers.

Besides planning academic schedules, Miss Piers conducts conferences throughout the year with each of the students of the Junior Class. With these conferences, Miss Piers helped the students with their social, scholastic and vocational plans.

One of the valuable opportunities of the senior year was College Day, an annual event. College Day provides an opportunity for students and parents to become acquainted with the colleges of interest to them.

Much information was obtained at College Day concerning various phases of college such as tuition costs, housing facilities, working opportunities, scholarships, student loans, activities and the curriculum offered. Each student had the opportunity to meet with representatives from at least three colleges.

WHICH COLLEGE IS FOR ME? How much will it cost? Where do I obtain the answers? These questions could be answered for the prospective college students by numerous college bulletins available in the senior high guidance office.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA'S Professor Roger Page outlined University programs to interested seniors Michael Morrison, Roxanne Wehrhan and Barbara Slife on College Day.

Humanities II

Man's intelligence is revealed every time he opens his mouth to speak or picks up his pen to write. Senior high students endeavor to develop this ability through three years of English study.

Sophomores delved into a complex study of word usage, sentence structure and commonly misspelled words. Experiencing Shakespeare for the first time, they read and analyzed "Julius Caesar."

Coinciding with the study of United States history, juniors pinpointed their reading to American literature. The word individualism took on a new meaning after reading Thoreau. Preparing for college work, juniors experienced the long hours of research and careful composition that is involved in writing a term paper.

Climaxing two years of Engish study, seniors concentrated primarily on literature. Three Shakespearean plays and Marlowe's "Dr. Faustus" highlighted their reading. The senior term paper was longer and required more work than the junior paper.

HUMANITIES II STUDENT, Mark Johnson, compared Brugel's "Temptation of St. Antony" to Grunwald's "Crucifiicion," both of which are Renaissance paintings of the northern school.

Humanities Compare World Culture

To endeavor to find man's purpose, "To Know Thyself" and to improve oneself culturally and intellectually are three purposes of the humanities, a course offered to capable juniors and seniors. Humanities I students delved into a study of American history, art, music and literature. "Our Town" by Thornton Wilder was presented in a series of four movies.

Humanities II students studied the history of the Western Civilization in which the aspects of music, art, literature and architecture were covered. Sophocles' "Oedipus Rex" and "Hamlet" were presented through educational films. Students attended the Minneapolis Art Institute, a Shakespearian play and an opera.

Extemporaneous speaking, panel discussions and various kinds of speech material were introduced to Speech I pupils. In Speech II, every aspect of the theater was taught, including make-up, lighting, set design, tragedy, comedy and costuming.

Advanced development of communications and transportation enables people of today to travel by jet from New York to London in a few hours or to call Germany from Washington, D.C., in a matter of minutes. Because the world of today is figuratively smaller, it is essential to learn the language of other people to promote understanding and peace between nations.

Albert Lea offers four languages to linguistic enthusiasts: French, German, Latin and Spanish.

French I classes, taught by Mrs. Barbara Verdoorn, concentrated their studies primarily on grammar and vocabulary. French II students delved into an extensive study of tenses, phrases and the parts of speech. Memorized dialogue was an integral part of the course.

German students covered their area of study through various activities, including singing the "Schnitzelbank" and writing a term paper in German.

Singing Christmas carols, translating films and learning more about the Spanish culture were the goals of Spanish pupils in both first and second years.

Latin I classes learned vocabulary, verb conjugation and translation methods in preparation for a study of Julius Caesar and early Gallatian culture which will be extensively discussed during their second year. Mrs. Bernice Nervig replaced Mr. Jerome Narveson.

Fine Arts Promote Native Abilities

Working together to bring culture to students were the music and art departments. To please audiences of concerts, the art classes erected original settings as the choruses, orchestra and band provided music.

A new chorus system was put into effect by Mr. Robert Myers to give more interested students a chance to participate in choral work. B Chorus consisted of sophomore girls and boys, Girls' Chorus of junior girls and A Chorus of junior and senior girls and boys.

The outstanding participants of A Chorus were selected for the Chorale, a 50 voice group. The Chorale sang for church and civic organizations as well as participated in choral concerts. During the Christmas season it made more than 15 appearances.

The band gave concerts, marched at football games and parades and played the school songs at pep assemblies and basketball games. Band members perfected their music by private lessons, home practice and sectional rehearsals when necessary.

The orchestra contributed to our culture by setting the mood before plays, at school concerts, at graduation and at public concerts. They practiced daily.

Senior high art classes consisted of senior high students whose objective it was to acquaint themselves with as many medias as possible through weekly individual projects. Oil paints, India ink, charcoal tempera paint and crayon were a few of the drawing supplies used to bring out the students' artistic talents.

World History

World History presented a study of the various cultures of the world and of the Middle Ages, the Renaissance and the World War I and II periods from the European aspect to sophomores.

Through studying the civilizations of ancient man, we can better understand our own heritage and background. Also, the period of invention was delved into in order to give students a better understanding of the English Industrial Revolution.

Gaining a background on the French Revolution in world history paved the way to understanding our own American Revolution which was studied in United States history, a required subject for juniors. Renaissance explorers, Pilgrims and Puritans, our founding fathers, great naval leaders and statesmen were studied during the first half of the year. The Civil War, slavery, emancipation, women sufferage, the world wars in relation to America and the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt completed the American history course.

Humanities I students made a more complete history study using Allen Nevins and Henry Commager's "A History of America" as a frequent reference. Two weeks out of six were devoted to studying the development of American music including folk songs, jazz and Aaron Copland's "Billy the Kid Ballet."

"I FOUND IT" exclaimed Sandra Hanson after she had searched through her whole locker to find one social book.

AUDREY NELSON felt confident that she had punished her disobedient child, Janice Morreim, correctly. However, she learned better methods of discipling children in her Social class.

United States and World Situations

Developing knowledge of government and sociology were the goals of the twelfth grade social classes.

One semester was spent in the study of United States government. All aspects of federal, state, county and local governments were covered. Besides the regular classroom work, students were also required to do outside reading and research papers.

In the second semester, students delved into the sociological qualities and problems of man. The fields studied ranged from man's physical and mental structures to common teenage problems of today.

Instructors of the classes were Mr. William Christopherson, Mr. Egil Hovey and Mr. Rene Wambach.

Another social studies course offered to seniors was the modern history class. Taught by Miss Elsie Sebert, this elective dealt with present world problems. Various areas of the world were studied, including Europe, Russia, Africa, the Middle East, India, Southeast Asia, China and South America.

Daily news reports were required of each student. Knowledge of the work was acquired through special reports, research papers and the construction of maps and charts. The class participated in weekly World Affairs Examinations offered by the Minneapolis Star.

Biology, the study of life, introduced students to the strange world of an ameoba, the metamorphasis of a grasshopper and the complex study of the human body, all of which clarified the course.

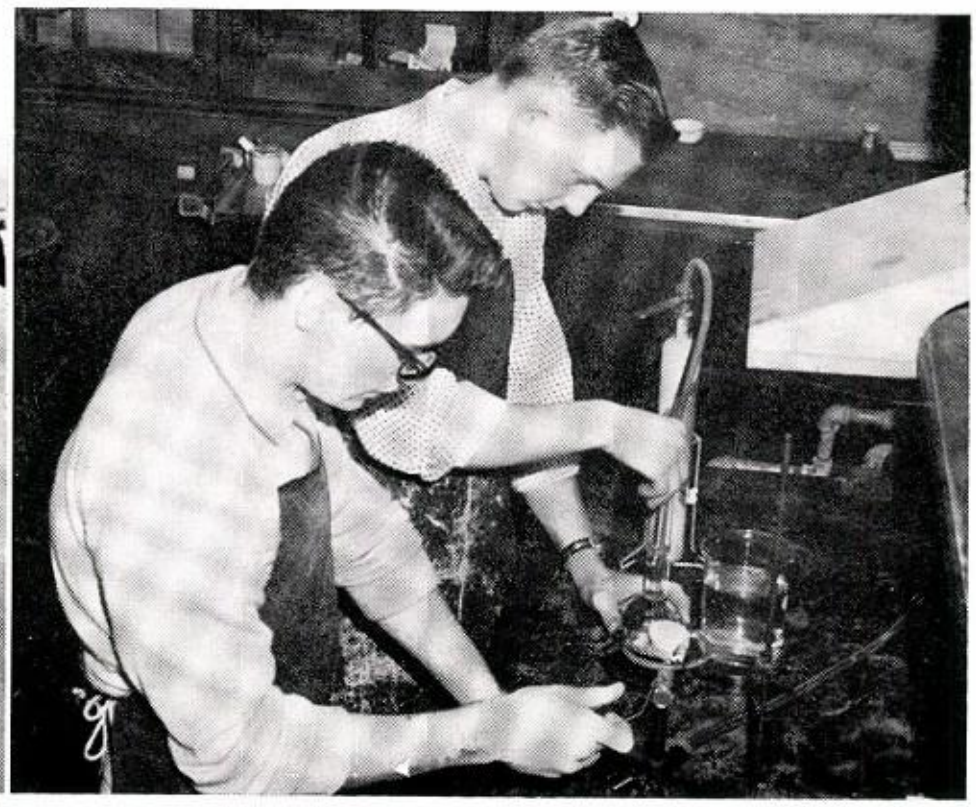
Fall projects of biology students were a leaf collection and collecting and classifying approximately 40 different insects. The arrival into the new addition enabled students to use advance facilities in dissecting frogs and worms, a "must" for all biology enthusiasts.

Offered for the first time was a course in psychology and physiology. The first half of the year was devoted to studying the nervous system and various nerve centers in the body. This prepared students and gave them a background for studying the mind, which was covered during the second semester.

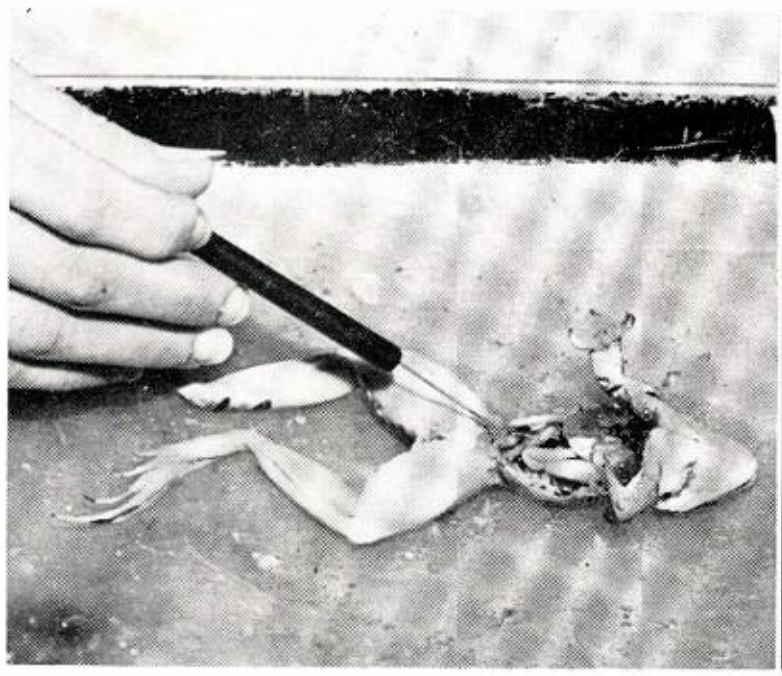
Psychology deals with probing into the depths of man's mind to discover the basic reason for human behavior. Emotions, reactions and personality display man's true nature. Because of environmental and cultural background each person is individual in his mental make-up. Through extensive study in this field, one can better understand himself and others.

Teaching this new subject was Mr. Warner Nettleton, replaced in biology by Mr. Robert Dreisbach.

JAMES DALEIDEN and Mark Johnson created hydrogen through water displacement in their laboratory experiment as part of the chemistry course.



WORKING DILIGENTLY and carefully to disect frogs, biology students studied the internal organs of one of the world's most common amphibians.



Mathematical reasoning challenges the mind and develops acuteness in thinking and solving problems. It is necessary for college and aptitude test achievement because of today's scientific emphasis.

Senior arithmetic offered a practical course in mathematics helpful in figuring income tax, budget balance and everyday quantitative thinking.

Plane geometry was the elective of most sophomores while trigonometry and analytical geometry taxed the brains of senior engineering enthusiasts. The latter course was offered in two semesters and covered an advanced study of the plane geometrical angles, circles and triangles along with algebraic equations.

To continue the study of ninth grade algebra, advanced algebra challenged capable students.

Chemistry involved extensive formula and equation writing, which was necessary in understanding the basis of chemistry. The success of laboratory experiments was determined by the student's ability to write correct equations. Although classes did not move into the new addition until February, the new facilities were put to good use in the spring.

Physics, scientifically defined, is the study of matter and energy and the physical changes which occur in matter. Aspects of heat, electricity, electronics, light, simple machines, inclined planes and sound were studied. Coinciding with this, problems of coefficient linear expansion and gas volumes were worked out. Various laws of physics were also studied.

Office Practice

Numerous business courses offered interested students valuable training. These courses enable graduates to obtain better jobs in the future.

Seniors were taught in office practice how to operate various business machines by practical application. Machines used in the course were adding machines, calculators, a duplicator, a comptometer, a dictaphone and the bookkeeping machine. A special office practie book was used with the course to teach students about familiar office procedures. They were taught how to file and how to type contracts, wills, letters and telegrams. About nine weeks was spent working on the IBM and dictaphone machines.

Methods of filling out cash receipts books, cash payment books and profit and loss statements were only a few business techniques taught in bookkeeping. This class was offered either as a one or two year course to juniors and seniors who were interested.

Through typing, students were familiarized with the standard typewriter keyboard. Speed and accuracy were the main things stressed as methods of typing memorandums and letters were taught. Charts with the maximum words per minute typed by each student were kept in some typing classes.

For Various Secretarial Occupations

Not only students planning to enter the field of business benefited from business courses but also those who were going to college.

Diversified occupations employed students in part time employment. Various places they worked were department stores, restaurants, drug stores, garages and business offices. These students attended school only in the morning and worked during the afternoon at their respective places of employment.

The first year of stenography taught students how to write and apply shorthand. Constant drilling of brief forms and recall words enabled students to build up speed and accuracy in dictation.

Transcription II, the second year of stenography, provided advanced learning for those interested in further training. Most of the year was spent on writing letters from shorthand notes and taking speed dictation tests. Awards were given after passing each test.

Business machines trained seniors how to operate the ten-key and full-keyboard adding machines, calculators, the bookkeeping machine, the spirit duplicator, the comptometer, the Burrough accounting machine and other important office equipment. About eight weeks was spent on the dictaphone and IBM.

To gain practical experience and basic technical knowledge, many students enrolled in some of the various industrial arts classes offered at Albert Lea.

The industrial arts courses were divided into four general areas. One of these, aimed at developing technical skills, was instructed by Mr. Earl Jacobsen, and included machine drawing, blue print reading and shop mathematics and architectural drawing.

Metals, a one semester course in basic metal working, served as a pre-requisite for Vocational Machine Shop I, and was open to all senior high students. Juniors who progressed satisfactorily through the first course in vocational machine shop were allowed to take a second year of it as seniors. These courses in metalworking were instructed by Mr. Linus Siefert.

Electricity and basic electronics, delving into the world of radio and television, were taught by Mr. Russell Esson. Through the course in aeronautics, students learned the principles of flight and navigation.

Mr. Sydney Schwartz headed the classes in woodworking. In the basic course of machine woodworking, any senior high student was given an opportunity to learn safe and proper use of the tools used by an experienced craftsman. Upperclassmen were permitted to learn the many aspects of cabinet-making, and experienced seniors learned much about the trade through a practical course in carpentry.

Home Economists Learn Domesticity

Dealing with problems and situations of family living and upkeep of the home were a few of the things studied in home economics. Knowledge acquired in this course will prove valuable in the future as these young homemakers start to build their own homes.

Planning wardrobes and future homes, studying home furnishings and developing sewing skills were the highlights of the first semester. Each student picked out a pattern and material of her choice and undertook the job of sewing an article of clothing for herself.

The second semester was spent on baby and child care, family life and cooking. New foods were tried and old ones were revised. Special emphasis was on meats and salads. The girls studied digestion, the buying of food on a budget and the care and use of electrical appliances, foods and other household items. The girls also studied synthetics, rugs, coloring of rooms and many other things that will prove valuable when they are confronted with the problems of interior decorations of their own homes.

Senior girls had an opportunity to make either a coat, suit or dress using winter fabrics. Besides sewing they studied types, kinds and colors and the ways of choosing acceessories. They planned their spring wardrobes.

Helping to train the future owners and operators of America's largest single industry, farming, was the task of Mr. Donald Paulson and Mr. Lowell Ross, as they taught senior high boys correct farming practices.

Aided by Mr. Paulson, the sophomores were taught the basic fundamentals of crop and livestock production. Many of them joined the Future Farmers of America, composed of boys taking vocational agriculture.

In their junior year they devled more deeply into the areas of crop and livestock production and learned how to make a bigger profit by using the correct fertilizer. They also learned that by using soil conservation they could keep valuable top soil from washing away, helping to alleviate a big farming problem.

Skillfully supervised by Mr. Ross, the seniors dealt with more involved problems concerning the farm. It was during this year that they dug more deeply into problems they had dealt with in their junior and sophomore years. Another important part of the year, which was the equivalent of a second year in any other course, was learning to keep accurate records.

Physical Education Promotes Fitness

Varied activities stressing physical fitness were undertaken by senior high physical education classes under the direction of Mr. Ralph Summers.

Mr. Donald Buhr, in his second year as head basketball coach, also instructed the boys' classes, and Miss Lois Wagner headed girls' classes and led the GRA.

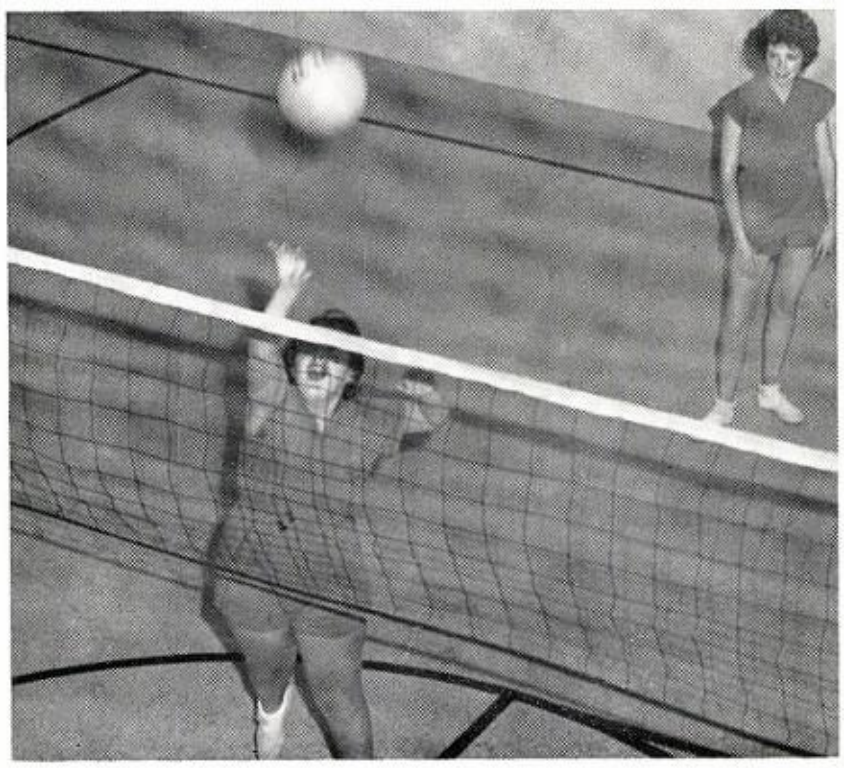
The school year began with the boys playing softball while the girls competed in soccer. When the weather prevented further outdoor activity, boys and girls began a co-educational program of square dancing aimed at developing social graces.

As the winter program progressed, the boys went on to learn the skills of basketball, wrestling, volleyball and gymnastics. Meanwhile, the girls were improving their talents in ping-pong, basketball and volleyball.

As in past years, only sophomores were required to take physical education, and due to the new seven-hour day, classes were pared down, allowing much more individual attention to each student

Participants also enjoyed the use of the newly-enlarged wrestling room, which provided the much needed space to allow a larger number of boys to engage in this highly competitive sport.

BEFORE EACH VOLLEYBALL game, sophomore girls had to through warm-up exercises to better their accurateness.



Summer School, Nurses Aid Students

"GOOD GRIEF! These books are like cannon balls." exclaimed summer school student Donna Mayotte to Gary Roelofs.

SWELTERING IN THE HEAT while attending summer school social studies, Jean Madson and Dennis Tostenson paused to refresh.

PROVIDING AN OPPORTUNITY to the student for spiritual learning, these doors represent something invaluable to every Christian.

Throughout the summer months, many students had the opportunity to acquire extra credits in summer school. Courses were offered for a six week period.

One full credit towards graduation was given for the completion of English and social courses. These consisted of classes five days a week, four hours a day, adding up to a concentrated study of 120 hours.

Elementary and junior high classes were offered, but no academic credit was given. Typing classes were conducted by Miss Iva Loy and Mr. Gene Erickson.

Five academic courses were taught in senior high. Teaching the classes were Mrs. Kenneth Allen, English 10; Miss Grace Dahle and Mr. Stanley Middlestadt, English 12; Mr. Bruce Johnson, World History; Mr. James Gustafson, United States History; and Mr. William Standley, Social Studies 12.

School nurses always hold an important position in the school system. They are present when the students need medical aid due to sickness during the school day. Heading the nursing staff in senior high was Miss Eleanor Beethe. Miss Betty Skaff worked in co-ordination with the elementary schools. Acting as secretary in the main nurse's office was Mrs. Beryl Hillstrom.

SCHOOL NURSE, Miss Eleanor Beethe, checked Catherine Juve's temperature and was willingly ready to render service.

Churches Provide Religious Training

Christian knowledge and how to put it to use is needed in the classroom and in all school activities. Because religion was not offered as a school subject, time was taken once a week for religious instruction.

Each Wednesday morning the high school students attended religious classes of their choice. None were compelled to go to these classes; those who did not wish to attend went to a regular study hall. The classes met for a 40 minute period. Some churches, too small for an individual class, joined with other churches.

Pastors from Albert Lea area churches taught the students. Buses were provided for those whose churches were not within walking distance from school.

Churches taught different subjects, but usually a book in the Bible or the everyday problems which Christians face were discussed. In some, hymns were sung and psalms were read. These weekly sessions gave students an opportunity to strengthen their faith and learn more about the Christian heritage.

There was not much work assigned for this class aside from Bible reading and other assignments connected with the discussions. Special report cards were issued at the same time as the regular report cards.

The janitors continued to be an established part of the school system. Although their main responsibilities were to maintain the neatness of the school building, they were also confronted by many extra duties.

Throughout the day, the regular duties of the janitors included sweeping hall floors, straightening desks, tables and chairs in classrooms at the end of the school day, washing blackboards, emptying waste-paper baskets and cleaning all classrooms every day.

During school vacations and on most weekends, the staff made an extensive cleaning of the building. Floors and desks were waxed and windows were washed.

Extra responsibilities of the men occurred throughout the year. Occasionally a broken or stuck locker required fixing. Often students requested the keys of a janitor to retrieve a forgotten book in a locked classroom. In the winter, snow had to be shoveled and the slippery sidewalks sanded to prevent accidents. Several times the heavy snow was removed from the roof of the school by the janitors. A constant duty was that of regulating the heat in all the classrooms of the building.

Pleasant odors coming from the cafeteria during the morning meant that the cafeteria staff was busily preparing the noon lunch for that day. These lunches were offered to all students who desired them for 25 cents. The meal included a main dish, salad or vegetable, bread and butter, milk and dessert. All meals were planned so as to have different selections each day as well as a nutritious meal for each student.

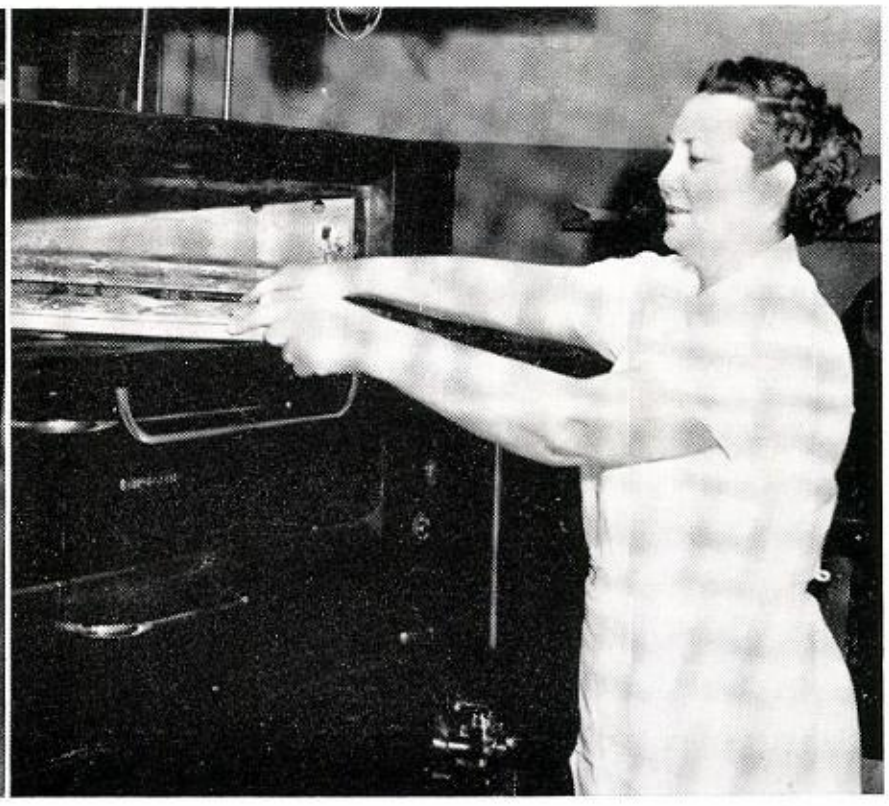
Student workers helped the cafeteria staff serve and clean the room and tables after lunch so that the next hour study hall could be accommodated. In order to have enough room, junior and senior high students ate at different hours. Teachers were assigned to the cafeteria during lunch periods to supervise students.

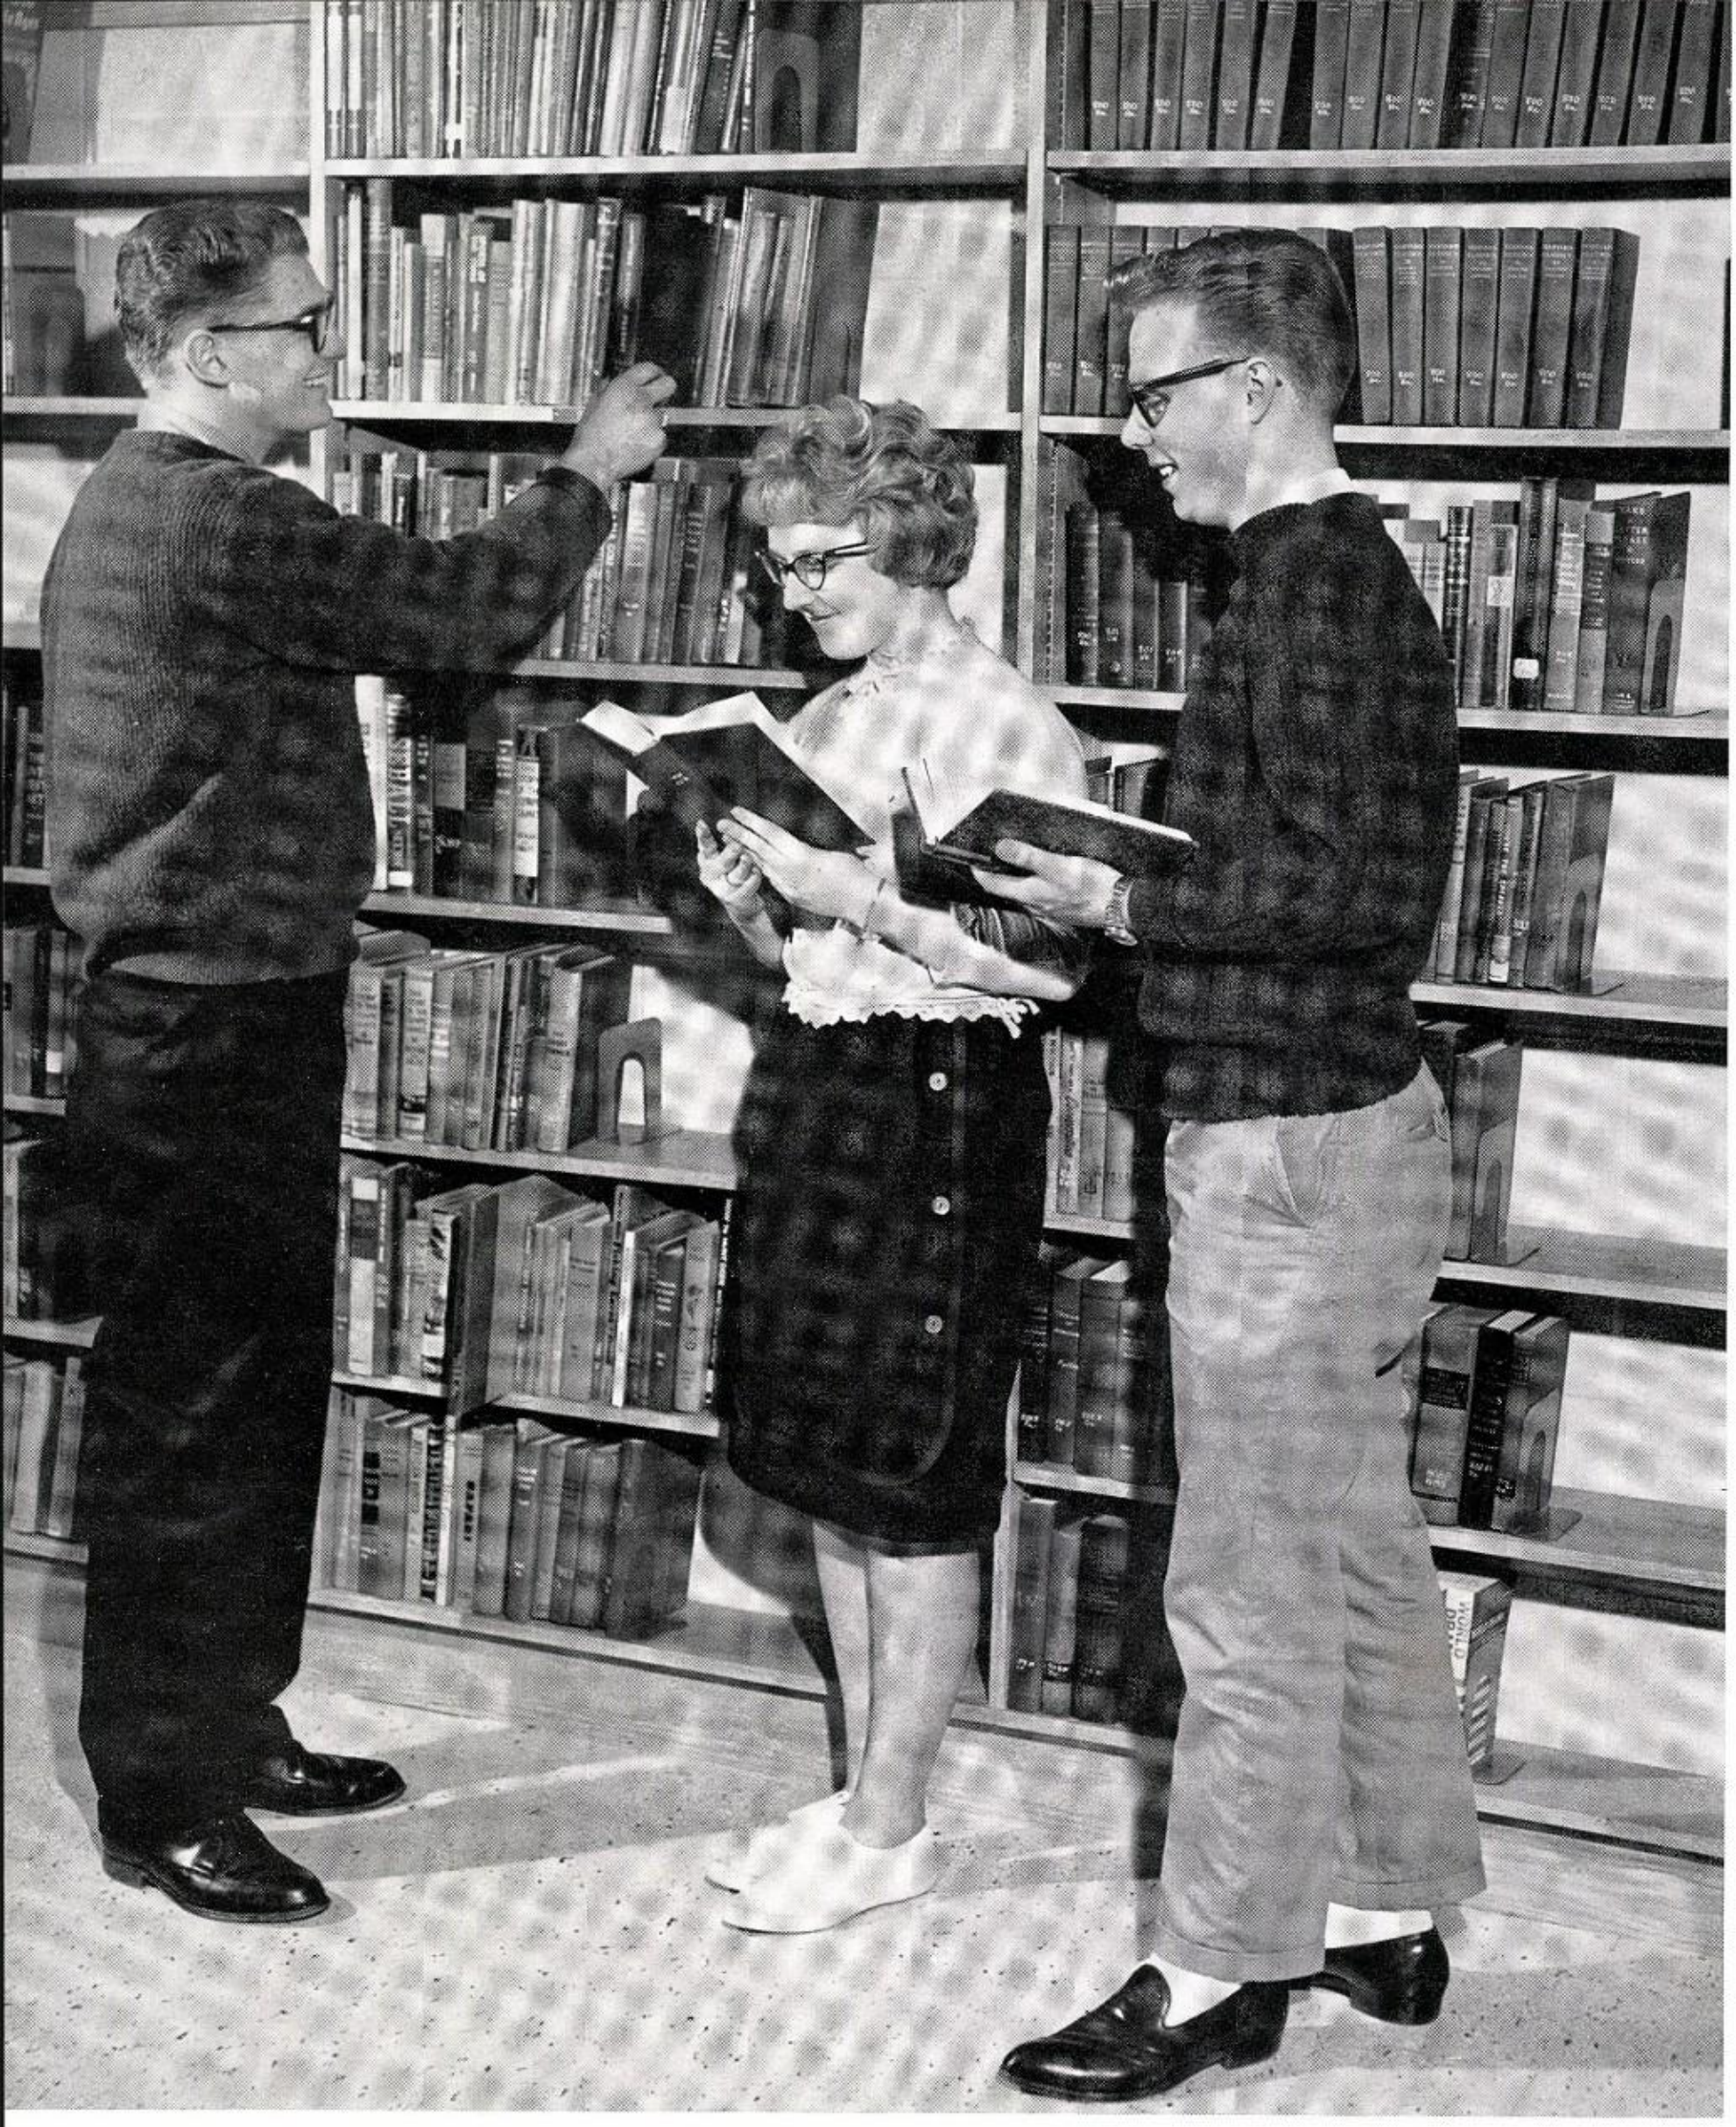
UNLOADING CAFETERIA TRAYS from the sterilizer were Mrs. Lorraine Slette and Mrs. Evelyn Jenson as they prepared for lunchtime.

Cafeteria Staff Prepares Lunches

MACARRONI HOTDISH was being prepared in the huge cooker by cafeteria workers Miss Dina Flim and Mrs. Gladys Olson.

BAKING COOKIES for the hundreds of cafeteria patriots, so aptly illustrated by Mrs. Irene Peterson, was a big job.





CLASSES

The fun-loving sophomore, the energetic junior, the sophisticated senior . . . each one played an important part in the formation of school spirit. Each class, under the direction of the class officers, was responsible for various class-sponsored activities. The initiative and perseverance of each student was a reflection on the good quality of our senior high school.

Out of the 350 seniors in the class of 1961, there were a few who reflected the spirit of the high school by devoting their time and efforts to curricular and extra-curricular activities.

Ten of these outstanding students have been chosen by a faculty committee to be placed on the 1961 Who's Who list. Representative of drama, music, student organizations and scholarship, these seniors were selected on the basis of scholarship to the best of their ability, character and achievements.

We proudly dedicate these two pages to the ten seniors who have reflected the initiative of the graduating class of 1961 at Albert Lea Senior High School.

Rotary, Lion Representatives Tell

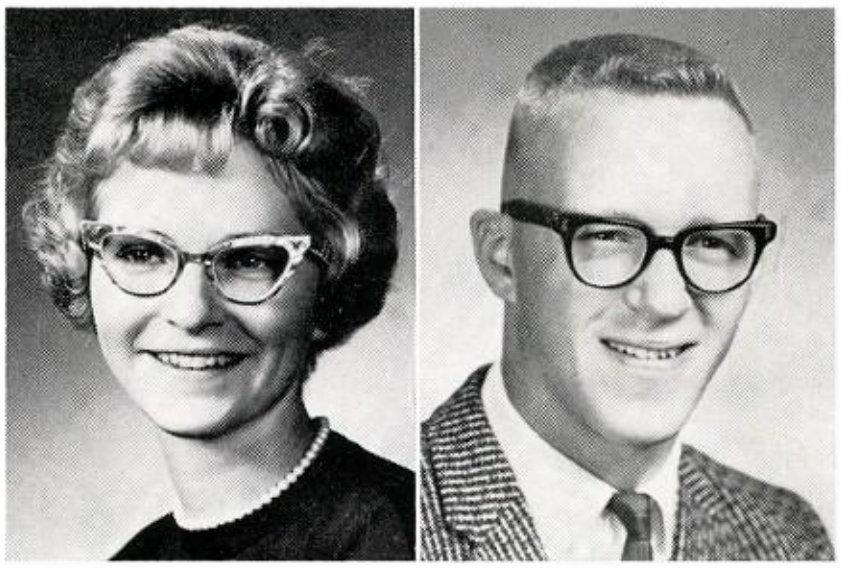
The first big project of the senior year, which was under the guidance of the class officers, was the Senior Breakfast held on December 22. Opening speeches were presented by Class President Bill Jenner, Superintendent of Schools L. S. Ward and Principal J. R. McElhinney. A nativity scene was portrayed and a religious selection was read by Sally Shoemaker.

On the more humorous side, there was a beatnik poem, a skit entitled "Christmas Then and Now" and a girls' quartet. The breakfast closed with group singing led by Rodney Seeger.

Character, scholarship, leadership and service were the qualities possessed by the seniors selected to attend the weekly meeting of the Lions and Rotary clubs. They served as a link between the businessmen of Albert Lea and the high school. Each student was a representative for a particular month, reporting on the events and activities occuring in school.



Barbara Hegland and Del Bosacker were chosen the American Auxiliary and Legion Representatives.

Tigers Contain Cherished Memories;

The class of 1961 won several honors during its senior year that will long be remembered.

Susan Wolgamot and James Daleiden were named National Merit Scholarship finalists. Pamela Hirsch Mary Lindeman, Jean Madson, Barbara Mortenson, Myran Nelson, Steven Palmer and Paul Wilke received letters of commendation from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation. These students scored in the upper three per cent of all students in the nation.

Winning another honor was Barbara Mortenson, who received the Betty Crocker Future Homemaker of Tomorrow award. She scored the highest on a written test taken by Albert Lea seniors in home economics.

Many oscars were awarded this year to deserving seniors. Susan Wolgamot and James Daliden each received one for their high scores on the Merit Scholarship test. Richard Oliphant received one for his outstanding preparation and work in the Homecoming parade and also for his leadership in football. Del Bosacker also received an oscar for his display of ability on the football team. Linda Ille, James Groos, David Jordahl, Karen Mathews and John Iverson received them for outstanding work in the Tiger's Roar.

Bernard Bouvet, American Field Service exchange student, arrived in Albert Lea from Lille, France, to complete his senior year as an American teen-ager at Albert Lea High School. During his stay in the United States, Bernard stayed with Jeff Brooke, a junior.

Interested in sports, he at once became active in cross country, track and intramural basketball. Bernard's determination, sportsmanship and ability brought him high recognition and respect from Albert Leans.

Socially, Bernard has been one of Albert Lea's boosters by exhibiting school spirit and enthusiasm in sports events and school dances.

Soon after his arrival, Bernard managed to overcome his language difficulties. He appeared in various organizations telling of his life and experiences in France and in America. He was a member of Student Council, French Club and a Lion Representative.

Barb Slife represented the American teenager during her stay in Belgium last summer. She also was sent by the American Field Service Program.

Barb visited a Belgian school and toured the country with her families. She was treated as a regular member of each family, thus being able to contrast European family life with life in the United States.

BERNARD BOUVET AND BARBARA SLIFE, AFS students, got together to reminisce about their experience in the foreign countries to which they were chosen to be representatives.

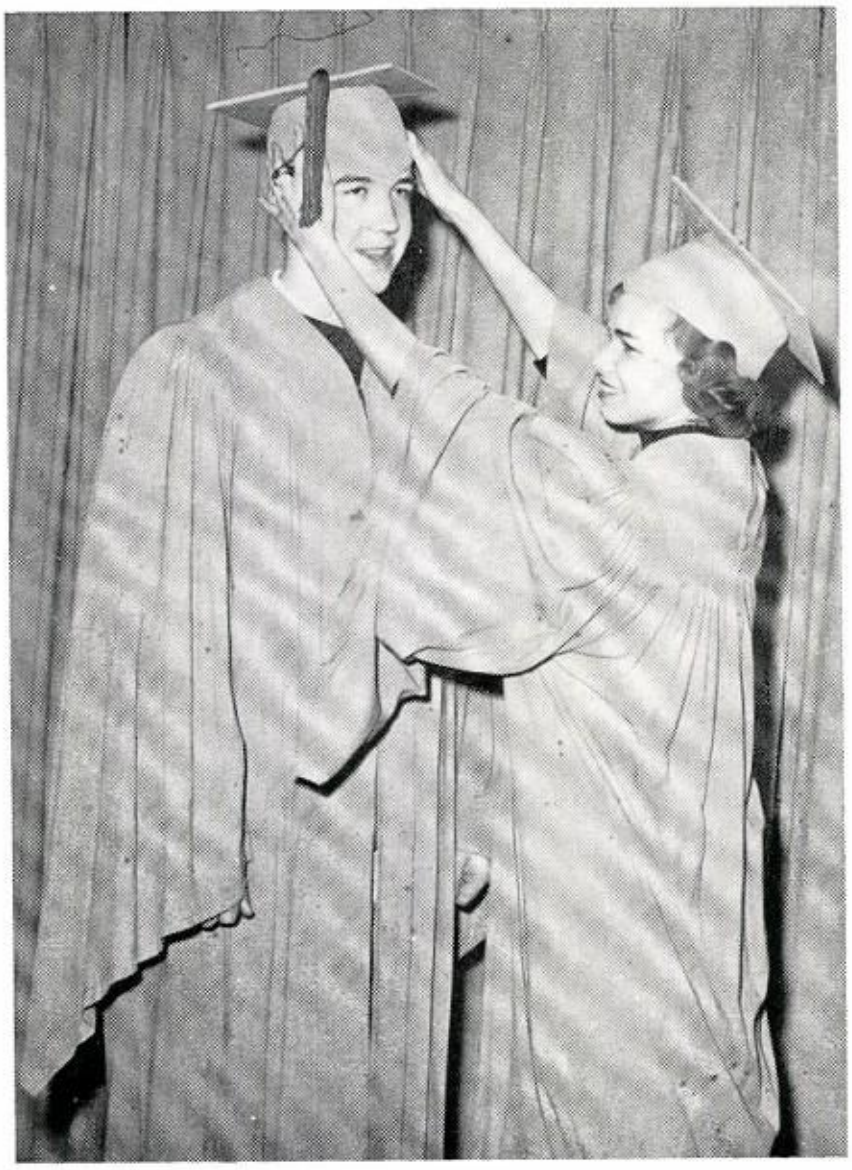
With the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" the seniors of 1961 marched down the aisle at Commencement Junie 1. Mr. Harmon H. Bro, educator, author and editor, and lecturer at Northland College, Ashland, Wisconsin, was the speaker at this ceremony. As their diploma was handed to them a look of pride and accomplishments was radiated on the seniors' faces. This occasion, with its serious solemnity, was the highlight of the year. It closed the doors of high school and opened the doors to the world and its opportunities.

The long awaited Awards Assembly was held May 26. The seniors, dressed in their caps and gowns, anxiously awaited to discover who would be named to Who's Who. The deserving seniors received their Tigers with a feeling of humble pride and accomplishment. Scholarships were awarded by groups and organizations to students who plan to further their education.

An inspiration to all seniors was the beautiful Baccalaureate Service held on May 28 in the auditorium. The B Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Robert Myers, provided the music. A sermonette was given which inspired all seniors to reach new goals.



MAKING PREPARATIONS FOR GRADUATION. Ruth, Ann Emstad attempted to straighten John Olson's cap before they walked down the aisle to receive their diplomas.

As the important date drew near, lights could be seen burning long into the night in Albert Lea High School, as junior prom committee members worked to complete preparations for the 1961 Junior-Senior Prom. The committees were headed by chairmen selected by the Junior Class officers. The theme "Candyland" was carried out through attractive decorations in the Central High School Gym and in the cafeteria, where the traditional buffet dinner was served. Prom goers danced to the music of the Marv Tenhoff Band.

Representing the junior class among local businessmen were the 14 Kiwanis representatives. This is the fifth year of participation in the Kiwanis program. The delegates attended regular luncheon meetings and reported on past and future events at the high school.

An important event to each student in his junior year is the day he receives his class ring — a symbol of his class which he will wear with pride for many years to come. The 1962 emblem was a 10 karat gold ring with raised shield and white gold initials of the owner. It was selected from several samples.

Required subjects for juniors were English and American history. Many juniors took physics, chemistry or biology to meet the requirement of one science during the three high school years.

Jeffrey Brooke and Mary Neibuhr brought a sense of achievement to the Junior Class by qualifying as semi-finalists for a trip to Europe during the summer sponsored by the American Field Service.

THE 1962 CLASS RING—received and worn with pride by members of the class of 1926. Its long and colorful history makes the ring a tradition, and juniors anxiously await the arrival of the class symbol each spring. The shield which appears in the inset was designed by Mr. Byron Crabbe in 1913, and has been used in varying forms since that time. The ring is chosen from a selection of designs presented to the class in the fall by its officers.

GETTING READY for the Sophomore Party involved much hard work, but the students were enjoying themselves as they danced to the music of the Swing Band.

BESIDES DANCING, the party also provided an opportunity for the students to become better acquainted with their classmates.

Class Party, Elections Introduce

Class elections were the first big project. After a vigorous and profitable campaign, Keith Kuiters was elected president; Susan Hendrickson, vice president; Linda Petersen, secretary; and Nancy Wing, treasurer.

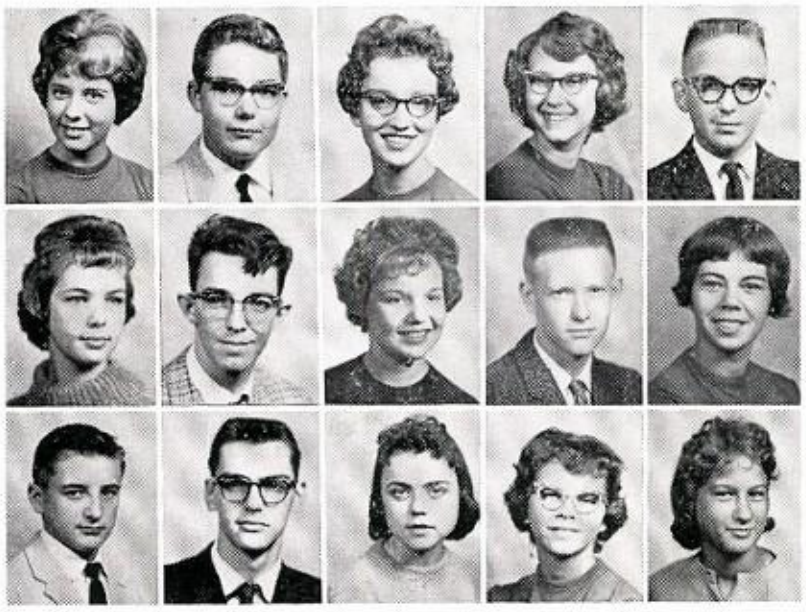
With Homecoming came many new activities for the sophomores. Each of the homerooms worked diligently on its float, striving to capture the prize offered for the best float in the parade. Attending the coronation of the Homecoming Queen for the first time left deep impressions in the minds of the underclassmen.

The traditional Sophomore Party found the sophomores decked in their very best attire. The Swing Band furnished the music for the gala event which was held in the Boys' Gym in April.

The sophomores captured a large role in the annual production of the Tiger's Roar. Many new acts and the enthusiasm of the sophomores contributed largely to the success of the production, entitled "Showboat."

Throughout the entire school year the Sophomore Class contributed much ot the success and educational development of the 1961 school year. It also received much in the field of education and in the valuable experiences of working together with fellow students.

Miss Alice Gammel and Mr. Warner Nettleton assisted the class during the year as class advisers.



FIRST ROW: Bjerke, Bleckeberg, Blocker, Bluhm, Boelke. SECOND ROW: Boettcher, Boyer, Braaten, Bradley, Brand. THIRD ROW: Brandt, Breamer, Broitzman, Broskoff, Brott.

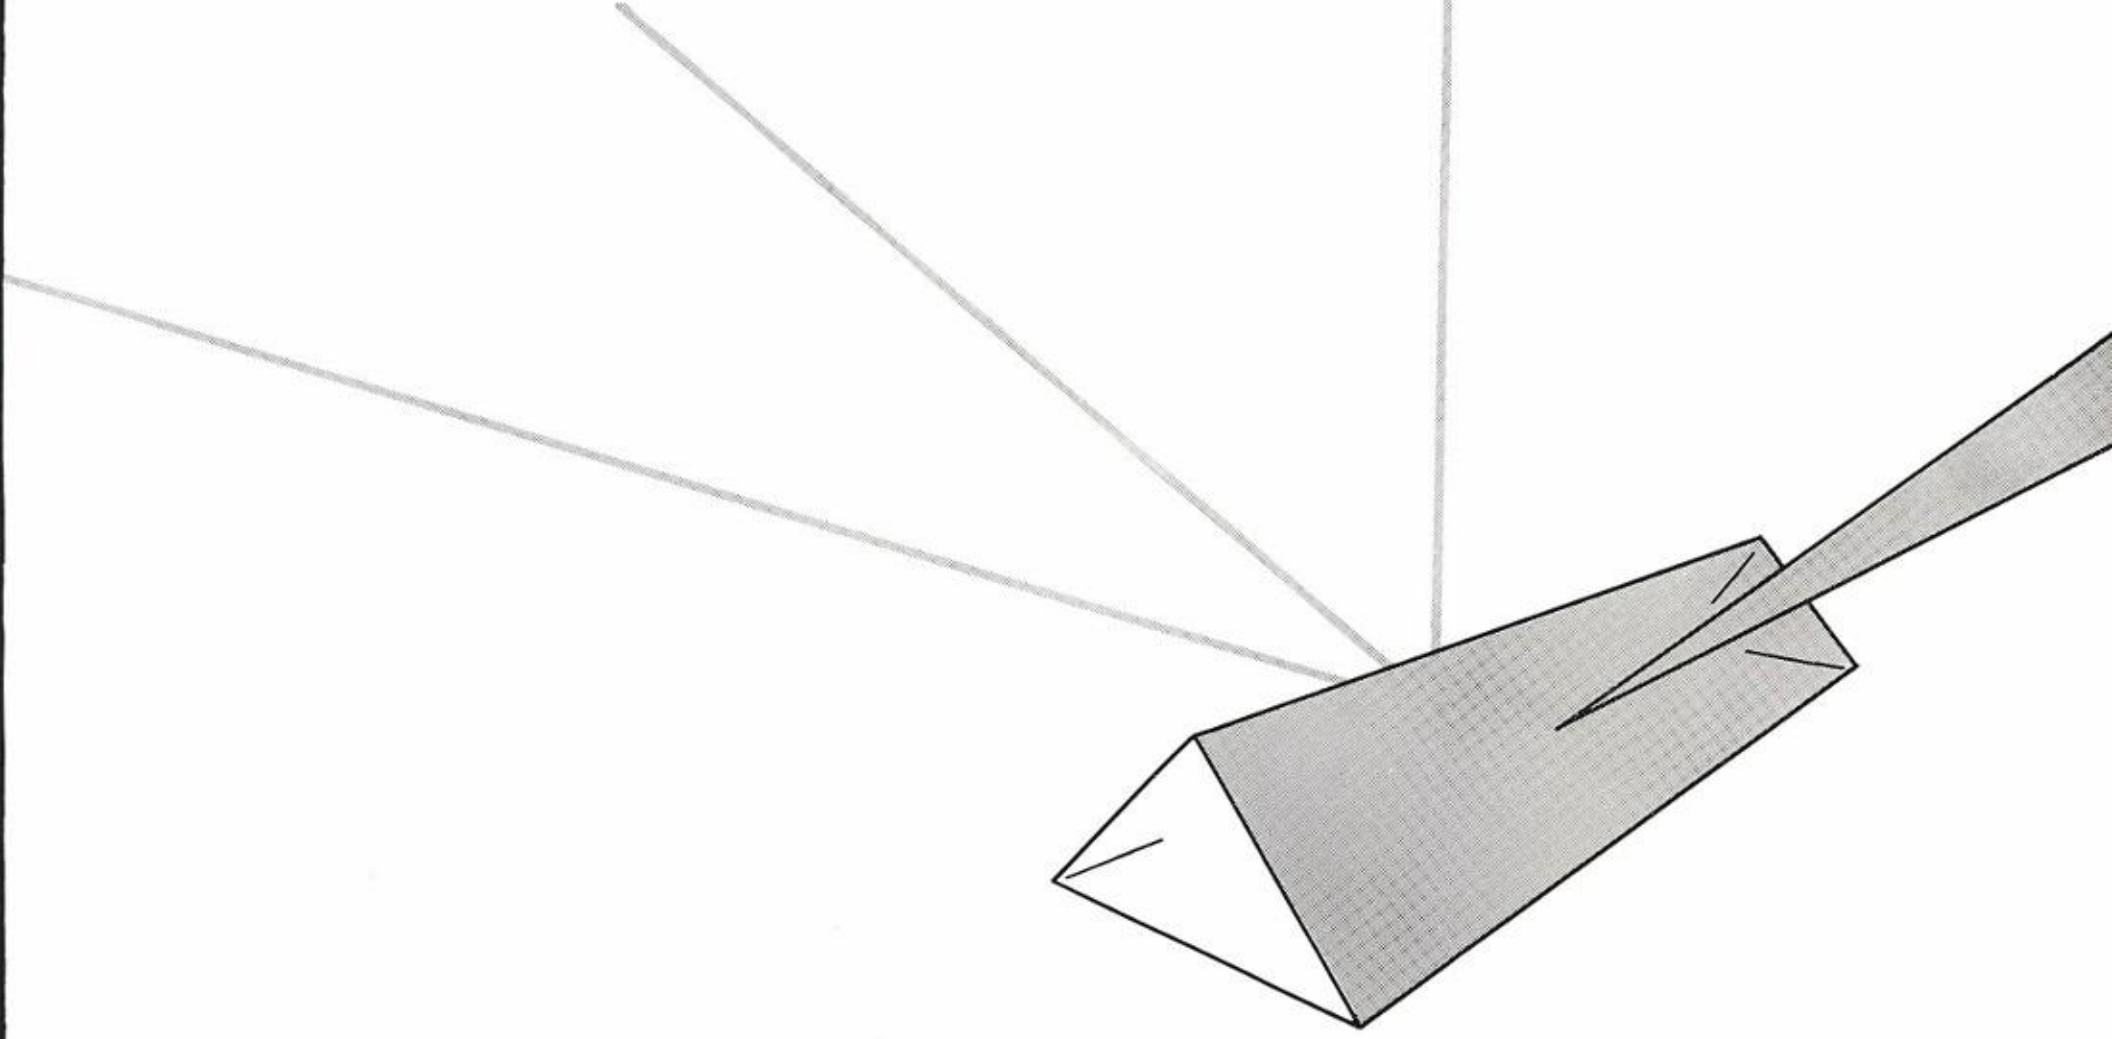
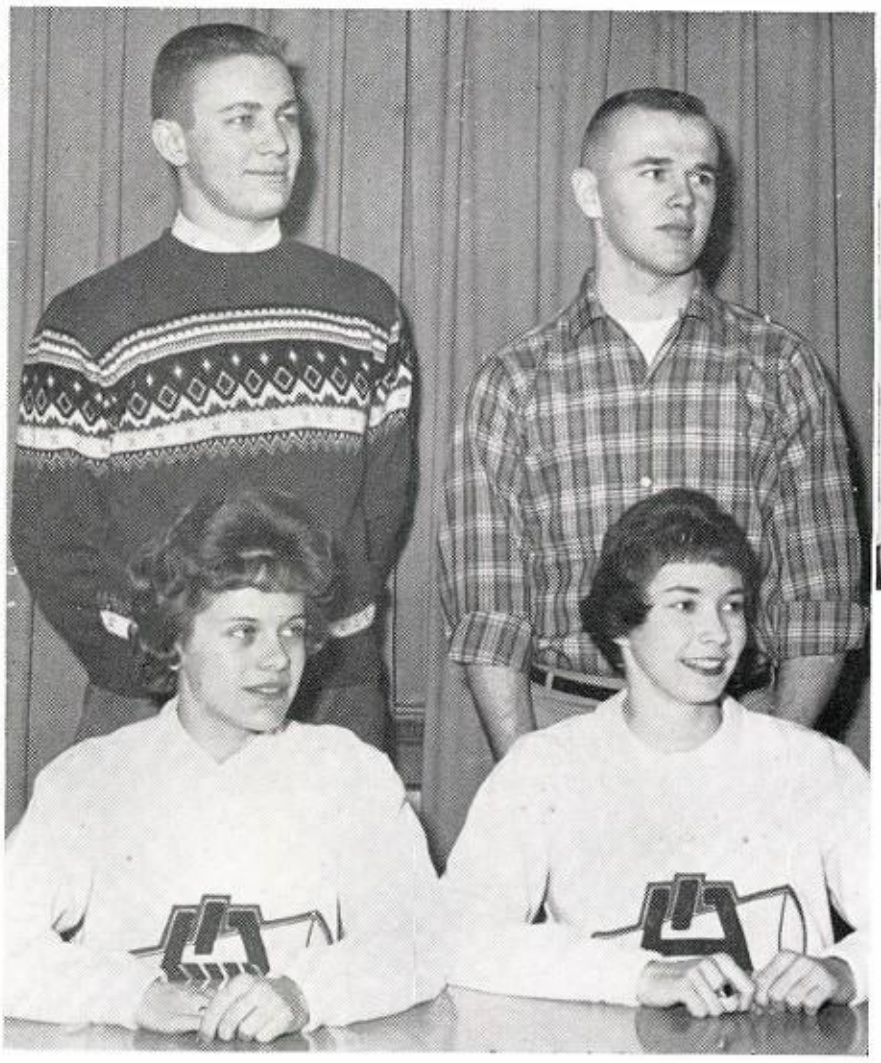
ORGANIZATIONS

Each organization had its specific duties, but many times extra work was required of officers and members alike. With the addition of several new organizations and the revival of a few old ones, the extra-curricular program was expanded. Student participation helped to maintain the activeness of each group and again reflected the school spirit that existed thruout the year.





PRESIDING over all Council and Cabinet meetings were the four executive officers: Sandra Hanson, secretary; Margit Larson, treasurer; Paul Wilke, president; and Richard Oliphant, vice president.

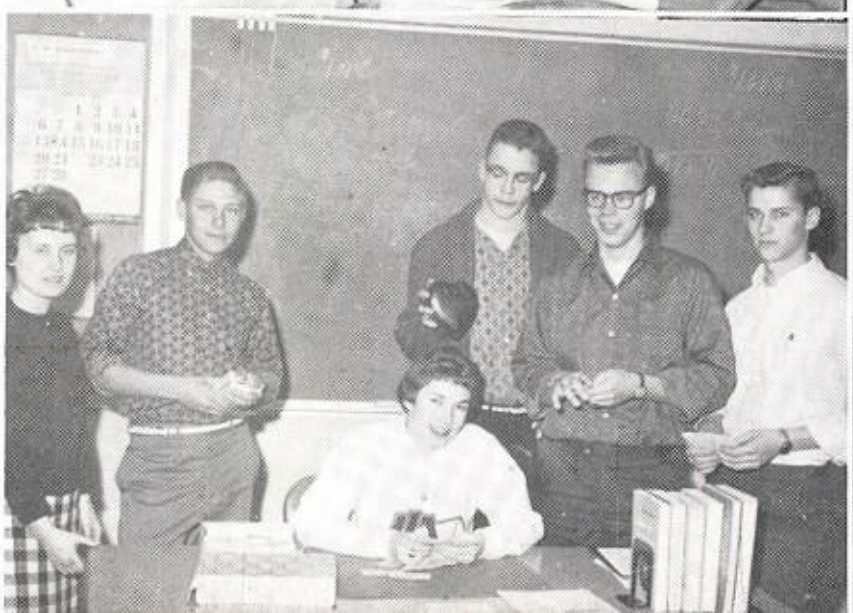
Council Builds

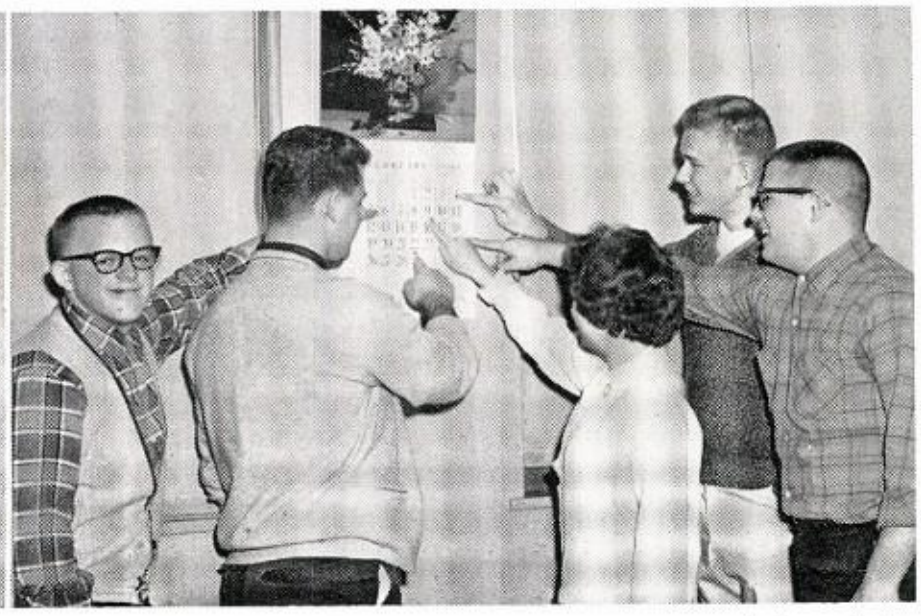
COUNTING THE BALLOTS of all the elections held was the duty of the Elections Committee: Judith Johnson, Judith Goldman, Robert Wallace, Larry Allen and Kathryn Sipple.

TAKING CHARGE of all the financial problems of the council were Laurie Anderson, Charles Peterson, David Wilcox, Keith Kuiters, Michael O'Byrne and Margit Larson, Finance Committee members.

REFERRING TO Robert's Rules of Order for correct council procedure was the Parliamentarian Committee: Harold Mueller, Susan Hendrickson, Richard Oliphant, Janice Brandt and William Jenner.



HOSPITALITY COMMITTEE members, Donald J. Nelson, Barbara Gurwell, Darlene Peterson and Maridee Alm, showed Bernard Bouvet, foreign exchange student, the lockers in the new addition.



"WHICH DAY SHALL IT BE?" was the question of Larry Lahs, Stephen Claybourn, Judith Ann Olson, Steven Person and Jeffrey Brooke, Social Committee members, as they decided dance dates.

Student Character, Plans Projects

Working together to gain a better knowledge of government procedure, the Student Council attempted to solve the problem of the students.

The first major project of the year was Homecoming. Using the slogan "Wallop Washburn," the energetic students worked diligently to make the Homecoming festivities fun and successful.

Again this year the Council sponsored Sadie Hawkins Day. A committee was chosen to set up rules for the day. A $2 prize was given to the girl who caught the most elusive bachelor, Paul Wilke.

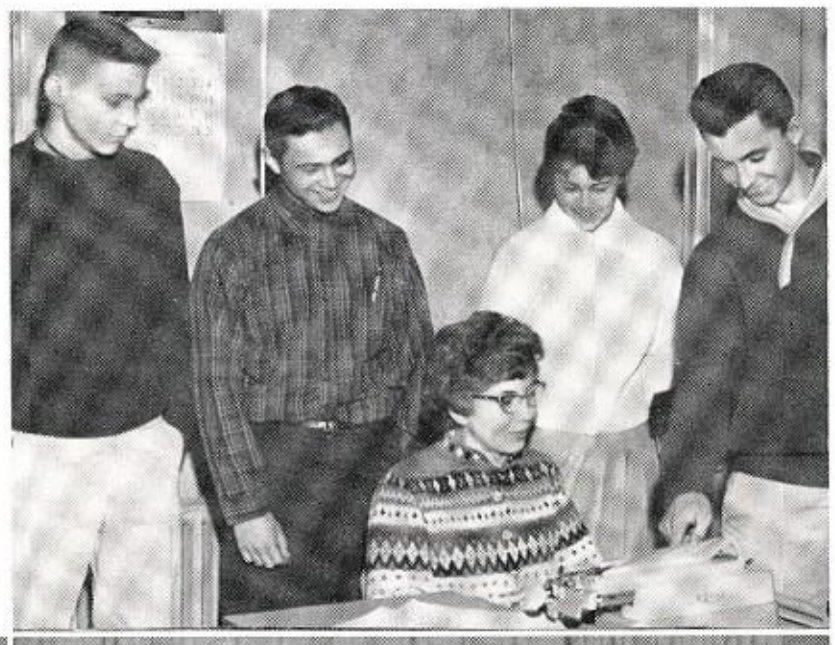
Instead of having the traditional Charity Tree this year, a contest was held between the homerooms. Each room's donations were recorded on a chart.

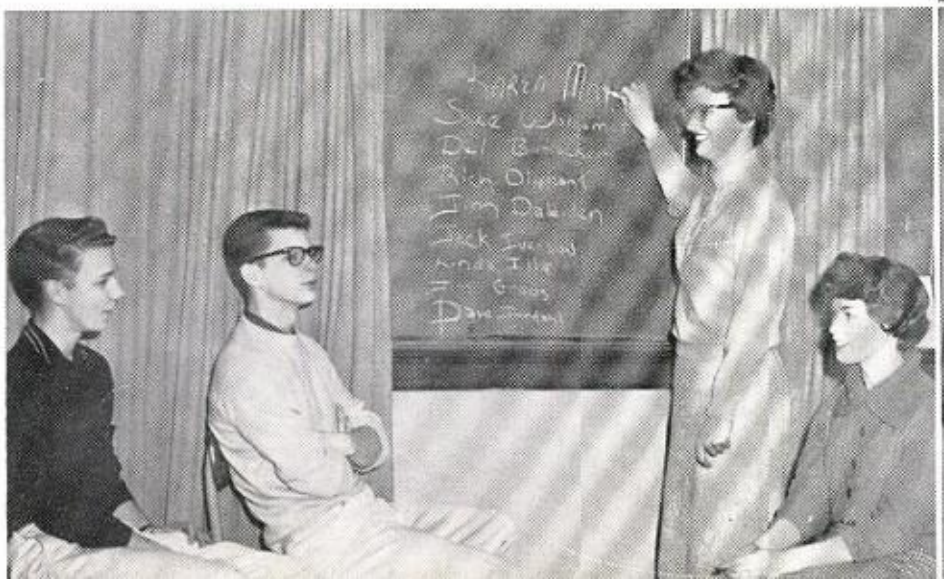
Under the direction of Mr. Robert L. Myers and Mr. R. Wayne Cleveland, the sixteenth annual Tiger's Roar was presented to the public January 28, 30 and 31. The theme was "Showboat."

DECIDING who would get an oscar each month was the problem facing the Oscar Committee, composed of Lowell Gunderson, David Jordahl, Elaine Posthumus and Sara Shoemaker.

TYPING THE LIST of weekly panel members was Karen Mathews as other Youth Forum Committee members, Steven Spurr, Bruce Waterman, Kathryn Taylor and William Harding, watched.

PUBLICIZING ALL EVENTS and making posters was the job of the Publicity Committee: Camille Zavitz, Gary Roelofs, Dallas Breamer, John Sullivan and William Danielsen.





A Chorus Strives for Perfection;

PRACTICING DILIGENTLY for the coming A Chorus concerts were Mary Lindeman, Sharon Blizard and Carole Lee.

Performing for various events throughout the year, the A Chorus was continually striving for perfect harmony and organization through daily practice.

Under the direction of Robert L. Myers, the 103 voice choir made its first appearance at the Homecoming Coronation ceremony with the singing of "La Czarine." They also sang for the Thanksgiving Convocation.

To set the mood for the Yuletide season, they presented both light and serious numbers for the annual candlelight Christmas Concert. They received much applause at the Christmas for the Service Clubs.

With the holiday season past, they began perfecting their numbers for the Spring Concert. At the Big Nine Music Festival, held in Winona, they blended their voices with the massed choruses of the other Big Nine schools and presented an individual concert.

With the singing of "You'll Never Walk Alone" at Commencement Exercises, the chorus made its final appearance of the year, and the senior members made their last appearance as A Chorus members.

Chorale Shows Music Talent, Skills

An addition to the regular chorus groups this year was the boys' Glee Club. Under the direction of Mr. Robert Myers, chorus instructor, the club was initiated by boys from the A Chorus and later included interested boys whose schedules did not allow them to include chorus in their curriculums.

The Christmas season proved to be one of the busiest times of the year for the Chorale. Formerly known as the Madrigal Singers, the group of 48 select voices performed nightly during the holiday season and made special performances at the Christmas and spring concerts and the Big Nine Music Festival at Winona. Practices, directed by Mr. Myers, were held each Tuesday evening. A tobogganing party and a steak fry picnic highlighted the group's social events for the year.

Composed entirely of sophomores, the B Chorus served as the training group for music aspirants. The chorus was mixed for the first time in three years. Performances were given at the Christmas and Spring Concerts and at the seniors' Baccalaureate Service in May.

Senior High Band Displays Talents

Performing at concerts, football and basketball games were just a few of the activities of the Albert Lea High School Band. Under the direction of Mr. Lawrence J. Emmons, the band could be heard each morning first hour during practice.

Members of a selected pep band helped the cheerleaders lead the students in the school songs at the pep assemblies. At the Homecoming game the entire band entertained spectators as it presented a special halftime program. The band played the traditional " La Czarine" and formed a crown before the Queen and her court. Also featured were a rousing charleston number and a series of marching techniques.

Band members not only performed during the school year but also in the summer months. They presented concerts at Fountain Lake Park and played daily at the Freeborn County Fair during the four days.

Highlighting the year was the annual spring concert held April 12. On May 5 band members journeyed to Winona for the Big Nine Music Festival.

Assisting Mr. Emmons throughout the year were the band officers: David Jordahl, student director; Donna Rusley, librarian; and Sara Shoemaker, secretary.

Swing Band Captivates Music Fans

GOING BACK to the Roaring Twenties were Roger Christianson, Merlin Tostrud, John Schwen and David Jordahl as they rehearsed their jazzy Dixieland number for the Tiger's Roar.

The Swing Band continued to provide a musical touch for various school events in its sixteenth year of existence as a supplement to the senior high band. Included in its many performances were approximately eight school dances, the Tiger's Roar and a program for the annual National Cooperatives, Inc., meeting.

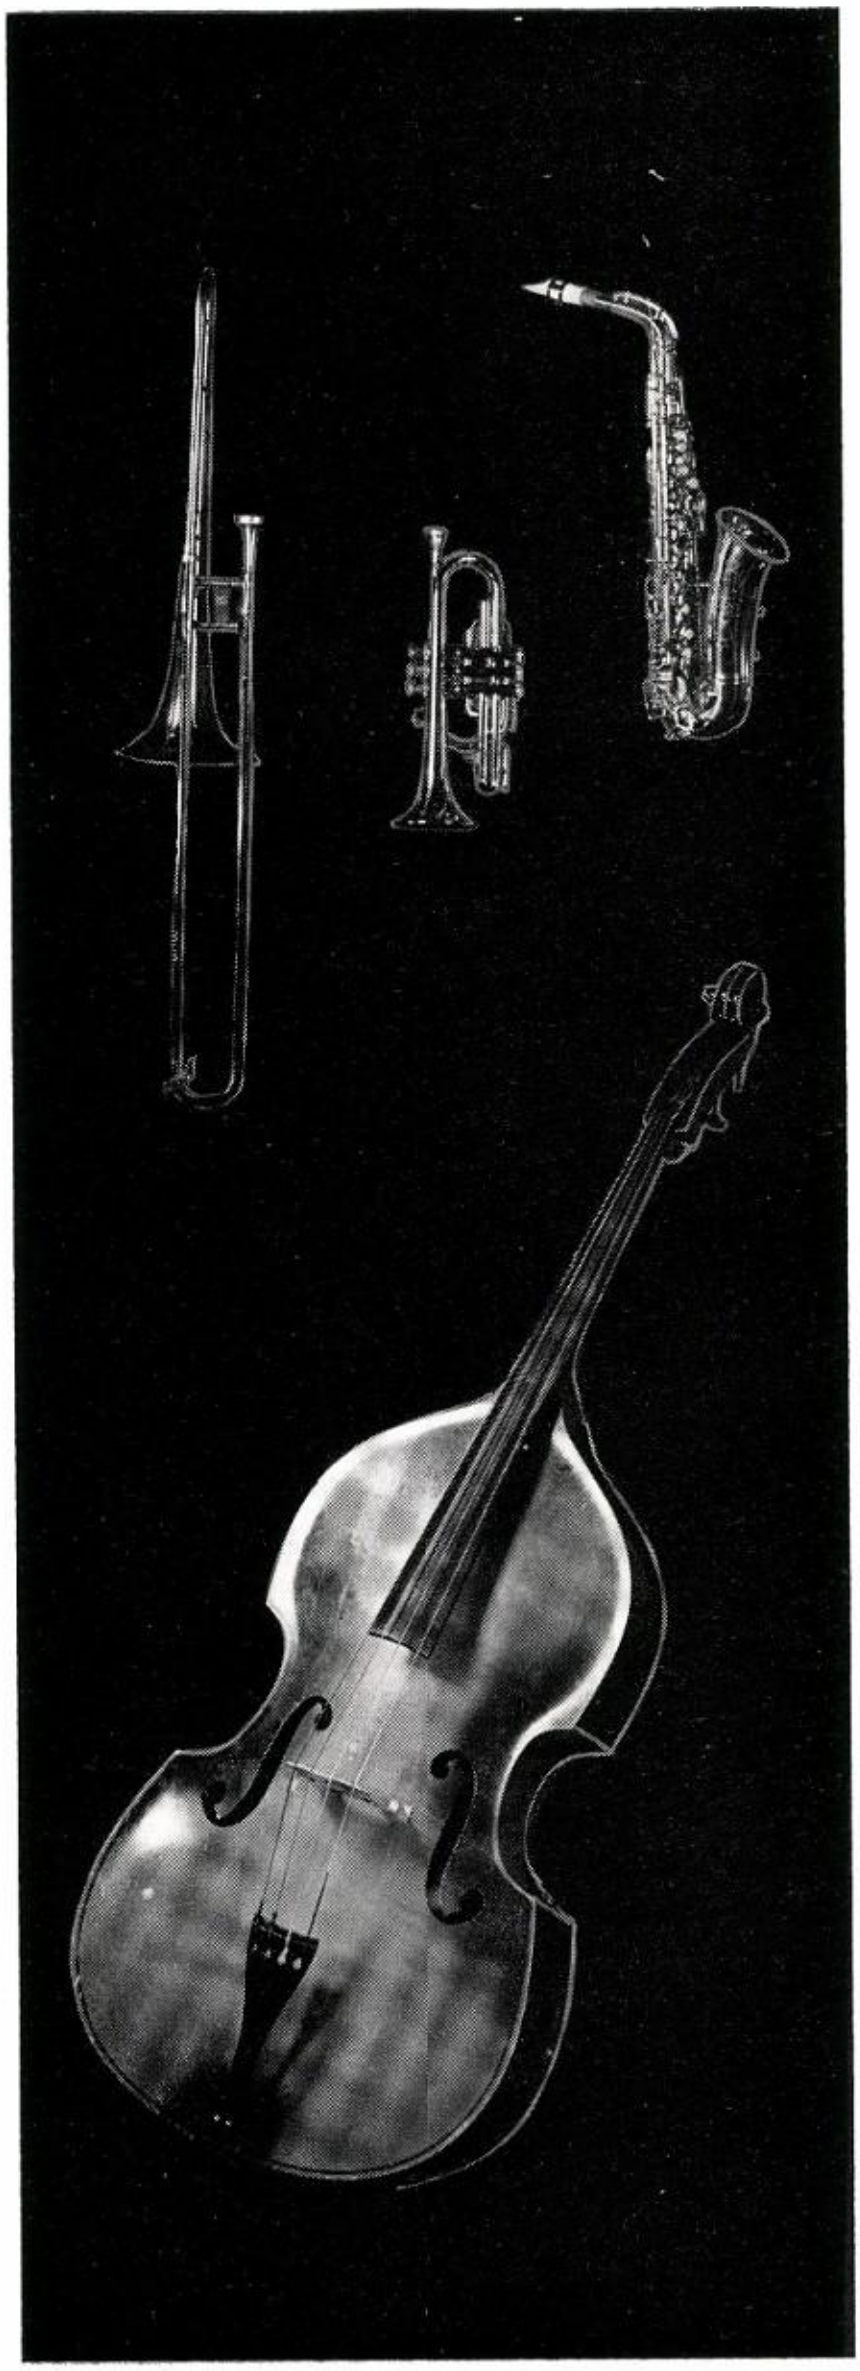
Under the direction of Mr. Lawrence J. Emmons, senior high band instructor, the band members held weekly practices in the band room of the high school. most of their musical arrangements used during the year were those of Art Dedrick and Duke Ellington.

David Jordahl was the student director. Saxophonists included David and Arthur Speltz, seniors, and Thomas Counters, Lowell Syverson and Wayne Mortenson, juniors. John Schwen and Larry Nelson, seniors, and Peter Cooper, sophomore, played trombones. Trumpet players were Roger Christianson, Barry Yocum and Richard Anderson, seniors. Senior Brian Xavier played the piano and sophomores James Johnson and Merlin Tostrud played the string bass and drums.

David, John, Merlin and Roger were also members of the Dixieland Combo, an addition to the Swing Band this year. This group's main appearance was in the Tiger's Roar. David also acted as the leader of this group, which specialized in various jazz arrangements.

"CAREFUL BOY, watch out for the arm!" exclaimed Brian Xavier as Barry Yocom attempted to help while Larry Nelson watched their antics in an attitude of utter helplessness.

With New Styles



A NEW FORMATION? Well, Thomas Counters, Lowell Syverson, Wayne Mortenson and David Jordahl, members of the Swing Band, claimed they were busily practicing!

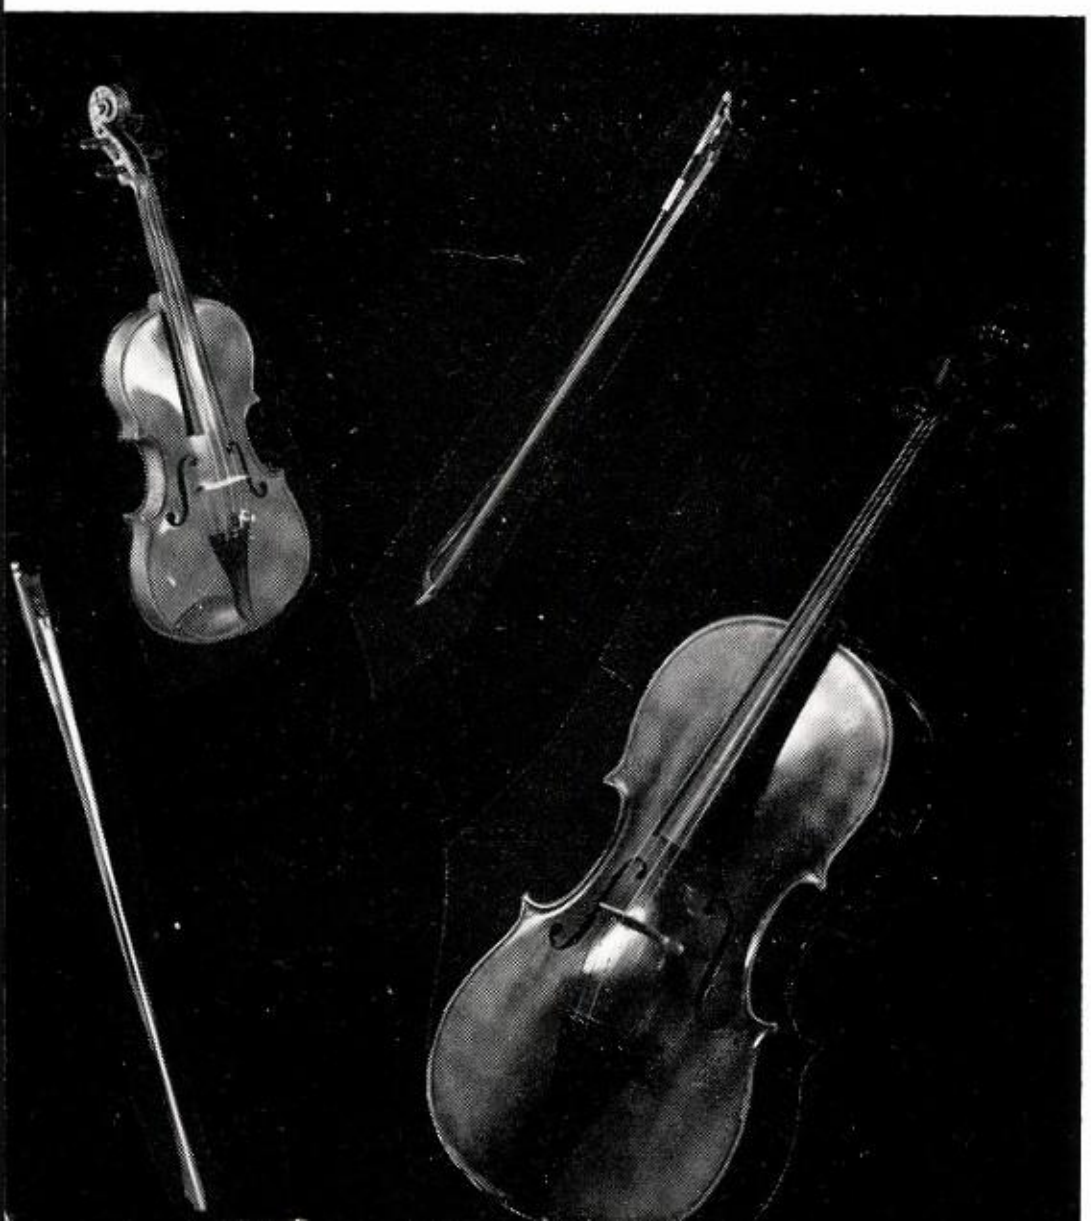
Senior Orchestra Attains High Goals



Strains of music could be heard coming from the third floor of the junior high, where under the instruction and leadership of Mr. Winton Melby, the Senior High School Orchestra practiced during first hour.

An occasional sectional practice was held. During these each section would perfect the weak parts in its music selections. Challenging was also a familar sight, with each student trying to become a first chair player.

Striving for perfection, the members spent many hours practicing for the numerous performances during the year. The major performances was the annual Christmas Concert which was given for both the public and the school. In the spring of the year, the orchestra was kept busy with the annual Spring Concert as well as graduation. The concert was given May 1 in the high school auditorium. There, among the formal atmosphere, the audience heard the beautiful music played by the orchestra. The orchestra played for Baccalaureate and Commencement at Southwest.

A few members were given the honor of being selected to play in the Big Nine Select Orchestra at the annual Big Nine Music Festival at Winona, Minnesota, May 5. At the festival the orchestra displayed its musicial abilities before the Big Nine Schools and compared itself with the other participating schools.

In Quality, Harmony, Perfection

STRIVING FOR PERFECTION before a performance was the violin trio, Marline Minear, Barbara Anderson and Kathleen Westrum.

"THAT'S THE WAY TO DO IT!" commented Cynthia Wilson as Mary Tufte and James Johnson tried playing the same bass.

"REGARDEZ LE EIFEL TOWER," commented Mademoiselle Joan Draayer to Mademoiselle Peggy Dudley, who held a Petite duplicate of the famous tower in her hand.

To learn more about France, its customs and its language, the French club listened to music, both old and new, read famous books and stories in their original form and viewed movies on Paris and other parts of the country. This proved to be a definite aid in helping students to become linguists.

However, it was not all work for the French enthusiasts. In November the French I students planned a hay ride, and later both classes sponsored a dance. Profits made on dances were pooled by the two French I classes and the three French II classes to buy pins and finance parties. At Chirstmas time the members read Christmas stories and learned many French carols.

Adding a realistic touch to these informal sessions, Bernard Bouvet, AFS student from France, told of his family and social life in France and the United States.

Throughout the year, Mrs. Barbara Verdoorn, French I instructor, and Miss Ruth Bauer, French II instructor, advised the students in planning their activities. Miss Bauer helped carry through the interest in the French Club by relating her personal experiences in Europe.

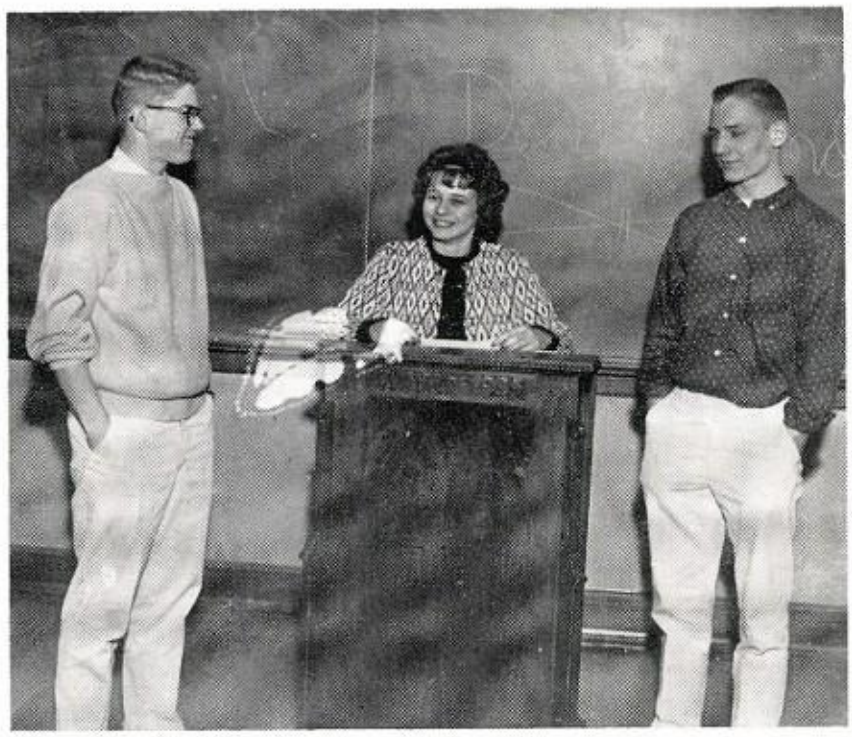
In its second year of existence at Albert Lea High School, the German Club, under its adviser Mr. Luverne Ahrndt, experienced a year filled with varied activities.

A dance was sponsored by the club after a football game. Members of the club decorated the gym and took charge of selling tickets and providing the music. Girl members became busy in the spring of the year preparing all sorts of delicious, homemade cakes, pies and breadstuffs. These goods were used for the spring bake sale which was held at a local store.

Through their energy and hard work spent on the bake sale and the dance in the fall, members raised funds which were used for CARE packages and Radio Free Europe. The CARE packages were wooden crates which consisted of materials and articles needed and required by the needy people throughout the world.

A spring picnic for all members was held at Edgewater Park. All members enjoyed the frollicking affair and the tempting dishes at this semi-potluck.

Assisting Mr. Ahrndt in planning the activities for the year were the officers: Daniel Bisgaard, president; James Daleiden, vice president; Gervaise Wilhelm secretary; and Martha Sherman, treasurer.



"LISTEN to what I have to say," said Gervaise Wilhelm to Gary Davidson and Dennis Kappas as she prepared her German speech.

Club Members Attend Banquet,

'HOW'S THIS ONE?" said Mary Haskins to the other committeemen, David Boyer, Barbara Collins and John Sullivan as they planned the decorations for the Latin banquet.

JUDITH KENNELLY and Claudia Erickson were frantically trying to make their sheets look like togas before the Latin banquet.

Junior Classical League is composed of Latin I and II students and also those students who have taken two years of Latin in previous years.

The two main programs of the JCL were the banquet and the State JCL Convention. At the traditional banquet held on April 15 in Bethany Hall at the Frst Lutheran Church, members tried to recapture Roman customs by dressing in togos as the ancient Romans did. The program consisted of a skit and a talk.

On April 29 JCL members attended the State JCL Convention at Winona High School. The convention was in the form of a workshop. Those attending divided into different groups. The groups were responsible for service, money-making projects, programs and a scrapbook. Judith Kennelly, the State Secretary Scriptor, helped plan the program for this convention.

A caroling party was held in December. After the members had sung at several places they returned to the high school cafeteria for refreshments.

Miss Bernice Nervig, Latin teacher, was the adviser for the group. She worked with the officers in planning the year's activities. Officers were Judith Dugstad, president; Claudia Erickson, vice president; and Nancy Wing, secretary-treasurer.

Students Study Culture, Obtain Pins

AT THE LAST MINUTE the two Mary Ellens (Paulson and Keil) busily worked on the pinata for the Spanish Club party.

Spanish food, games and a pinata were the main features of the Spanish party held in February. Songs were sung and Spanish games were played.

At Christmas time Spanish carols were sung in class. Skits, plays and readings were given by each class. Together with French Club, a sock-hop was sponsored after one of the wrestling matches. Gold pins in the shape of a Mexican sombrero with the club's inscription were bought by students.

Slides, films and filmstrips were used to obtain a greater knowledge of Spanish culture. Students brought souvenirs of Mexico. Also aiding a great deal were the phonograph and tape recorder. Miss Ruth Bauer, Spanish Club instructor, subscribed to several magazines to get information from Spanish countries.

First year students learned the common vocabulary and past and present verb conjugations. Main emphasis during the second year was on speaking. Translations, dictations and short stories were used.

Each class had its own officers — Julie Paulson and Ruth Emstad, presidents; William Harding and Jean Madson, vice presidents; and Barbara Slife and Susan Wolgamot, secretary-treasurers.

Republicans Join New Organization

Entering new this year into High School extra-curricular activities was the Teenage Republican League.

The TRL began in the fall. Its members began taking an active part not only in the national presidential election, but also in the state and local elections. At weekly meetings, the TRL discussed ways in which the club could help campaigning, heard speakers from the local Republican party and helped with local rallies.

The biggest event for many of the TRL members came when they traveled to Rochester to hear Mr. Richard Nixon, the Republican candidate for President, speak at a rally. Many other state and local candidates were met at this and similar rallies. Such meetings helped the members become better acquainted with the candidates and with the important campaign issues.

Each member made posters to advertise the club and to gain new members. Membership cards were obtained from the national society by the president.

Meetings, held each Monday after school, were conducted by Steven Spurr, president, and Gail Ravenhorst, secretary-treasurer.

CAMPAIGNING VIGOROUSLY for the Republican Party were TRL members Cynthia Bothof, Nancy Bolinger, Linda Ille and Jane Nelson.

FIRST ROW: B. Larson, Bothof, Knudson, Ravenhorst, Jordahl, Bolinger, B. Jenson, C. Hansen, Jacobson. SECOND ROW: B. Hanson, Sprankle, B. Veldman, Engbritson, J. Nelson, Jordahl, Posthumus, S. Drama Students Adopt New Name,

SEARCHING FOR NEW PLAYS were officers Carole Lee, exterior vice president; Lois Hassberg, treasurer; Cheryl Lutner, secretary; Myreen Gavle, president; and Suzanne Helgeson, interior vice president.

Adopting Script and Gavel as the new name for the drama club, the dramatists worked diligently collecting properties, painting sets and delivering posters for their two major prodctions of the year.

The first production was "Great Caesar's Ghost." This three-act play illustrated, in a humorous way, what happens to those who have been led astay by hypnotism, the supernatural and the world beyond.

The spring play, "The Madwoman of Chaillot," a poetic and comic fable set in the twilight zone of the not-quite-true, was presented in April. The two-act play told of a group of promoters who plotted to tear up Paris in order to unearth the oil which a prospector believed he had located in the neighborhood.

Members of the club possessed an avid interest in dramatics. They journeyed by bus to the St. Paul auditorium to see the Broadway production of "Five Finger Exercise," a musical comedy.

Advancement into the National Thespian Society resulted after many hours of work. Officers were Roxanne Wehrhan, president; Carolyn Farry, vice president; Barbara Slife, secretary; and Karen Mathews, treasurer. Mr. Wayne Cleveland acted as adviser.

"HOLD THE TURKEY" (Judith Olson), said Mary Lindeman to Sharon Blizard as she prepared to cut off its head, while Dee Ellertson anxiously awaited a slice of meat at the Hi-Teens potluck.

Hi-Teens members began the year's activities by working for a better Homecoming. They decorated for the Homecoming Dance, made pom poms for the football game and entered a float in the parade.

A Thanksgiving potluck was held on November 16. Members dressed in costumes associated with Thanksgiving. After the supper each class presented a skit.

At the January meeting Bernard Bouvet, foreign exchange student, spoke about his native country, France. He told about the customs of France and also gave his views of the American way of life.

American Field Service student Barbara Slife also spoke at one of the meetings. She showed slides and told of her experiences in Belgium. Following her talk there was an opportunity to ask questions.

The Hi-Teens Executive Council, consisting of two girls from each grade in senior high, met with the officers and advisers to plan programs and projects for the year. Acting as advisers were Mrs. Helen Heath, Miss Ruth Bauer and Miss Edyth Olson.

Striving to serve those in need, both locally and internationally, was the goal of this year's Junior Red Cross. It attempted to create good will among races throughout the United States and foreign countries.

Each homeroom, at the beginning of the year, elected a representative. Anyone was welcome to attend the meetings. Special courses were available in first aid.

Presiding at the Red Cross meetings was Judith Moffit, president. Assisting with other duties were Pamela Lindahl, vice president, and Barbara Hegland, secretary-treasurer. Miss Ruth Woods was the Freeborn County chairman, and Mr. Rene Wambach was chosen to be teacher-sponsor for the school.

One of the special money-making projects this year was a paper drive held in the early part of October. The money collected helped finance other services to the community, including making gifts boxes, filling the traditional school chest, sending magazines to veterans and working in blood centers.

An annual fund drive was held February 7-10. Donations were collected in each of the homerooms throughout the week. A dance, sponsored by the Junior Red Cross, climaxed the drive.

TYPING UP BUNDLES and making bundles of newspapers for the annual Red Cross paper drive in November were Judith Moffith, Carol Ekstrum, Connie Sweet and Steven Munson.

JOINING THE RED CROSS during the membedship drive was Karen Meixell as Suzanne Helgeson and gave her a membership card.

Riflemen Stress Perfection, Safety

PRACTICE MAKES PERFECT was the motto followed by Terry Sorenson as he attempted to make a bull's-eye.

"LOOK, I HIT THE BULL'S-EYE," exclaimed Terry as he practiced marksmanship at the Rifle Club meeting.

In its fourth year of existence, the Rifle Club attained its highest number of active members since the establishment of the organization. The boys met weekly, striving to improve their shooting skills, to become good sportsmen and to practice safety in shooting.

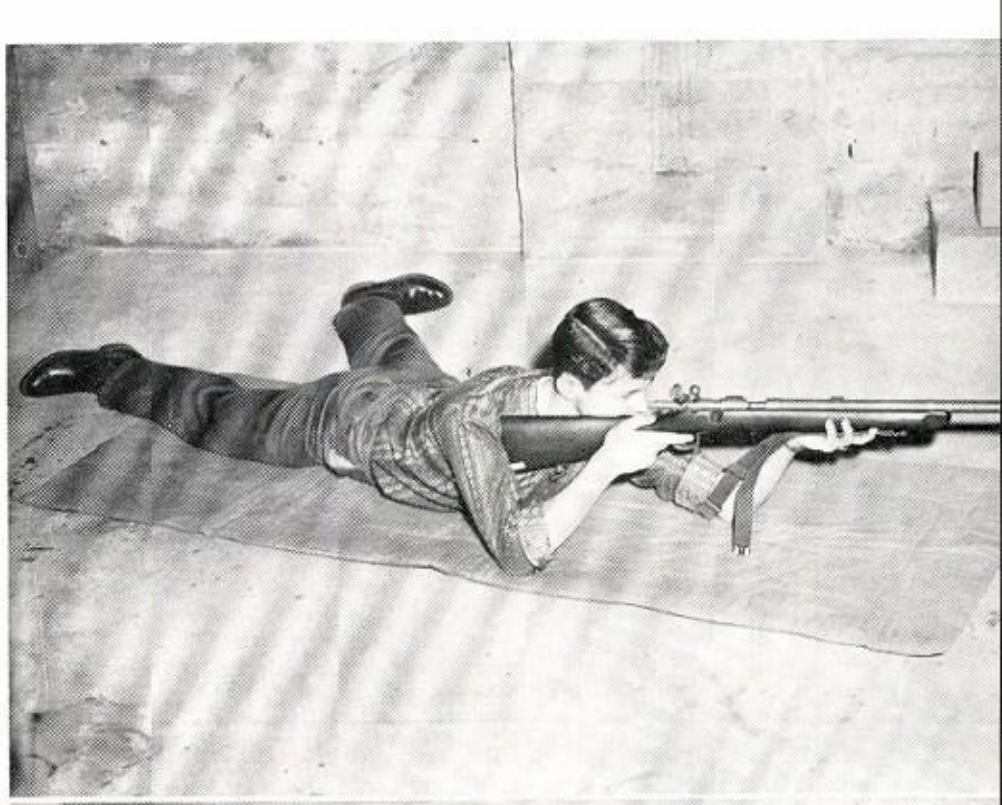
The club, sponsored by the federal government, was affiliated with the National Rifle Association. Ammunition and heavy .22 caliber target rifles with peep sights were supplied by the government from army surplus supplies. Individual medals offered by the NRA as prizes for certain shooting achievements.

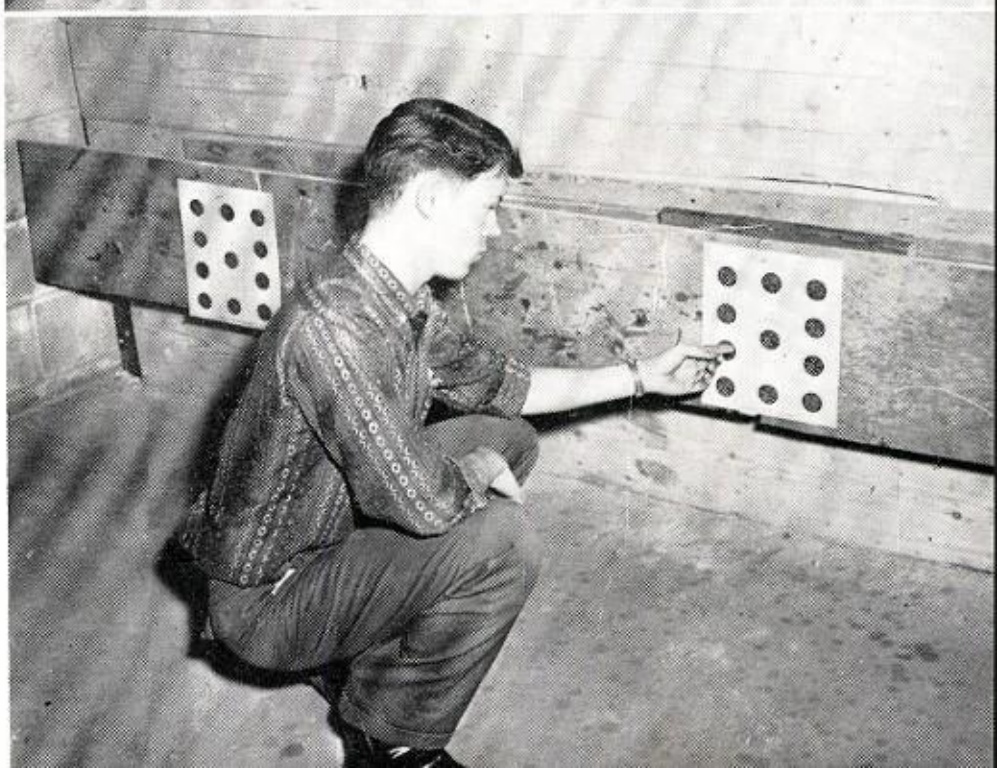
A fifty-foot shooting range behind the woodshop in 4 P.A. serve as the meeting place for practices. Here the four basic shooting positions and rules and ways of shooting were learned and practiced. Safey in practice was maintained by a strict set of rules.

Although no regular field trips were conducted, many of the boys took individual and group excursions on their own to increase their accuracy and skills.

Much of the success of the Rifle Club this year was due to the cooperation of the officers. Barry Yocum served as president, Gary Vanderside as vice president and Bill Warren acted as secretary-treasurer.

Offering his time, assistance and leadership to the club, Mr. Sydney Schwartz, industrial arts instructor, acted as the group's adviser. Mr. Vern Ahrndt, German instructor, offered his services as an assistant adviser.





Girls Usher in New Point System

"CHOW TIME" called Miss Olive Johnson to all Ushers' Club members at their potluck supper held before the Tiger's Roar.

Highlighting this year's Ushers' Club activities was the new point system. The total points necessary to receive an award had not been set, so all seniors received their award, a pin, anyway. A point was given every time one ushered, and an additional point was awarded if the usher remained for the entire program.

Under the able assistance of adviser Miss Olive Johnson, biology instructor, the Ushers' Club members have worked together to serve all those that attended school sponsored entertainment, Civic Music programs and the Passion Play from the Black Hills.

Working with Miss Johnson were the club officers: JoAnn Broitzman, president; Joyce Steinke, vice president; Janice Rice, secretary; and Judith Bartell, treasurer. With their leadership activities were planned.

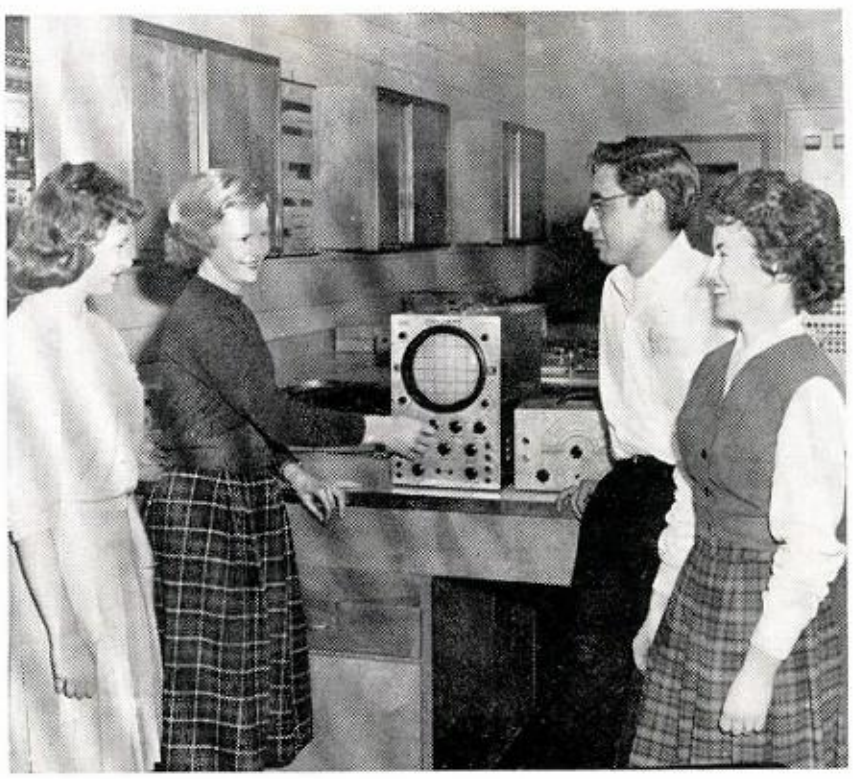
One of the highlights of the year was the potluck held January 31 before the Tiger's Roar. The girls met in the home economics room for this. Another special event of the calendar year was the Spring Tea. At the tea the results of the voting for next year's officers was announced. In addition the seniors received pins which were figured by the point system.

Science Club Features Tours

To give those students interested in science a better knowledge of the scientific fields and to encourage students to have science projects and hobbies was the aim of the Science Club. Acting as advisers for the group were Mr. Robert Anderson and Mr. Melvin Salmela. Meetings were held every Thursday.

Programs of the club included tours of various places in the city. On December 15 members toured KATE radio station. Mr. Don Franz explained broadcasting after which they watched an actual broadcast. On February 13 they spent the entire day touring different places of interest. They visited Universal Milking Company after which they toured Streater Industries. To end their day of touring they went to the Albert Lea Tribune. Another tour of interest was at Benson Optical Company. Other programs included a tape recording on brainwashing and a talk by a veterinarian. Occasionally the members viewed movies pertaining to the various fields of science. On December 22 they held their annual Christmas party.

Assisting Mr. Anderson and Mr. Salmela in planning the year's activities were the officers: Betty Tolo, president; Joe Trejo, vice president; Judith Ness, secretary; and Karen Folck, treasurer.



"IS THIS THE RIGHT BUTTON?" said Judith Ness to Betty Tolo as Joe Trejo and Karen Folck examined the new oscilloscope.

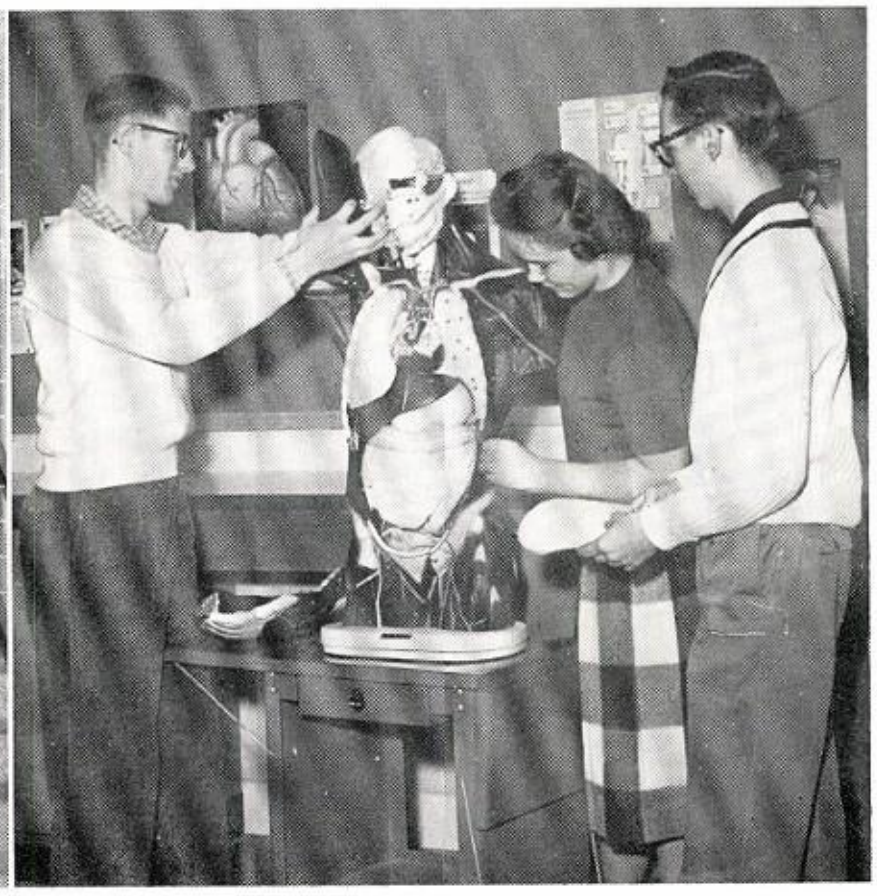
LITERALLY TAKING APART MAN was Roger Sorenson as Rachel Ackland and Dennis Riley told him what to take next.



Students Render Leadership, Ability

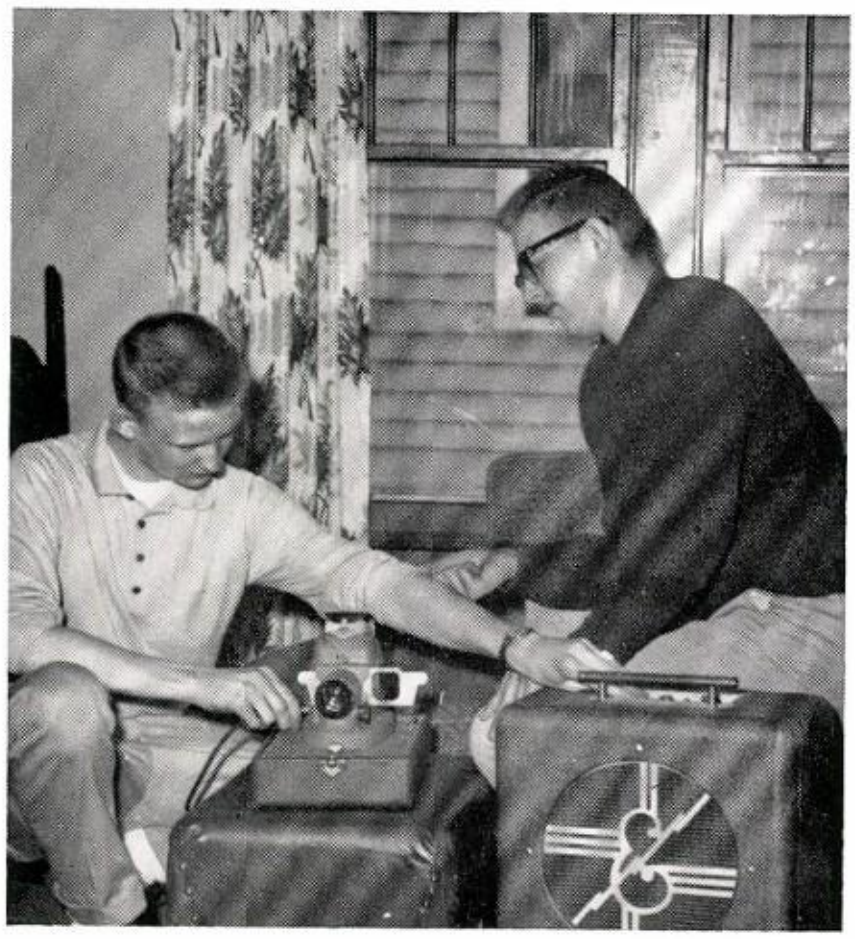
"IT'S NOT THAT WAY!" exclaimed Gene Hanson to Steven Person, audio-visual members, as Steven attempted to plug the movie projector into the wrong electrical socket.



NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

Members of the National Honor Society were selected on the basis of scholastic ability, leadership qualities, character and citizenship in the school and community. A grade average of "B" was essential.

A committee consisting of five faculty members selected students on an elimination basis, considering grade averages and the above characteristics.

Those students selected were presented with the National Honor Society key at the Awards Assembly.

AUDIO-VISUAL CLUB

The Audio-Visual Club, although greatly decreased in size, continued its service to the school under the direction of Mr. Marvin Glesne, mathematics and science instructor. Its various duties included setting up movie projectors in classrooms and running the big projector in the auditorium for assemblies. Members also cared for the audio-visual equipment.

A larger room was built in the new addition for the storage of projectors and films. This room also facilitated the previewing of movies by faculty members.

BUSILY PREPARING LUNCH for the FTA meeting were members Lois Hassberg, Julie Paulson and Janice Peterson.

WRAPPING PACKAGES for the substitute Santa were FTA officers Janet Myers, vice president; Lynda Bell, president; and Peggy Peaslee, treasurer. Not pictured was Janet Roorda, secretary.

Helping students to survey the field of teaching is the purpose of the McGuffey Future Teachers of America. Wallace Kennedy was the adviser of the club.

FTA members sent invitations encouraging students who showed an interest in the teaching profession to join the club. At a punch party December 1, these new members were initiated. The purpose of the club was explained and each new member took the pledge.

During the year FTA'ers visited an elementary school to observe classes in progress. In some classes students were allowed to help the teachers.

A panel discussion on the advantages and disadvantages of teaching was given during National Education Week over KATE radio. Posters were also hung in the school halls to commemorate this week.

Leading the varied activities were the officers: Lynda Bell, president; Janet Myers, vice president; Peggy Peaslee, treasurer; and Janet Roorda, secretary. New officers were elected in the spring for the following year.

FHA Members Travel to Convention

WAITING FOR THE BUS to take them to the annual FHA convention at Minneapolis were Paulene Christianson, Sharon Wangness, Freda Gari, Sandra Peterson and Paulette Loken.

Participate in Numerous Activities

With the motto, "Toward New Horizons," the Albert Lea Future Homemakers of America began their seventh year in existence at the Albert Lea High School.

In the fall of the year, three main events took place. The punch party to welcome all prospective members was held in September with a talk on new fall fashions. The candlelight ceremony in October initiated 28 members into the organization. Along with this each member received a booklet about the club and an FHA ribbon. On October 22, a district convention took place at Minnesota Lake. At this convention Janet Blanchard was in charge of the group which discussed "Light for Us FHA'ers." Thirteen other members, two chapter mothers and the adviser also attended.

November marked the roller skating party. This was opened to all FHA'ers and FFA'ers of Alden, Freeborn, Glenville and Albert Lea. Also, on December 19, there was the annual Christmas caroling party.

In order to have a better understanding of FHA, to meet other FHA members and to bring back new ideas, the FHA'ers went to the State Convention March 3 and 4. Those who attended were the adviser, Mrs. Phyllis Hostager, Lois McCornack, Katherine Sipple, Judith Thompson and Sharon Wangeness.

"WOULD YOU LIKE SOME COFFEE?" Paulene Christianson asked Miss Elsie Sebert at the FHA teacher's luncheon.

JUDITH THOMPSON, Sharon Iverson, Patricia Iverson and Eleanor Leschefske were busy preparing coffee for the luncheon.

PINNING THE FHA ribbon on Jane Reckard was Lois McCornack as Janice Morreim and Kathylene Miovac inspected the handbooks.

FRONT ROW: Hareid, Hoelscher, G. Collins, G. Anderson, Horning, Hoyne, Brandt. SECOND ROW: Bowman, Lair, Jenson, Larson, Flaskerud, Ackland. THIRD ROW: Gaard, Folie, Harms, J. Anderson, R. Future Farmers of America Win

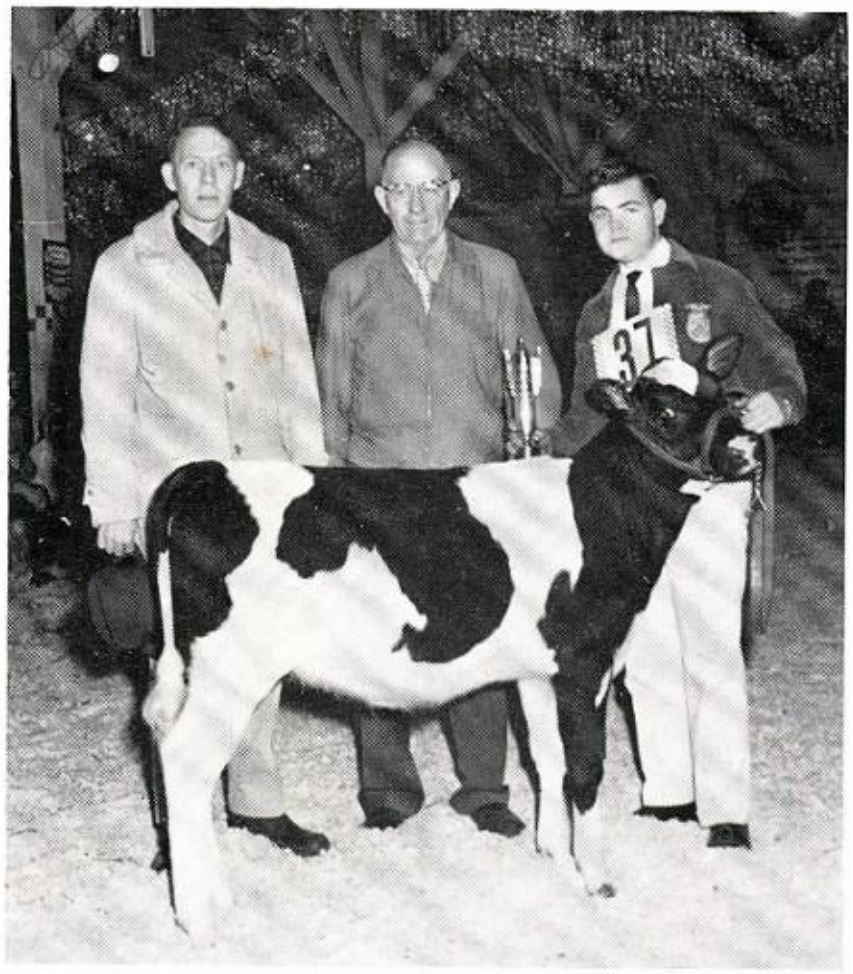
SHOWING THE PRIZE CALF of the Albert Lea FFA Chapter were Mr. Donald Paulson, Mr. Walter Steele and Ronald Thompson, winner of the dairy showmanship contest at the Purenia Royal Dairy Show.



After conducting a corn drive, the Albert Lea FFA Chapter raised more than $500 for Camp Courage. The chapter also participated in the State Corn Yield Contest, the State Tractor Driving Contest, a cow clipping contest and a public speaking contest.

It exhibited prize-winning animals at the Minnesota State Spring Barrow show, the Freeborn County Fair and the Minnesota State Fair.

At the sixteenth annual Albert Lea banquet held at Hayward, the chapter received a superior rating for all activities. Award winners were Jay Ackland, cow clipping champion and sheep showmanship; James Collins, award in dairy production; Darrel Folie, farm mechanics; Steven Hoelscher, swine production and showmanship; and Keith Iverson, dairy showmanship.

Receiver of the sophomore award given for the most outstanding performance in the first year of vocational agriculture was David Jenson. He also won the public speaking award. Other winners were Donald Nelson, national award in farm management and champion crop exhibitor; Richard Nelson, tractor driving, DeKalb Agriculture Association Award and swine showmanship; Charles Stadheim, national award in livestock production; Stanley Stadheim, service award; Ronald Thompson, dairy showmanship; Heiko Veldman, National State Green Hand award; and Thomas Wasmoen, national award in crop production.

Diversified Students Gain Knowledge

PRACTICING SELLING stuffed animals were the diversified officers Patricia Gilbert, Robert Knutson, Karen Boyer and Janis Hoium.

Apply Techniques

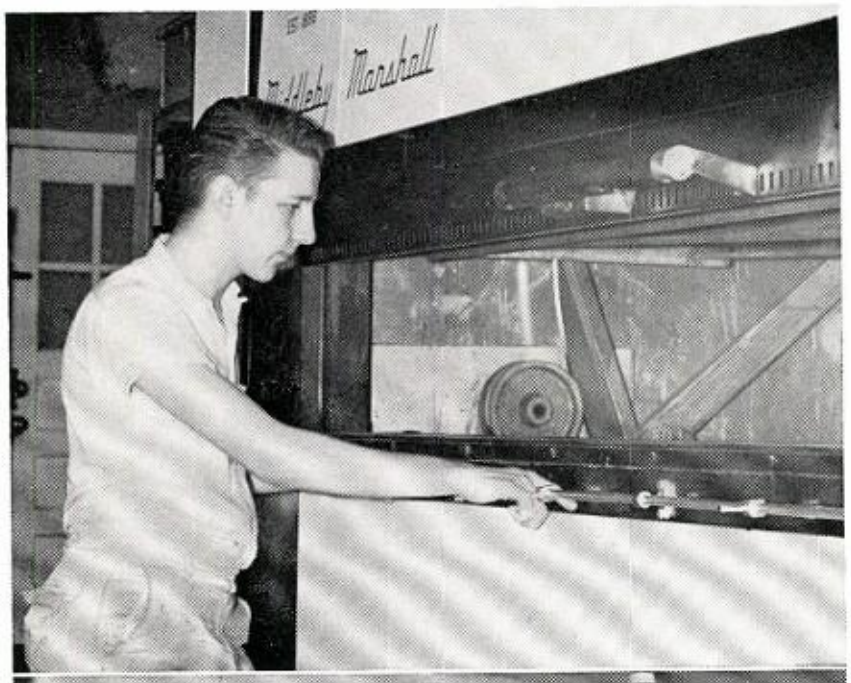
Gaining knowledge for their future vocations was the goal of the diversified classes. They worked at this goal by securing part-time and after school jobs. Each student was given two credits for the course — one for the part-time job and one for the actual class work.

Under the guidance of Mr. Norman Bailey, the students learned how to further their careers in business and how to get along with their fellow employees.

Before taking diversified, it is suggested to the students that they have one credit in business principles, business machines, bookkeeping or stenography. These courses enable them to find a job more easily.

Mr. Bailey watched each student on the job and in class in order to make a report to the state. If any problems were found, Mr. Bailey tried to solve them.

Serving as officers for the club were Janis Hoium, president; Patricia Gilbert, vice president; Karen Boyer, secretary; and Robert Knutson, treasurer.



PEEKING IN THE OVEN wasn't exactly part of Richard's Durin's job at a local bakery, but then who can resist the temptation?

MAKING POSTERS for a local clothing store was just one of the many jobs performed by David Smith at his part-time job.

Senior Journalists Contribute Time

WORKING DILIGENTLY to get their pictures in alphabetical order were Neal Gendler, Lawrence Haugen, Elaine Posthumus, Julie Paulson, Jean Schlehr and DeAnna Foley as they attempted to complete their respective sections.

With the experience they gained in their junior year by publishing the Ah La Ha Sa and the student directory, the senior journalists began work on the Tiger.

After much wondering and anticipation, the positions for the yearbook staff were revealed at the annual Quill and Scroll initiation held at Edgewater Park. The students began work immediately.

From among the submited themes, the journalists chose "Tiger Reflects" to portray the past and future of Albert Lea High School. The color scheme and cover design were then chosen. A vigorous subscription drive was held throughout the school and business district.

The Tiger began to take shape, under the careful guidance of Miss Edna Gercken, as captions and copy-blocks were completed and sent for the final printing. The editors, Barbara Slife and Mary Keil, were kept busy correcting and compiling the final copies.

Student photographers, Steve Person and David Larsen, spent much of their time taking and developing pictures for all sections. They were aided throughout the year by Mr. Earl Jacobsen, photography adviser.

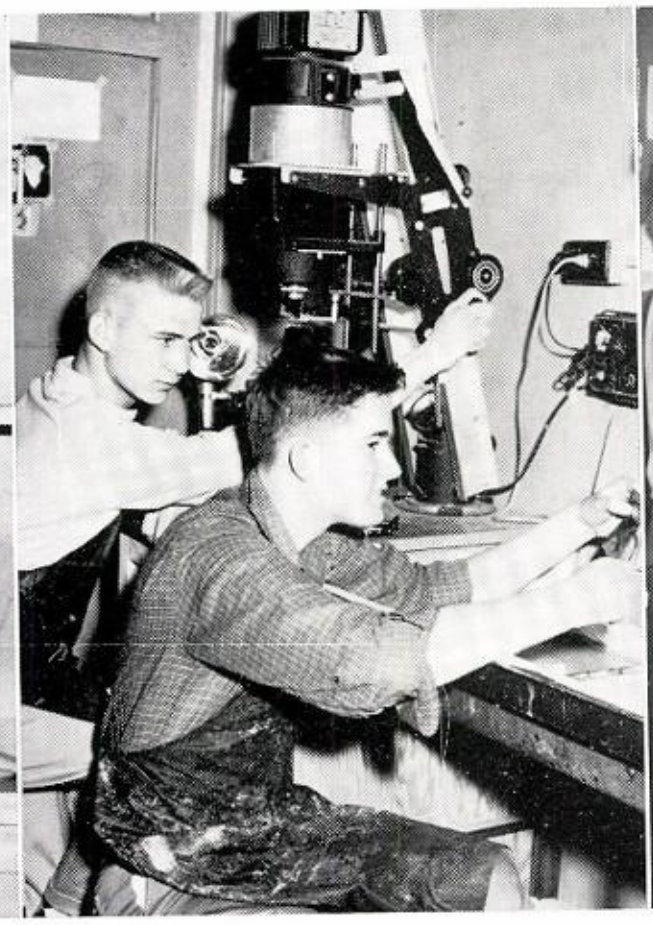
Selling small red pennants was one of the extra projects undertaken to help finance the Tiger. Bower's candy and the candy store also aided in balancing the budget. The familiar concession stands at athletic events were run by journalists.

"WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THIS PICTURE?" exclaimed Cynthia Bothof, girls sports editor, to uninterested Richard Oliphant, sports editor. Allen Tullberg, sports writer listened curiously.

LOOKING THROUGH OTHER YEARBOOKS to obtain ideas for their organization section were Sharon Blizard, Arlene Dilling and Carole Lee as their section neared completion.

Efforts To Help Finance Yearbook

FOLLOWING ALL EVENTS during the school year were the members of the Tiger Student Life section: Susan Wolgamot, Patricia Moen and Janet Myers.



BUSY DEVELOPING PICTURES as they attempted to make the deadline after a hectic day of picture-taking were Steven Person and David Larsen, Tiger staff photographers.

"HELP! THIEVES!" was the cry of Linda Ille, business manager, as Mary Keil, literary editor, and Barbara Slife, Tiger editor, tried to get into the candy closet.

CHECKING THE FACULTY and administration were Barbara Kofstad and Roxanne Wehrhan as they attempted to complete their section of the Tiger before deadlines.

"BUY YOUR TIGER NOW" was the cry of Hazel Stoa and Nancy Bolinger, publicity managers, as Janice Nelson and Janice Peterson, index, looked at the poster with interest.

HANDING GAIL RAVENHORST, Ah La Ha Sa editor, their page lay-out before she took them to the printer for publication were Cheryl Lutner and Marline Minear, assistant editors.

TALKING OVER lay-outs for their respective pages were Linda Kirk and Patricia Kappas, third page editors, and Mary Sprankle and Andrea Kutherford, editorial page editors.

Juniors Take Over Paper, Prepare

LEAVING TO SEEK information for their assigned stories for the paper were star reporters, Beverly Butters, Sharon Iverson, Ruth Ann Jepson, Maridee Alm and Barbara Larson.

Venturing into the field of journalism, 26 juniors, under the excellent guidance of Miss Edna Gercken, were taught the techniques of journalistic writing.

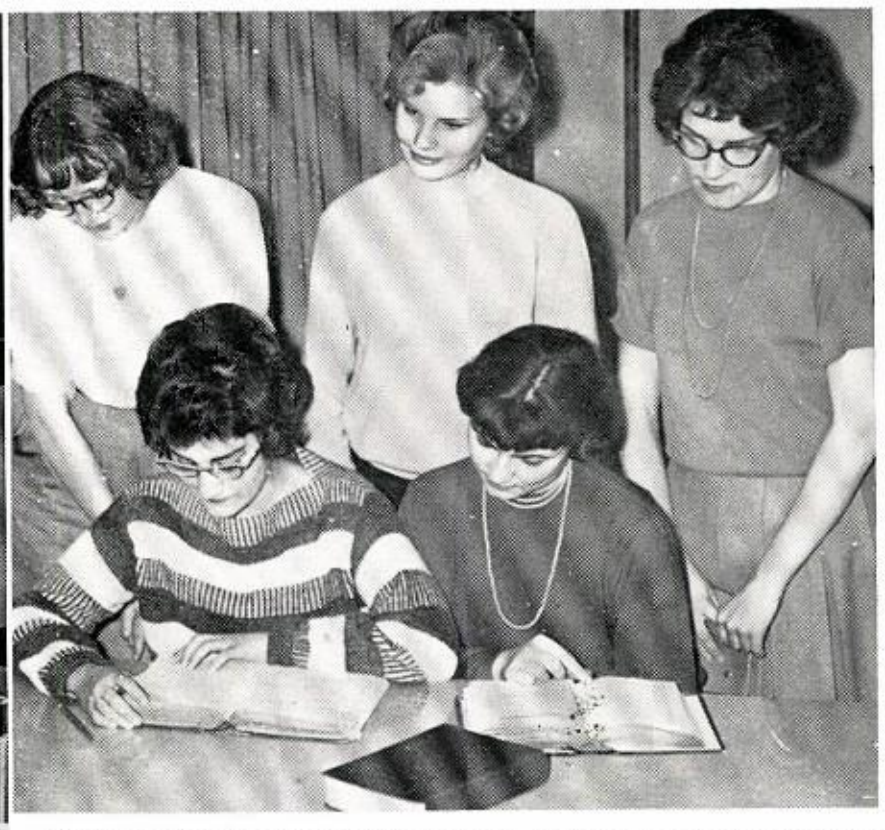
Their first big project was the publication of the Student Directory. As they obtained ads from local firms and compiled the names, addresses and telephone numbers of all students in Southwest and Central Junior High Schools and in the Senior High School, they learned the value of accuracy, how to write and correct copy and how to function in a business world.

On February 9 the new Ah La Ha Sa staff was announced, and on February 23 it published its first issue. The journalists learned that page layouts, pica sticks, galleys and page proofs laid the foundation toward the duties which they had inherited.

Of course, they worked on other projects besides the paper. The junior journalists could be seen selling candy and pop at basketball and football games and at wrestling matches to raise money to finance the paper and yearbook. They also sold pennants.

Bringing the year to a climax was the annual banquet at which the deserving students were initiated into the National Quill and Scroll Association by the senior journalists. They were also told of their new positions on the 1962 Tiger. With eager anticipation of another year of fun and hard work, the juniors looked forward to the tasks confronting them as senior journalists.

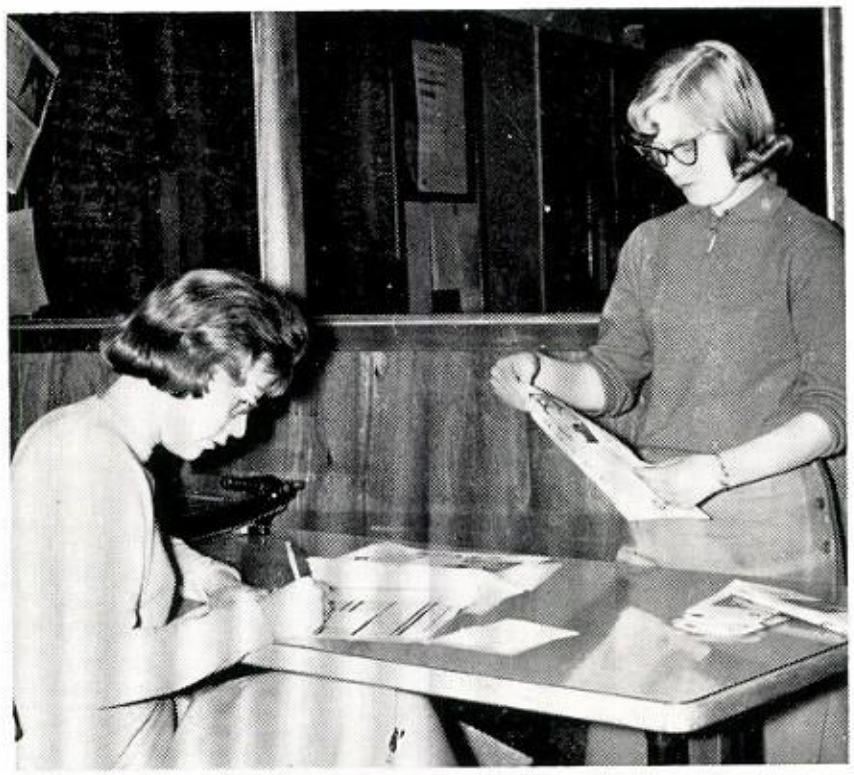
ATTEMPTING TO HELP Lois McCornack, Ah La Ha Sa business manager, escape from the many candy boxes that surrounded her, was Mary Tufte, advertising manager.



LOOKING IN ROGET'S THESAURUS in order to complete their headlines were star reporters Linda Todd and Marie Lorenzen as Renee Wambach, Janet Thompson and Elizabeth Peterson watched.

Student Directory

PREPARING FOR the paper circulation was Barbara Pratt, circulation manager, as Carol Legreid, exchange editor, attempted to get the exchange papers ready for mailing.



"HOW'S THIS ONE?" exclaimed Ronald Tostenson, sports editor, to Barbara Jenson, girls' sports editor, as he endeavored to find the right headline count for one of sports stories.

KAREN PETERS, staff artist, strived for perfection as she attempted to complete the etching for the next issue of the paper.

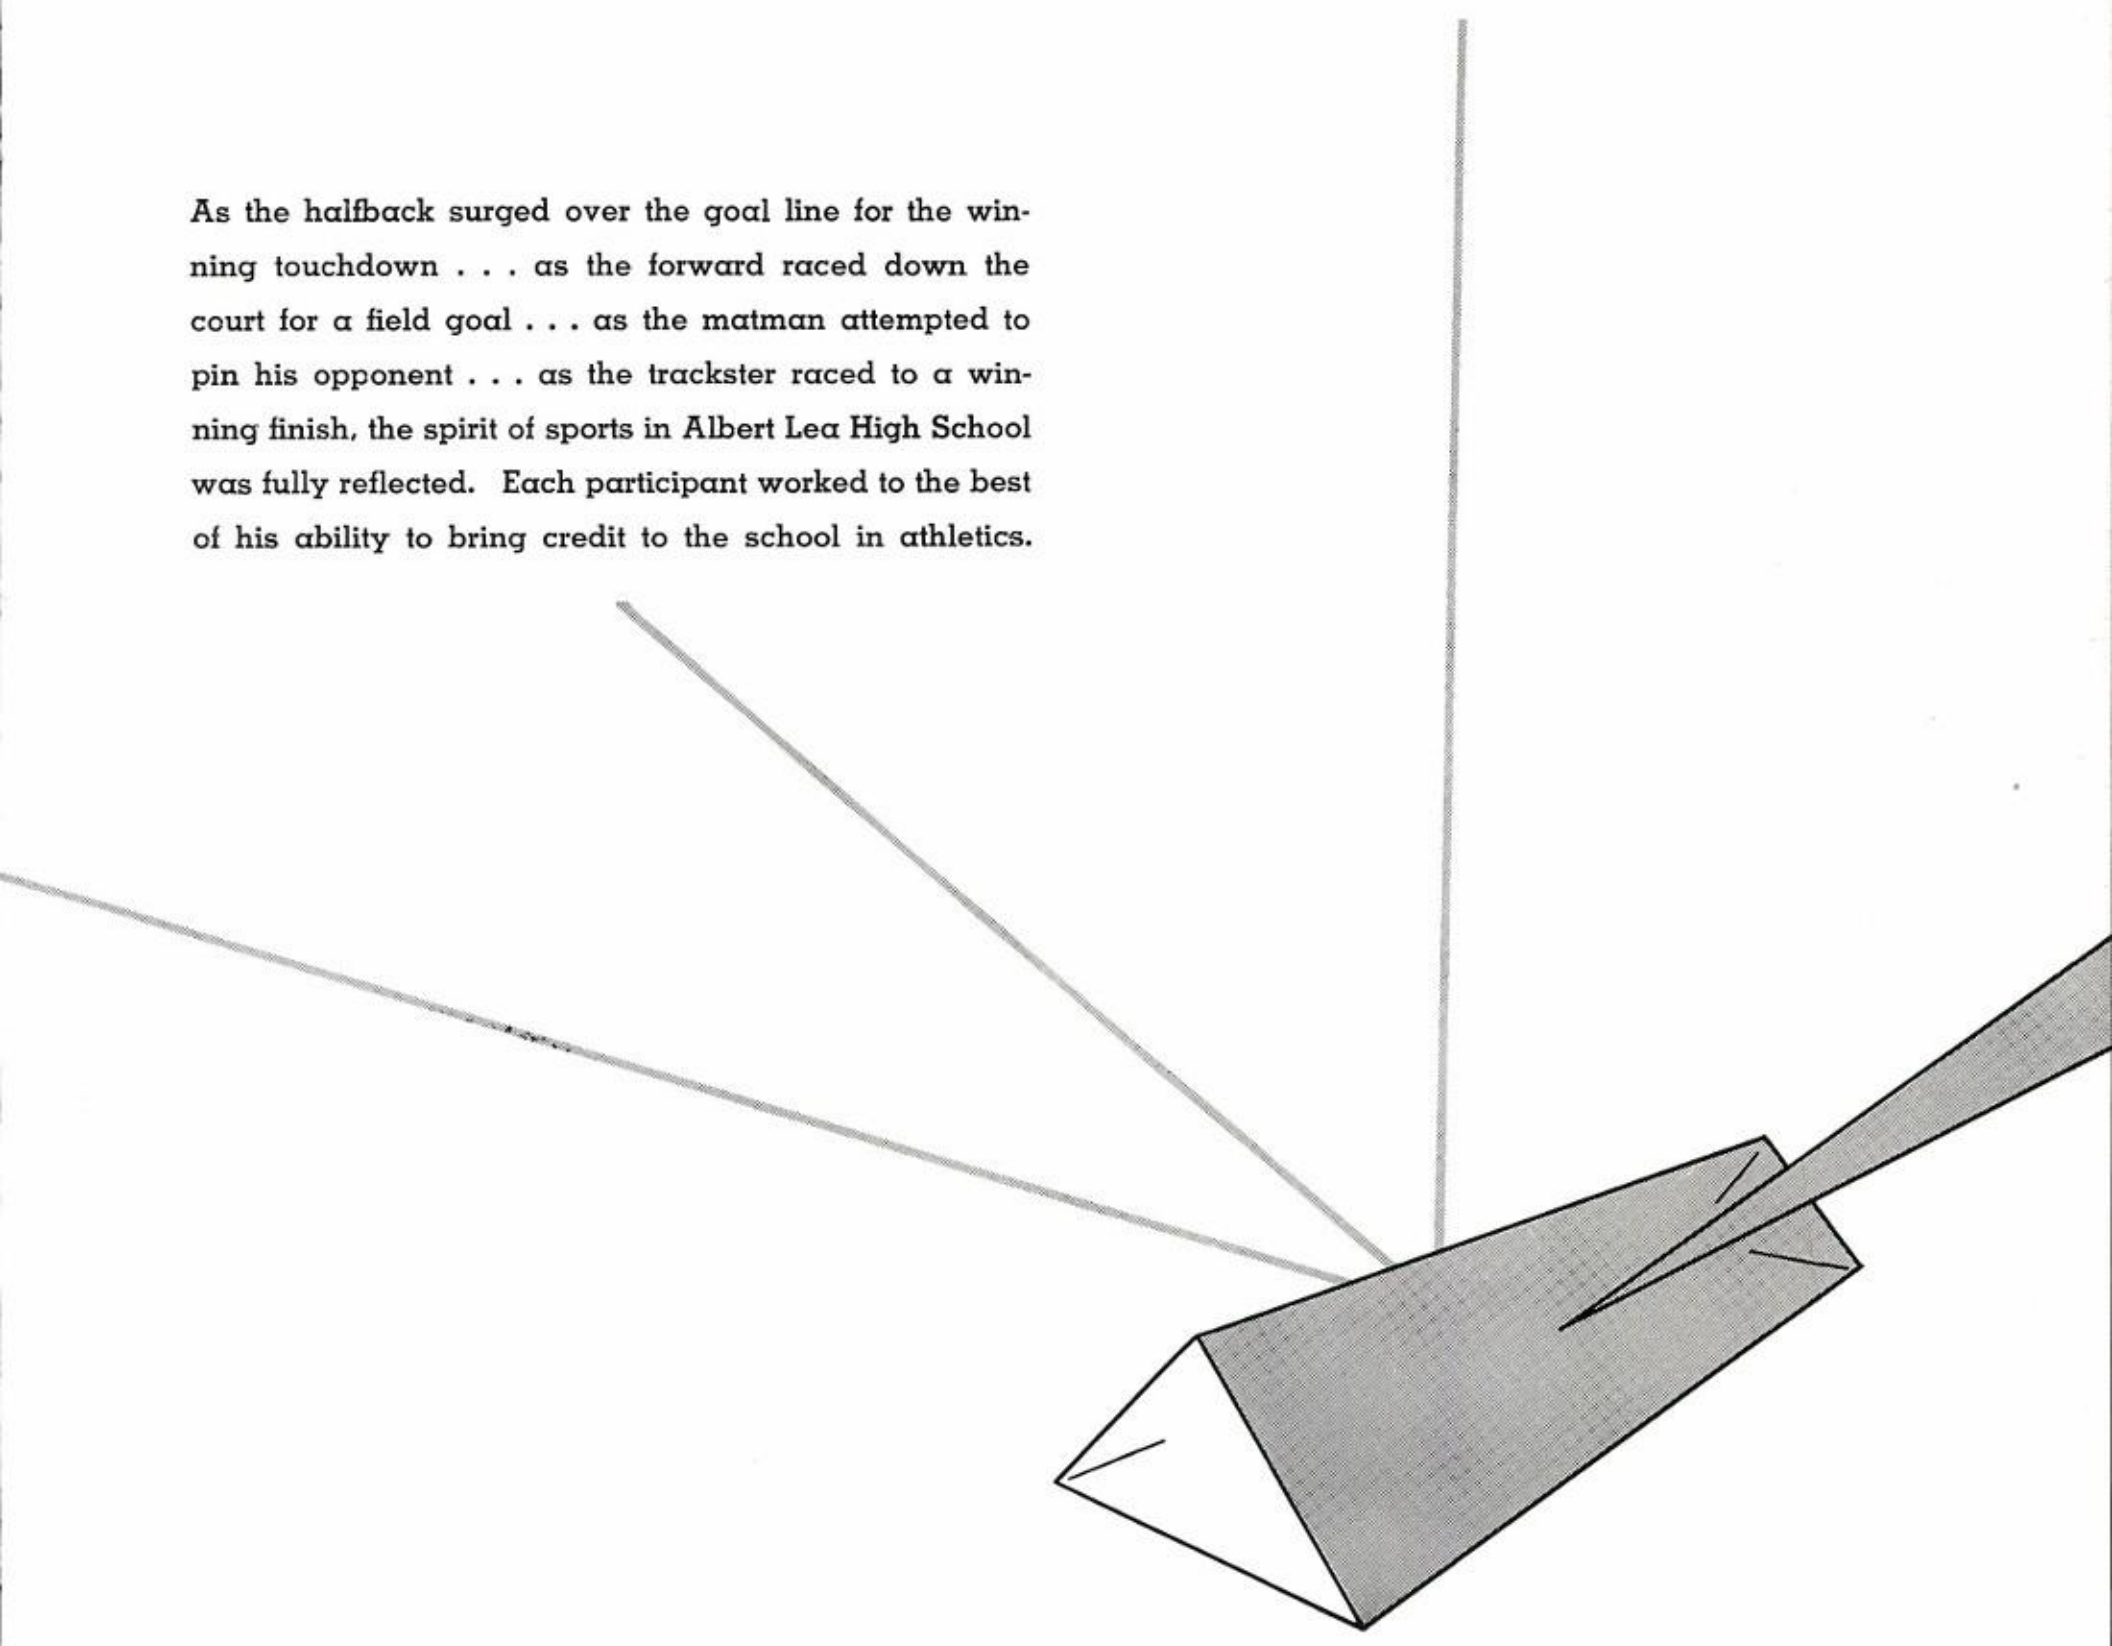
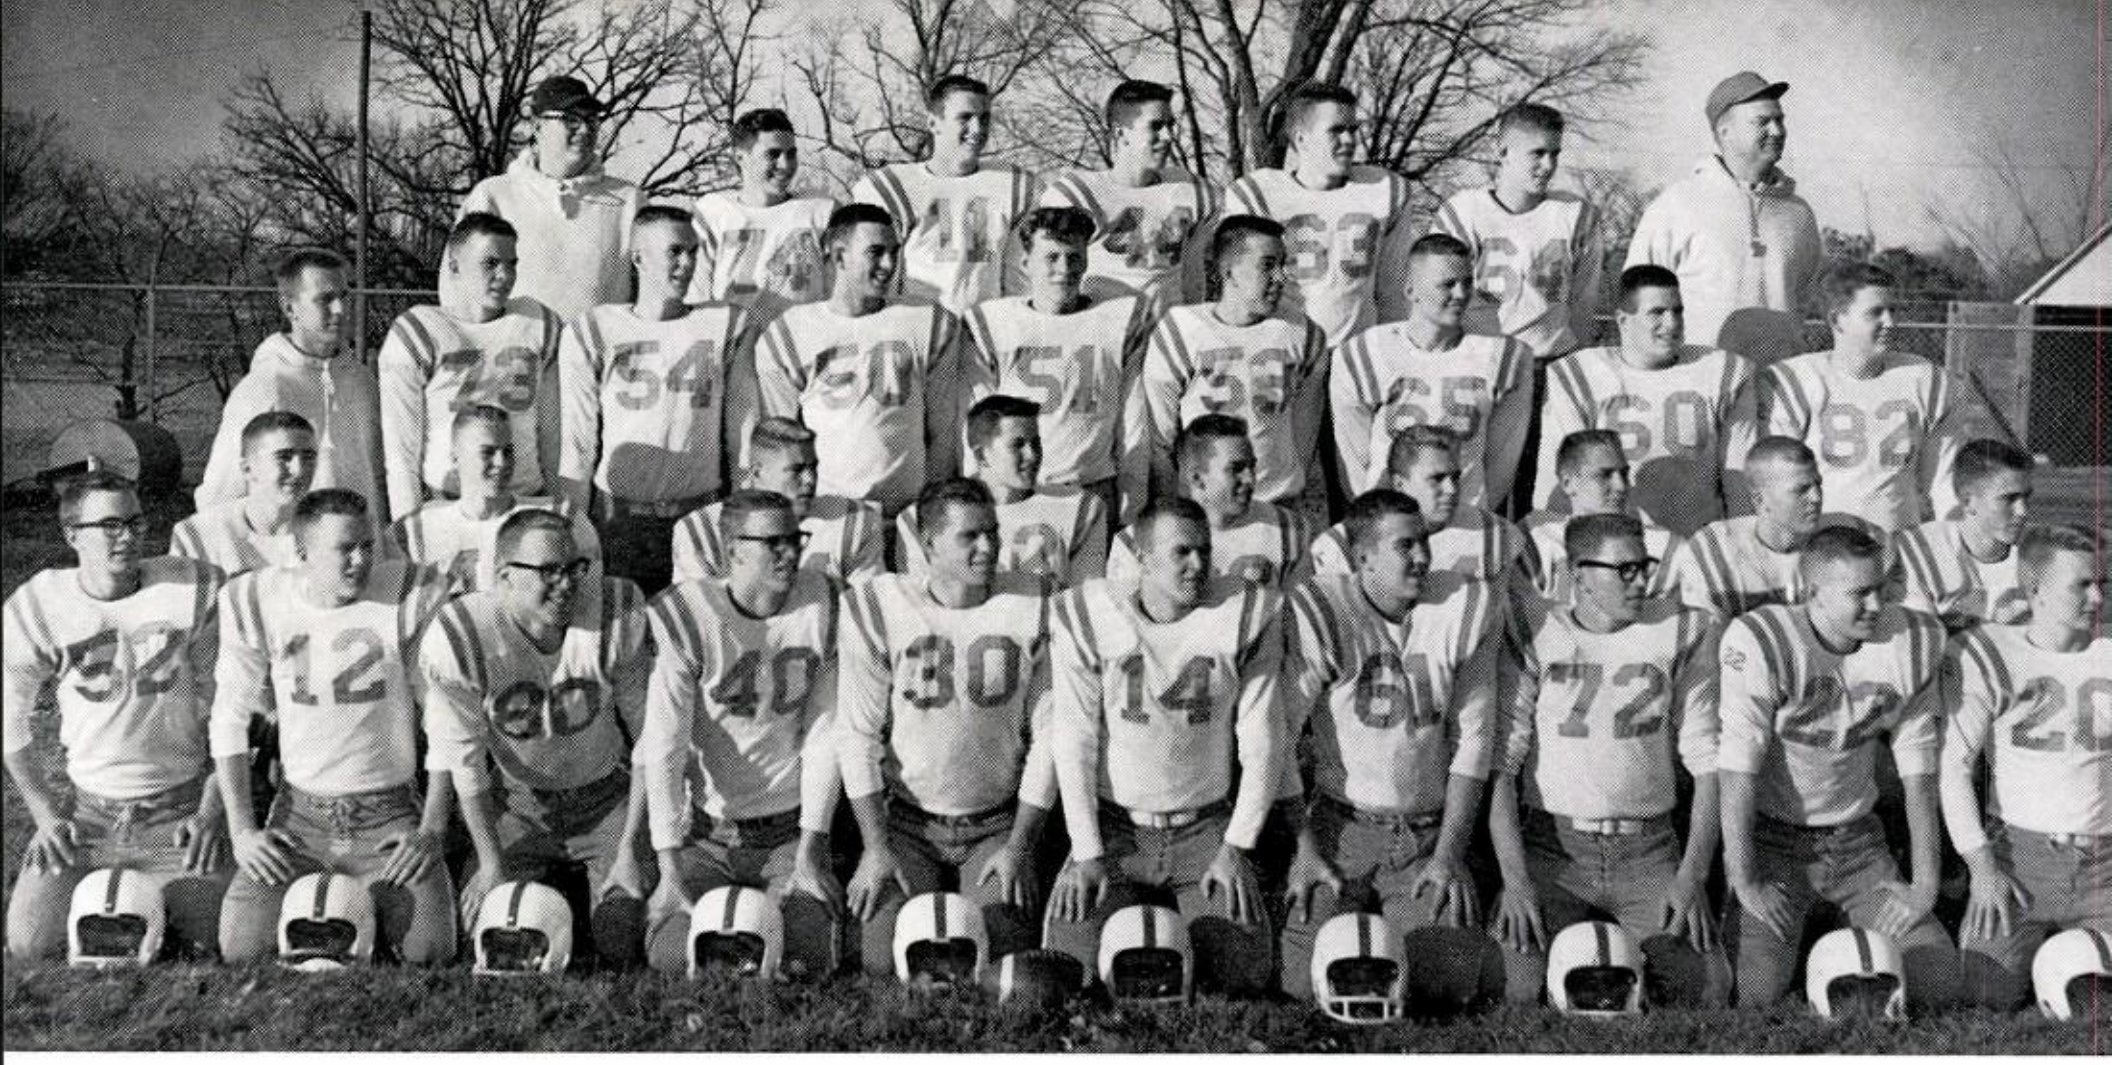
SPORTS

As the halfback surged over the goal line for the winning touchdown . . . as the forward raced down the court for a field goal . . . as the matman attempted to pin his opponent . . . as the trackster raced to a winning finish, the spirit of sports in Albert Lea High School was fully reflected. Each participant worked to the best of his ability to bring credit to the school in athletics.





BIG NINE CHAMPIONS—FRONT ROW: Danielsen, Tonheim, Bosacker, Palmer, Claybourn, Oliphant, J. Olson, Suthers, Wilke, J. Larson. SECOND ROW: Kennedy, Kittelson,, Guiney, D. Larsen, T. Powerful Tiger Gridders Capture

Albert Lea football fortunes, on the upswing in the past few seasons, took an important and climactic step forward during the 1960 grid campaign. For the first time in the annals of Albert Lea football, the Tigers captured the Big Nine Conference championship.

Experience and team balance were the key factors in the team's success according to head coach Jim Gustafson. Evidence of the squad's balance was reflected in the number of boys who received recognition.

Everyone in the Tiger's starting lineup, which was comprised of eight seniors and three juniors, received recognition of some kind. Six boys, Del Bosacker, center; Jeff Brooke, tackle; Steve Claybourn, fullback; Gary Jacobsen, end; Rich Oliphant, quarterback; and Tom Suthers, guard; were chosen to the Big Nine All-Conference squad. The remaining five, Bill Danielsen, John Olson, Bruce Palmer, Dave Palmer and Paul Wilke, were named to the honorable mention list.

HEAD COACH JIM GUSTAFSON pointed out flaws in the Tiger attack to assistants Paul Ehrhard and Bob Driesbach prior to the title clinching Red Wing encounter. Both Ehrhardt and Driesbach were new to the varsity staff this season.

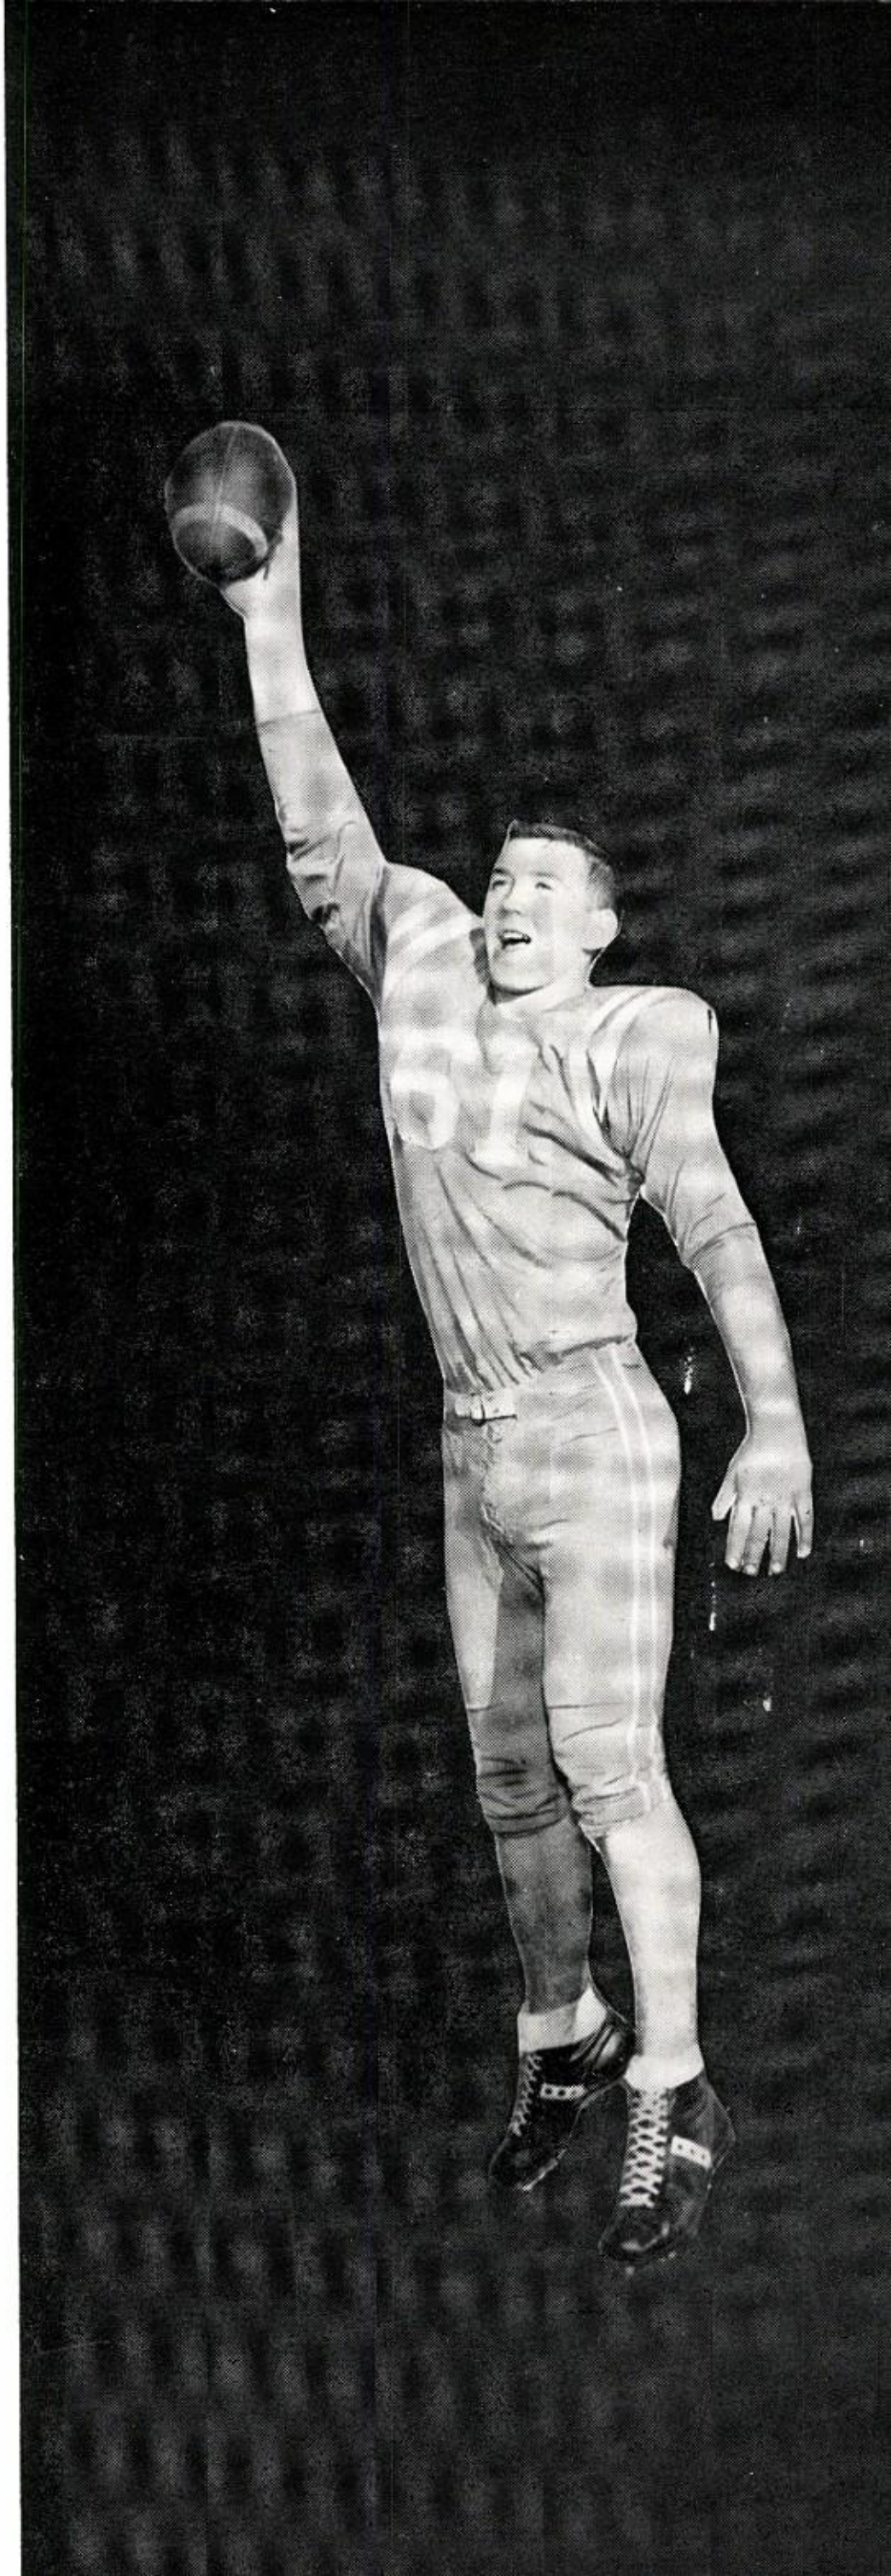
JOHN OLSON, rugged tackle and defensive standout, displayed form that made him a feared pass catcher. Olson was an eligible and competent pass receiver in the Tigers 'T'-Spread formation.

Big Nine Crown

Co-captain and fullback Steve Claybourn led the team in rushing with a total of 262 yards in 118 attempts for a 5.3 yards per carry average. Halfbacks Dave Palmer and Paul Wilke were tied for second in ball-carrying yardage. Each gained 588 yards in 91 tries. As a team, the powerful Tigers consumed 1,997 yards on the ground and 430 yards through the air lanes for a total of some 2,427 yards.

Dave Palmer topped the squad in scoring with eight touchdowns for 48 points. Claybourn and Wilke were close behind with 43 and 36 points respectively. The closeness of the scoring race was just another example of the fine all-around balance on the team.

Besides winning the conference title, the 1960 Tigers reached two other goals that will long be remembered by the team and fans alike. In tallying 190 points, the Tigers broke the team scoring mark for one season. The record had been 188 points, recorded the previous year. Also, at the close of the season, the Tigers were ranked with the top ten Minnesota high school teams.



"LOOK AT HIM GO," John Olson (61) seemed to say as Steve Claybourn carries the ball to another Tiger touchdown in the Rochester contest. The Rockets' Larry Serbin (left) moved up too late.

Team Balance

Opening their championship campaign, the Tigers downed a small but scrappy Northfield Raider team by a score of 27-12. The Tigers held a 21-0 lead at halftime and then scored once in the second half.

Mankato proved to be a fairly strong team as it gave the Tigers quite a scare before finally bowing, 14-0. Dave Palmer and Steve Claybourn scored the touchdowns for the Tigers. Defense was the key.

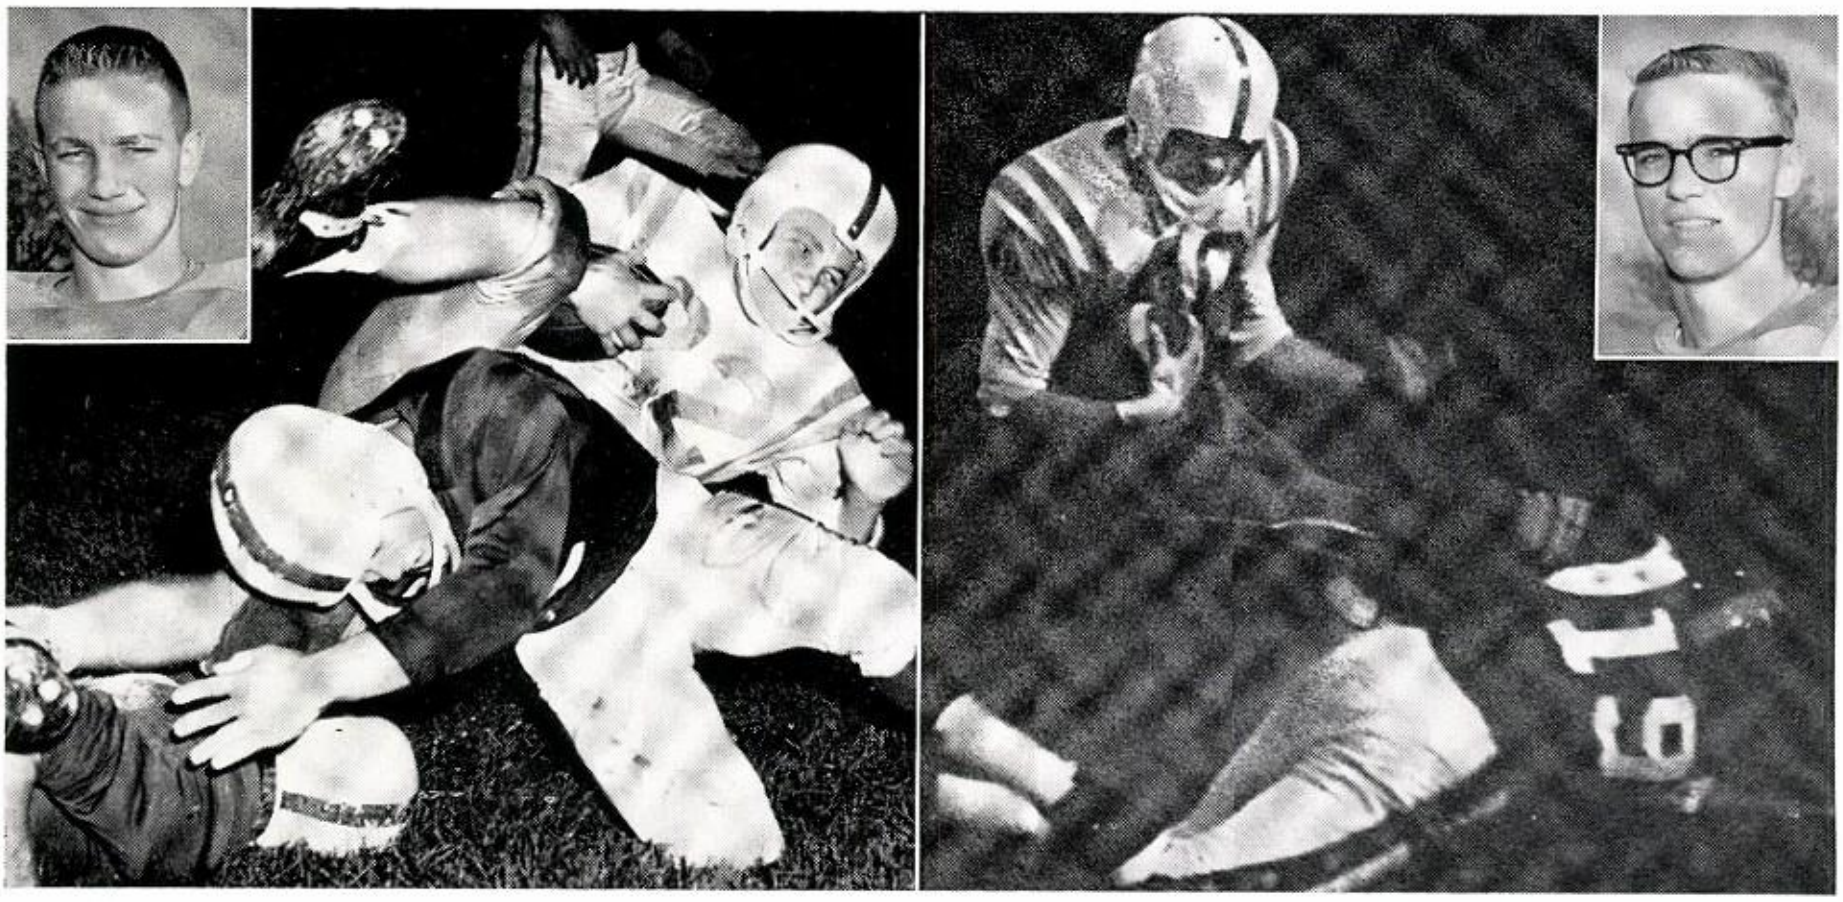
Against Faribault it was the Tigers all the way as they defeated the Falcons by a decisive score of 26-6. The big line and the powerful backfield proved to be too much for the Falcons. Dave Palmer scored three times for the victorious Tigers.

In what was by far the most important game of the year, Albert Lea tied a strong Austin Packer team, 7-7. Steve Claybourn plunged over from the one-yard line for the touchdown and also scored the extra point.

Suffering their first and only loss of the season, the Tigers dropped a 32-15 loss to a big, fast Washburn team. Albert Lea started off well, getting off to a 9-0 lead on a touchdown, extra point and a safety. Kenny Johnson, fleet Miller halfback, proved to be hard to handle as he broke away on several long runs.

PAUL WILKE (22 AND UPPER LEFT) was stopped after a nice gain against Mankato. Wilke's vicious running and fine defensive play drew praise from the coaching staff on numerous occasions. The Tigers shut out the Scarlets, 14-0.

SHIFTY DAVE PALMER tried in vain to elude a Washburn defender in the Homecoming game. Palmer supplied the needed speed in the powerful Tiger backfield. Albert Lea suffered its lone loss at the hands of the powerful Millers, 32-15.



Key To Albert Lea Football Prowess

Back on the winning road again, the Tigers romped to a 26-7 victory over a Rochster squad that couldn't get its offense rolling. Again it was the defense that was the key for the Tigers as they held speedster Duane Dornack to four yards rushing in the first half.

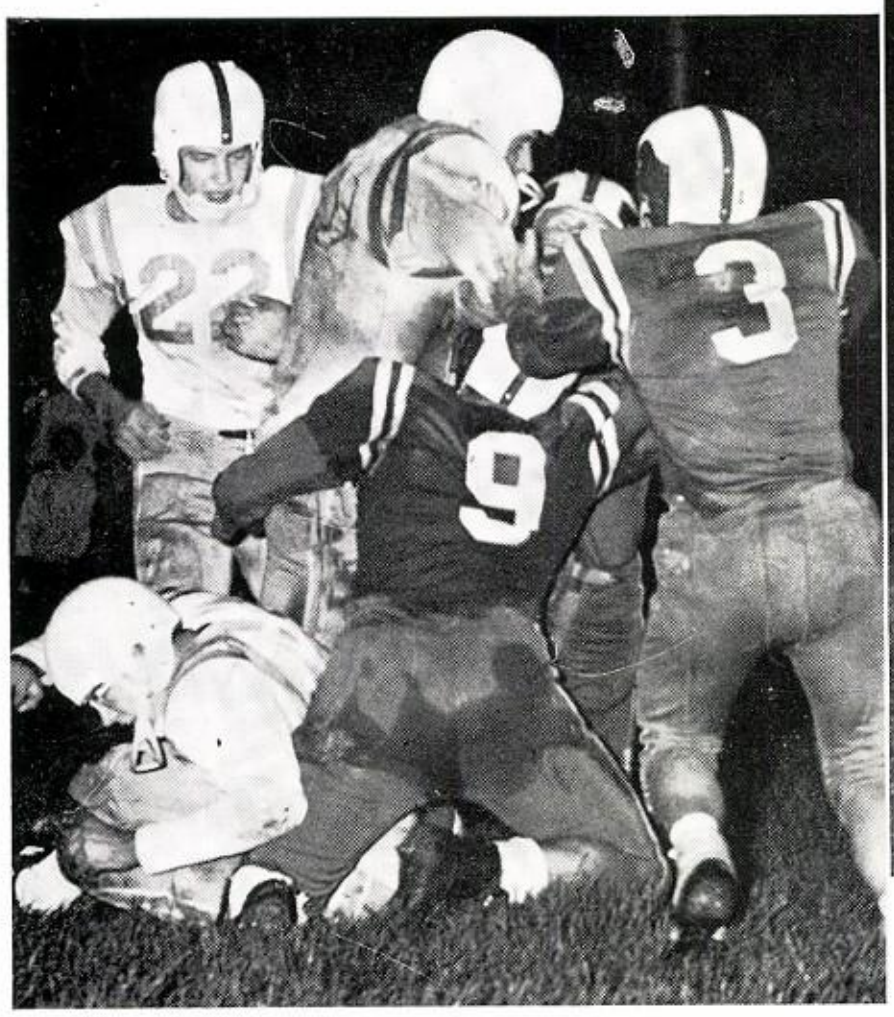
Winona threw quite a scare into the Tigers before falling by a score of 20-6. One of the highlights of the first half was a 62-yard touchdown pass from Rich Oliphant to Gary Jacobsen. Albert Lea had some trouble containing the Winhawks' fleet-footed backs, but they held them well enough to win.

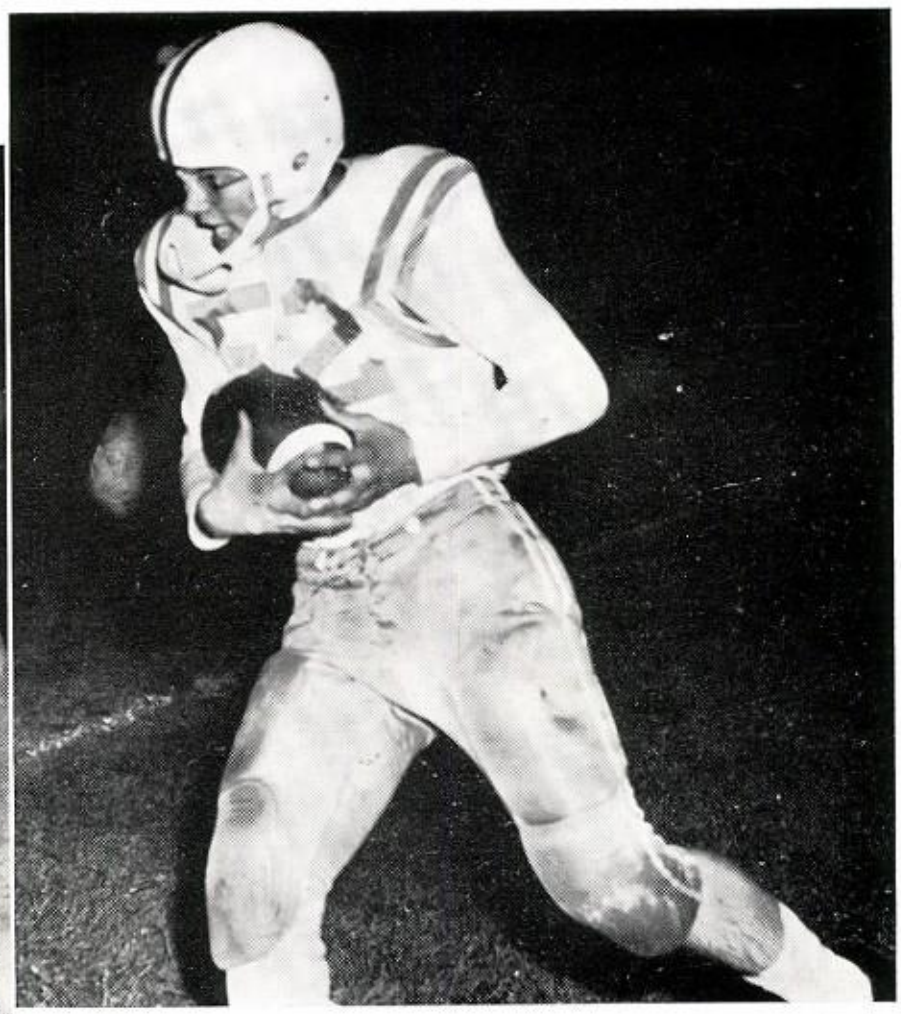
The Tigers defeated a fairly strong Red Wing team, 27-13, in a game that clinched the championship for Albert Lea. While the Tigers were beating the Wingers, a big upset was taking place in Austin. Owatonna beat the Packers, giving the championship to the Tigers.

Finishing their season undefeated in conference play the Tigers sped to a 27-13 win over Owatonna. Paul Wilke, playing his last game in a Tiger uniform, finished his high school career by scoring three times.

HARD WORKING MANAGERS Larry Lahs, Bill Satre and Paul Hanson inspected a helmet during a practice session at Abott Field. These boys were a great asset to the team and coaches.

FULLBACK STEVE CLAYBOURN plunged for a touchdown against Austin. This play was probably the most important one of the season for the Tigers as it allowed them to tie the powerful Packers, 7-7. Claybourn also scored the point following.





BILL DANIELSEN, SENIOR WINGMAN, caught a pass in the Tiger win over Mankato. Danielsen was a consistent and dependable performer in the Albert Lea forward wall. This play netted 17 crucial yards in the second quarter.

Entire Tiger Starting Unit Receives

A rugged defensive effort put forth when their goal line was being threatened was typical of the 1960 Tigers. At one point in almost every game, the Tigers dug in close to their own goal and succeeded in thwarting an enemy drive. These defensive efforts were very important in the Austin and Red Wing games.

Proof of the viciousness of the Tiger defense can be found in its accomplishments. Albert Lea held Big Nine opponents to a total of only 66 points in eight games and an average of slightly more than one touchdown per game. The 1960 Tigers were tops in the conference in this department.

Another trait typical of the Tigers was their ability to get off to an early lead. The Tigers scored first in every game except the Austin encounter. In seven of the nine games, Albert Lea scored the first time it got the ball. By scoring three early touchdowns against Rochester and Faribault, it quickly took command.

SPEEDSTER ON THE MOVE: Speedy Dave Palmer outran Red Wing's Tim Loomis (31) and headed for the goal line. Steve Claybourn (on ground) looked for someone to block.

RICH OLIPHANT, TIGER QUARTERBACK, accepted congratulations from coach Gustafson after receiving the "Player of the Year" award. Oliphant was picked by his teammates.

WARDING OFF A BLOCKER, Oliphant attempted to reach Rochester's Duane Dornack (40). The Tigers held the Rocket speedster to a scant four yards in the first half and won, 26-7.

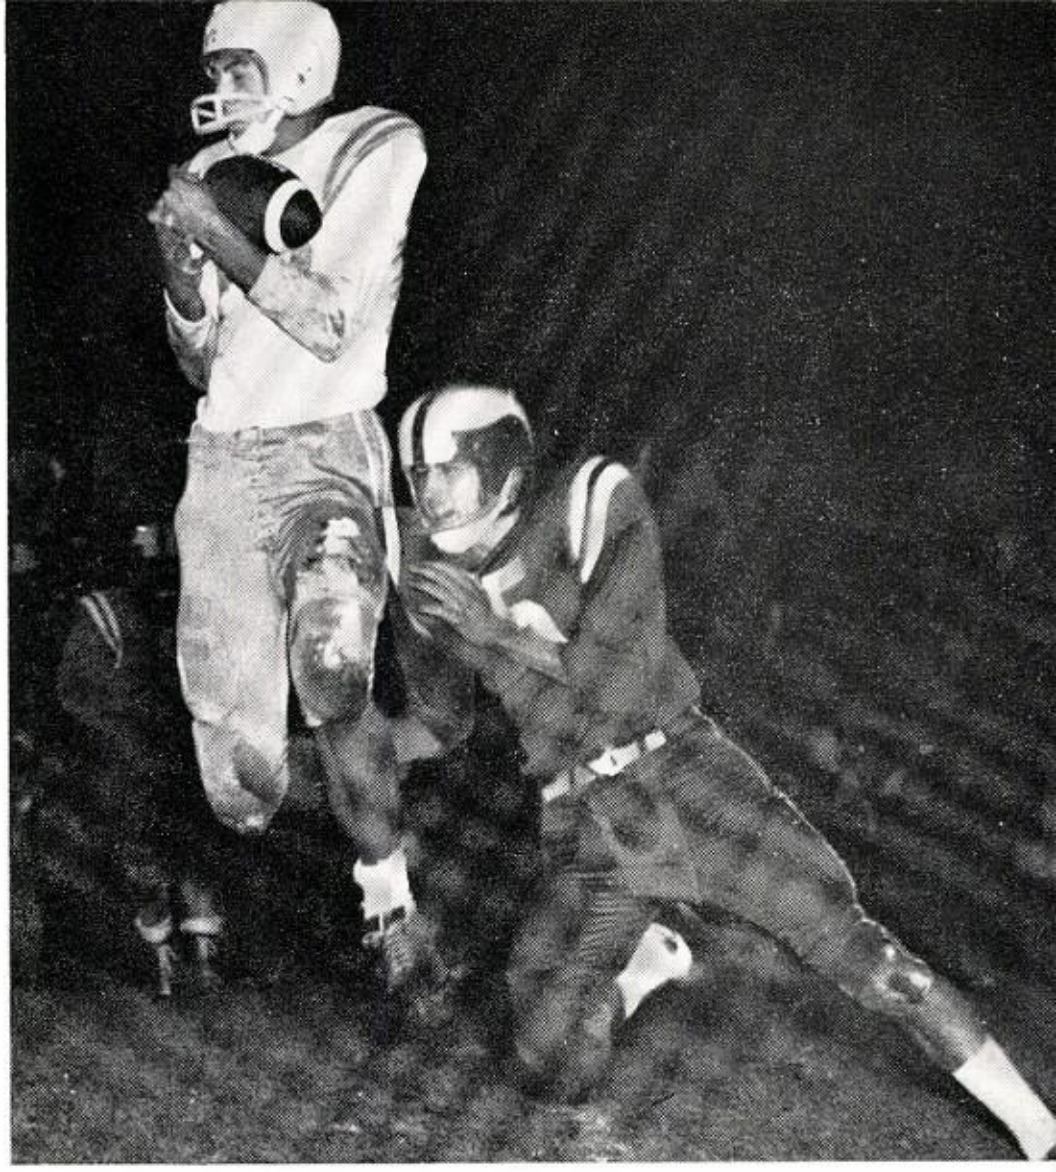
Grid Recognition

Fifteen seniors were on the Tiger roster. They were Del Bosacker, Steve Claybourn, Bill Danielsen, Tom Guiney, Dennis Kappas, Mike Knutsen, Dave Larsen, Jim Larson, Ted Larson, Rich Oliphant, John Olson, Dave Palmer, Tom Suthers, Tom Tonheim and Paul Wilke. Many of these boys had been on the varsity for three seasons and formed the nucleus for Coach Jim Gustafson's rebuilding program.

At the annual Quarterback Club Banquet at the end of the season, Rich Oliphant, senior quarterback, received the Player of the Year Trophy. His teammates voted to award this to him. The trophy is presented annually by the Albert Lea Lions Club.

At the close of the banquet, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilke Sr., presented the school with an attractive picture of the Big Nine Conference champion Tigers.

Looking forward to next season, the Tigers chose tackle Jeff Brooke and guard Bruce Palmer to captain the 1961 squad. Both boys were regulars on the squad this year. They will be in charge of a team boasting nine returning lettermen, all juniors. Their goal naturally will be to capture another Big Nine Conference title.



GARY JACOBSEN, JUNIOR END, went high to snag a Tiger aerial against Austin. Bill Booher, Packer defensive safety man, came up fast to make the stop. The two teams played to a 7-7 deadlock.

MAKING SURE. Tiger end Gary Jacobsen made certain that Red Wing halfback Denny Landers was down to stay. Albert Lea won, 27-13, to clinch the Big Nine championship.

Bengals Gain Experience, Post 1-3-2

IN THE CLEAR. Mike Wittkamper broke away from a pair of Austin defenders after receiving a pass from quarterback John Goodmanson. The teams played to a 20-20 deadlock at Abbott Field.

Under the tutelage of new coaches Luverne Ahrndt and Bill Christopherson, the Albert Lea Bengals posted a 1-3-2 record during the 1960 campaign. These figures are a bit deceiving, however, because all the Bengal losses were by fairly narrow margins.

The Tiger cubs' big weakness was inexperience. This was particularly evident during the early stages of the season. As the season progressed and the boys gained experience, improvement could be seen.

In spite of the mediocre record, varsity coach Jim Gustafson has high hopes for this season's Bengals. Besides the fine mental attitude which the team demonstrated throughout the season, Gustafson was pleased with the size and improvement of the linemen. The passing combination of John Goodmanson and Mike Wittkamper was extremely impressive. The determined running of backs Harold Mueller, Gary Thompson and Dave Wilcox also showed promise.

The Bengals opened the season on a winning note bq downing Faribault 20-0. One of the highlights of the game was Goodmanson's 45-yard return of a Falcon punt for a Bengal touchdown. Several key blocks set up the long return. Mueller and Thompson also scored while the Albert Lea defense held the Falcons scoreless.

FROZEN ACTION. Players from both teams dove for a loose ball during the Albert Lea-Austin game. Note how the ball seemed to be balancing on end. Alertness such as this was a big factor.

Seasonal Record

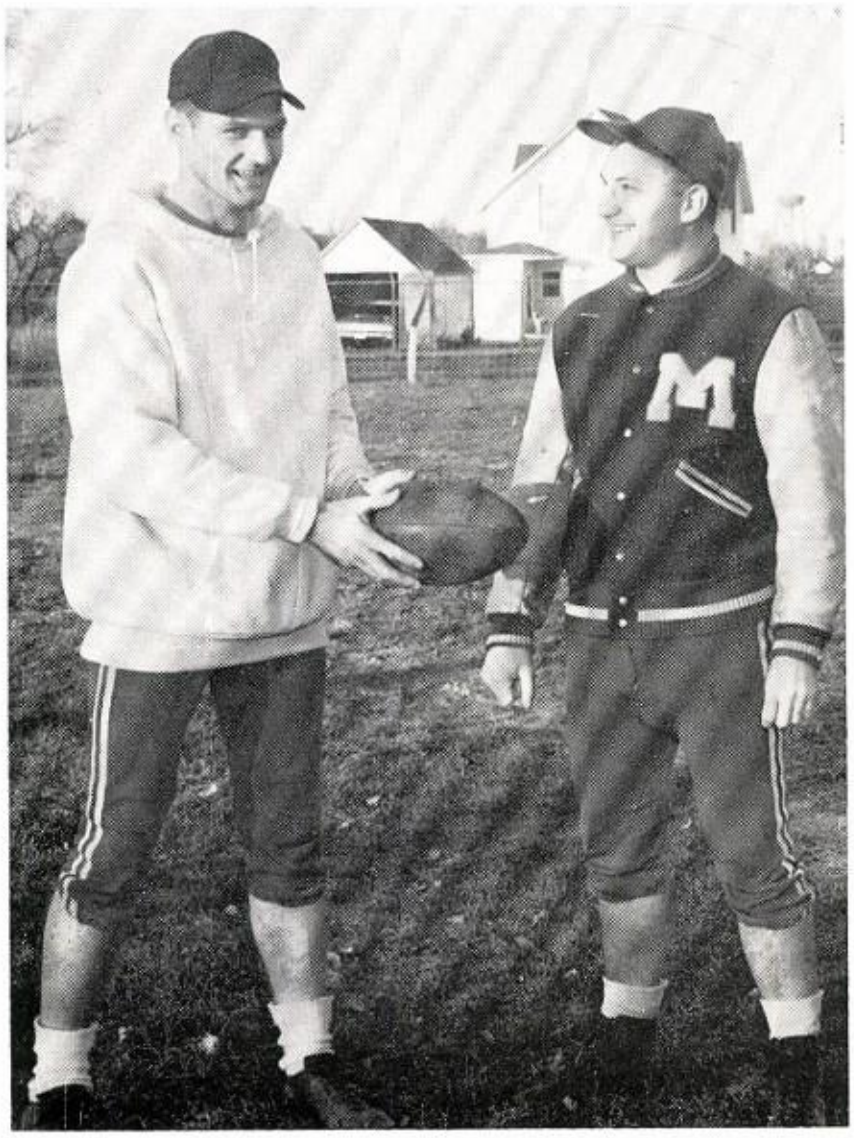
Against Austin in the first meeting of the two clubs, the Bengals were defeated by a 14-0 count. Albert Lea was unable to take advantage of key scoring opportunities while the Packers scored twice to grab the victory.

Albert Lea came from behind late in the fourth quarter to salvage a 13-13 tie with the Owatonna "B" team. Gary Thompson scored the tying touchdown with less than four minutes remaining in the game. Early in the second half, Mike Wittkamper scored on a pass.

Albert Lea ran into stiff competition when it invaded Farimont to take on the Martins. Left halfback Dave Wilcox scored once for the Bengals, but it was not enough as the Bengals fell to defeat, 17-6.

Returning home the following week, the Bengals took on the Austin Packers again. Playing inspired football, they jumped off to an early 20-6 lead. Gradually the determined Austin club fought to come back. The Packers scored twice in the final period to gain a 20-20 tie. Against the Packers, Wittkamper scored on a pass, Wilcox raced 70 yards to paydirt with an intercepted pass and Gary Thompson tallied on a 12-yard run.

In the season finale at Abbott Field, Albert Lea bowed to Wells by a 13-6 count. The Bengals could not contain the Wildcats' exceptional speed. Wilcox scored the lone Albert Lea touchdown.



BILL CHRISTOPHERSON (holding ball) discussed some ball handling fundamentals with head coach Vern Ahrndt. The two grid mentors led the Bengal squad through a very interesting season.

GUS' THEORIES. Coaches Bill Christopherson and Don Buhr appeared somewhat amused as Jim Gustafson related his ideas concerning a previous game. Christopherson was the B team instructor.

Erratic Tiger

DEADLY AIM. Senior Paul Wilke set his sights on the basket and fired one of his extremely accurate jump shots. Wilke led all Tiger scorers with with a total of 277 points

At times looking very promising, but also suffering many unimpressive moments, the Tigers drew the 1960-61 season to a close with a seven win, 11 loss record.

Starting two seniors and three juniors most of the season, coach Don Buhr undoubtedly felt the loss of Gary Jacobsen, last year's starting center, who could not play most of this season due to an injury.

Minneapolis Patrick Henry ruined the Tigers' opener by giving Albert Lea a 50-48 defeat. The team journeyed to Owatonna December 2 for its first Big Nine game and came home with a 48-44 victory and a brighter outlook for the season. The optimism was short lived, for the Tigers went down 49-41 to Mankato December 9, displaying a cold night on the boards.

The next encounter took the Tigers to Williams Arena where they scored 18 points in the first quarter against St. Paul Harding, but then seemed to collapse and were handed a crushing 57-33 defeat.

Arch rival Austin had trouble eeking out a win in its first meeting with the Tigers, who led 27-25 at the half. But as play continued, the cagers gathered fouls, and Austin gained 24 points in the fourth quarter, 16 from free throws, to win, 65-54.

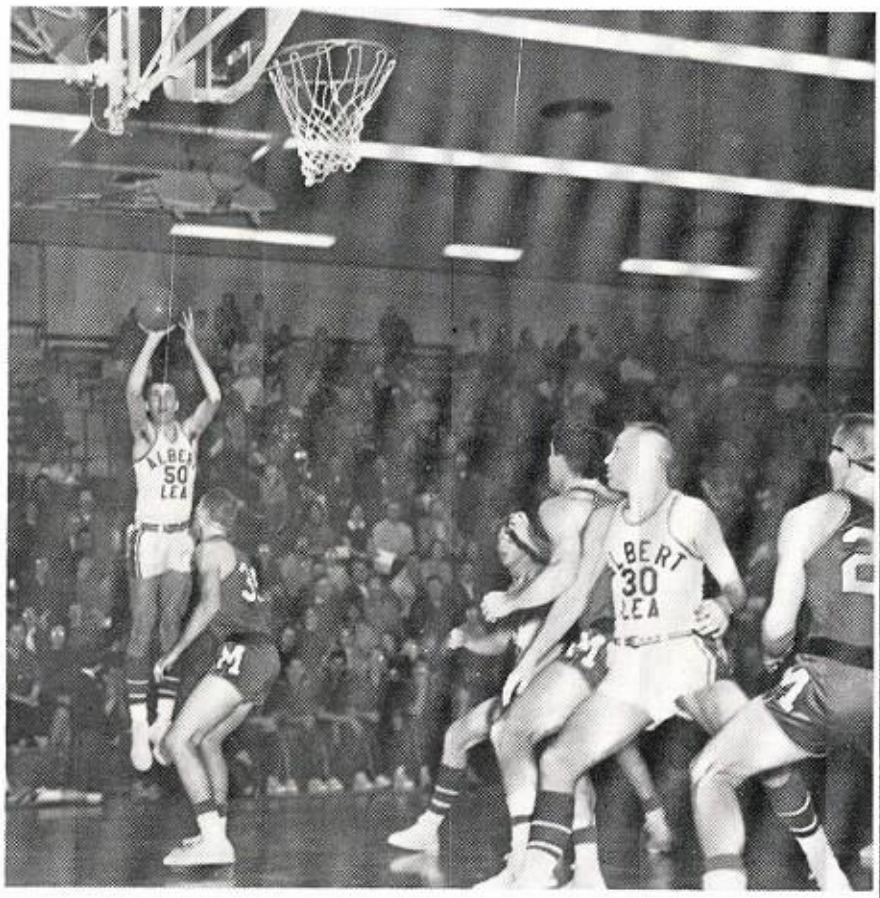
Courtmen Compile Mediocre Record

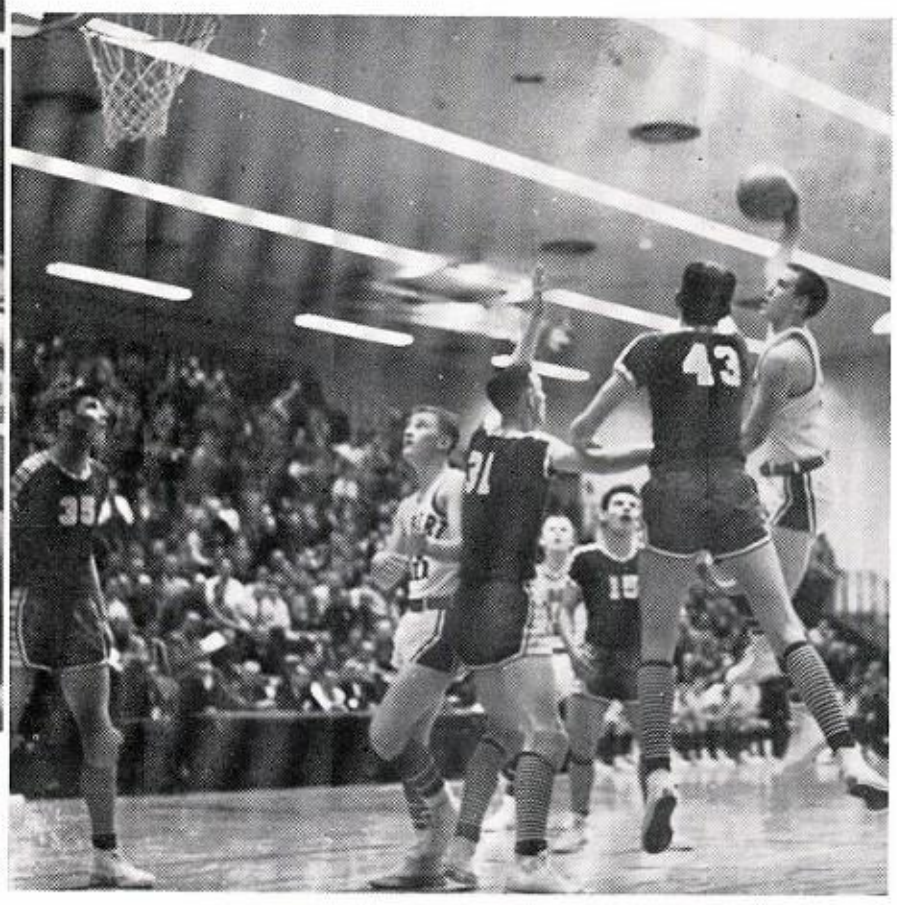
TIGER VARSITY CAGERS. Oliphant, G. Olsen, Jensen, Wilke, Summers, J. Olson, Syverson, Jacobsen, Flaten, Claybourn, Boyum, Tonheim, LeBeau, Elvebak.

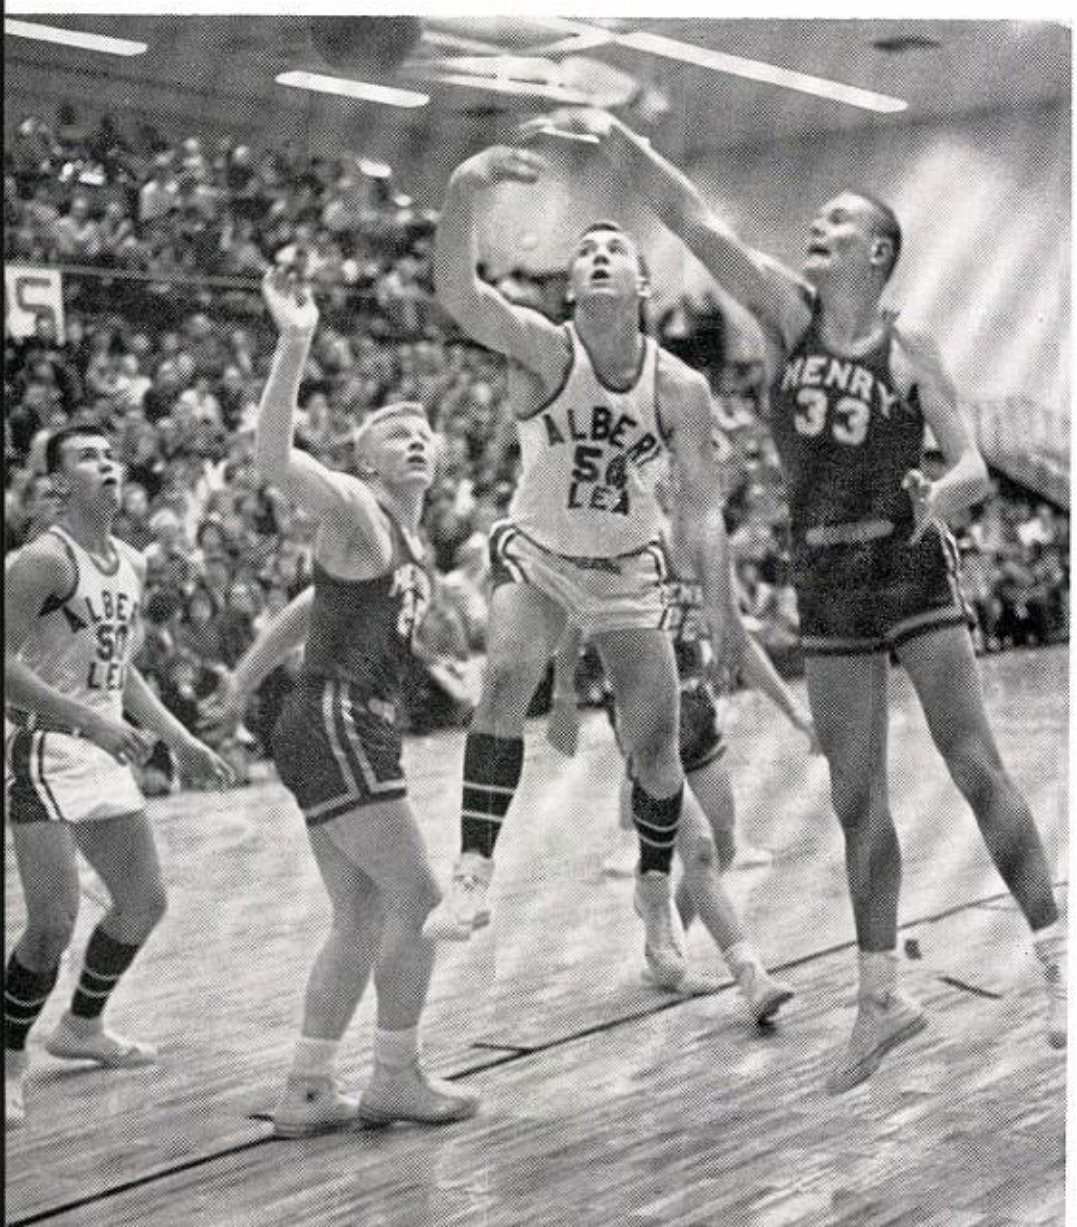
Cagemen Escape Early Doldrum,



ACCURATE ARCHER. Lowell Syverson, hustling Tiger front courtman, took aim on the hoop as Paul Wilke (30) fought for rebounding position against two Mason City defenders.

THE BIG HOOKER: Scrappy John Olson fired a hook shot during the Wells game. Meanwhile, John Jensen elbowed his way into rebounding position. Wells downed the Tigers, 60-48.





"AW, DARN IT." Tiger John Olson seemed to say as Patrick Henry's big center Mel Northway slapped away his attempted shot. Although he was hampered part of the season with injuries, Olson's rebounding was at many times superb.

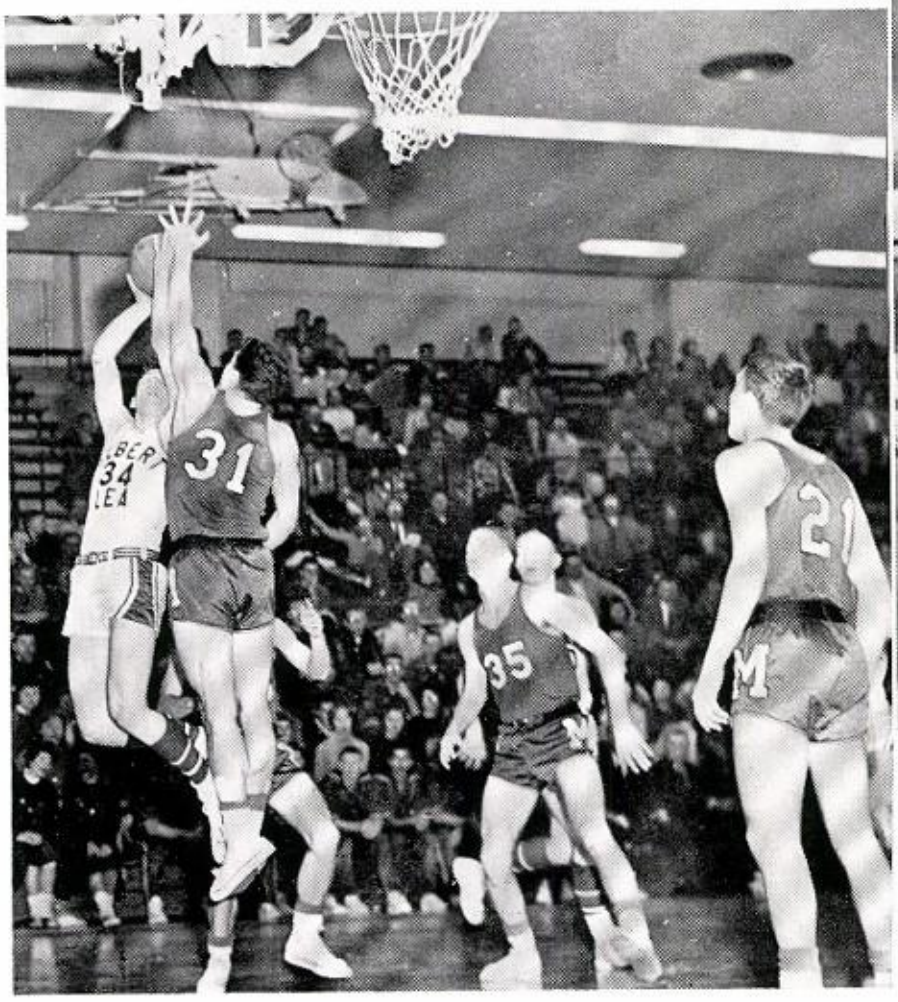
Against St. Paul Wilson, the Tigers hit well from the field and gathered a 58-39 non-conference win. Poor rebounding and cold shooting cost the Tigers the Richfield ball game. The Spartans used a zone defense throughout the second half, beating the hosts, 64-41.

One of the turning points of the season came in the Northfield game. Albert Lea drubbed the Raiders, 59-33, but the most impressive thing was the new spirit and hustle the Tigers seemed to find. Although they were not able to improve their record to any great extent, a definite improvement was evident in their play.

Albert Lea lost two successive games before finally recapturing the winning way against Mason City. First, the Winona Winhawks sneaked by the Tigers, 60-57, and then Rochester upset the courtmen, 54-44. Mason City was a definite favorite in the game at Southwest Gym, but Albert Lea dumped the Mohawks, 65-57.

A determined Austin quintet jumped off to an early lead in the second meeting of the two clubs, and chalked up an easy 71-53 victory. The Tigers bounced back the following week, upending Red Wing, 58-49.

Attain 7-11 Mark



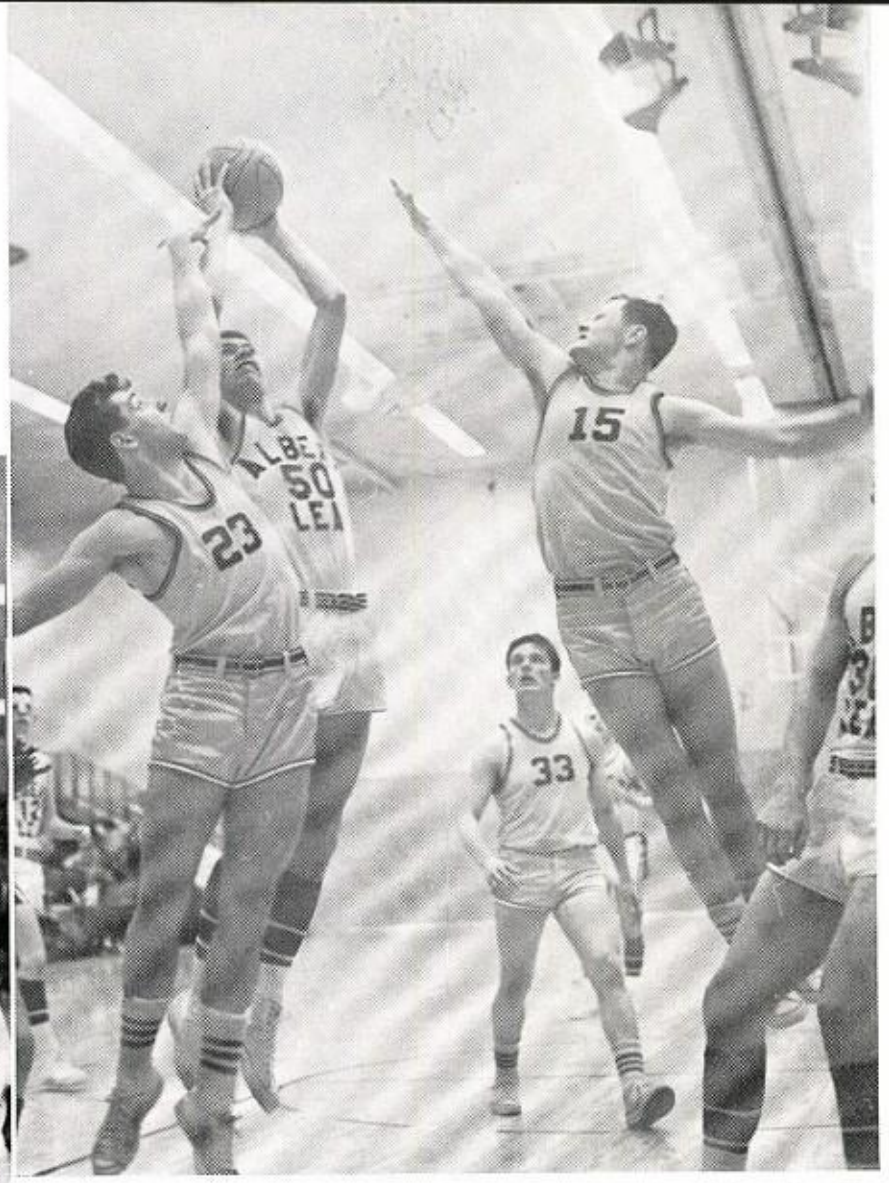
RICH OLIPHANT, TIGER GUARD, shot an underhand layup as two opposing defenders closed in. Paul Wilke (30) got set to follow in case the attempted shot went astray.

Rival Wells dealt the Tigers a stinging loss in their game at Albert Lea. The Tigers were ahead for a while, but the superior height of the Wildcats made the difference in the final period. The score was 60-48.

The Cagers next split a pair of overtime encounters. At Mankato, the Tigers held a commanding lead for three and one-half quarters before allowing the Scarlets to come back and tie the score with ten seconds remaining. Mankato won the game, 68-66, in overtime. Against Faribault, the situation was exactly the same. This time the Tigers tallied 15 points in the three minute overtime period won by a score of 68-54.

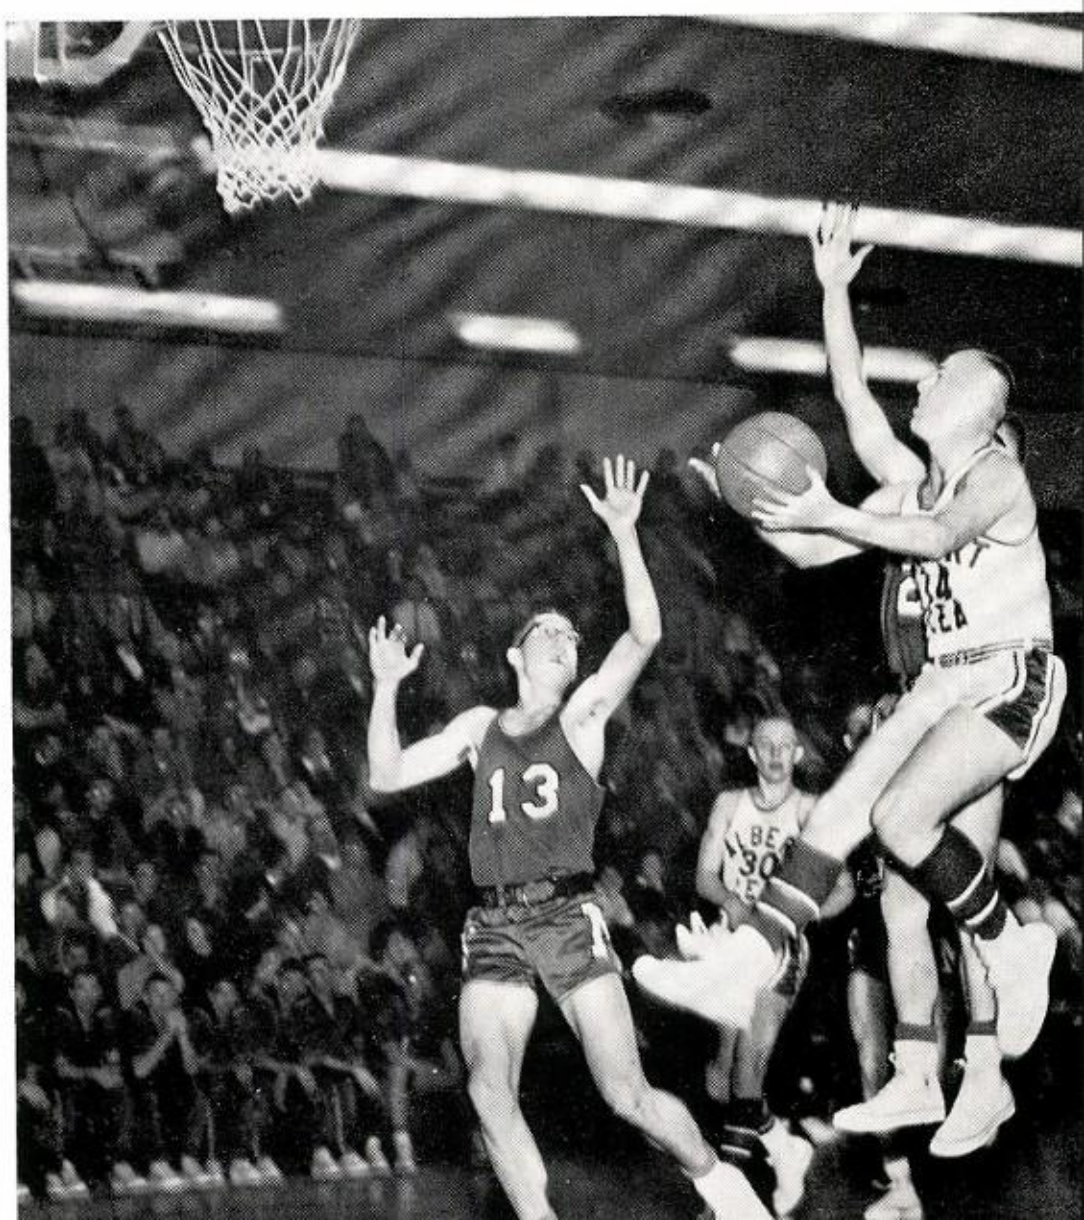
In the season finale against St. Paul Murray, the Tigers pumped in 75 points and toppled the metropolitan foes, 75-51. This was the first time all season that the cagers were able to win two games in succession.

A crowd of more than 3,500 people jammed Albert Lea's gymnasium to see the District Tournament game. The Tigers battled the highly lauded Packers from Austin to a standoff for three quarters, leading most of the way. Fouls took their toll in the final period, however, and Albert Lea lost, 53-48.



NICE BOARD WORK. Lowell Syverson snagged a rebound and prepared to put it back in during the Murray game. Lanky Lowell was a stalwart in the Tigers' late season improvement.

BIG REACH. Clair Flaten, Tiger center, fired a jump shot over the outstretched hand of Mason City's Dick Adams. Flaten held the high-jumping Mohawk center to a scant seven points.



Height, Experience Marks Promise

Despite their only mediocre record, the 1960-61 cagers set two new records. Against St. Paul Wilson, Paul Wilke dropped in an amazing 39 points to break the school mark. The previous high had been 31. By scoring 75 points against St. Paul Murray, the courtmen smashed another record. It was the most points scored by either Albert Lea or its opponent since the Tigers started playing in Southwest Gymnasium in 1958. Austin scored 73 in the 1958 District II Tournament.

The season was a rather disappointing one for the team as well as for the fans. The Tigers had high pre-season hopes, but injuries throughout the campaign caused the hopes to dwindle slowly. In just a couple of games, and then for only brief spurts, was the Tiger lineup ever at full strength.

Looking ahead to next season, there is again a great deal of potential. In Clair Flaten, Gary Jacobsen and Lowell Syverson, the Tigers have three experienced big men returning. Dave Boyum should be a superb "take-charge guy" in the backcourt. This year's reserves, John Jensen, Ralph Summers, Gerry Olsen and Dave Elvebak should bolster the squad. All in all, barring any unforseen injuries, the future looks much better.

VALUABLE ASSISTANTS. Cage managers Lee Carlson, Bill Satre and Jim Krueger hooked up the scoreboard during a practice session. All three boys were valuable assistants to the coaches.

BENCH STRENGTH. Tiger reserves, John Olson (54), Gerry Olsen (24) and Dave Elvebak (left), converged on a St. Paul Murray opponent. The Tigers downed Murray, 75-51

With new coach Bill Christopherson at the helm, the 1960-61 Bengals compiled a 10-6 record. After starting the campaign impressively, the team fell into a slump.

Albert Lea opened the season by sweeping five games in succession and nine of their first ten. The Bengals defeated Minneapolis Henry, 38-18; Owatonna, 35-29; Mankato, 28-22; Austin, 33-31; and Emmons, 49-39. Then, after losing to Richfield, 26-19, the Bengals proceeded to win four consecutive encounters. They tripped Mason City, 59-48, toppled Northfield, 42-25, edged Winona, 38-36, and trounced Rochester, 51-37.

With their record standing at 9-1, the roof seemed to collapse on the Bengals. They lost five of their remaining six games and saw their season mark drop to 10-6. Their only victory during this dismal stretch was a 33-32 decision over the Mankato Scarlets.

Sophomore guard John Goodmanson led the Bengal scoring attack with 175 points. He was followed by Mike Wittkamper with 115, Denny Tostenson with 93, Harold Mueller with 72 and Dave Wilcox with 44.

DETERMINED TIGER SENIOR. Tom Guiney was a tremendous asset to the wrestling squad all season. His quickness and fine attitude made him a tough match for any opponent.

WRESTLING MANAGER'S DUTY. Larry Lahs, Tiger manager, inspected a Tiger warmup jacket while coaches Paul Ehrhard and George Acheff looked on, happy to see him doing his job.

District Two, Region One Crowns

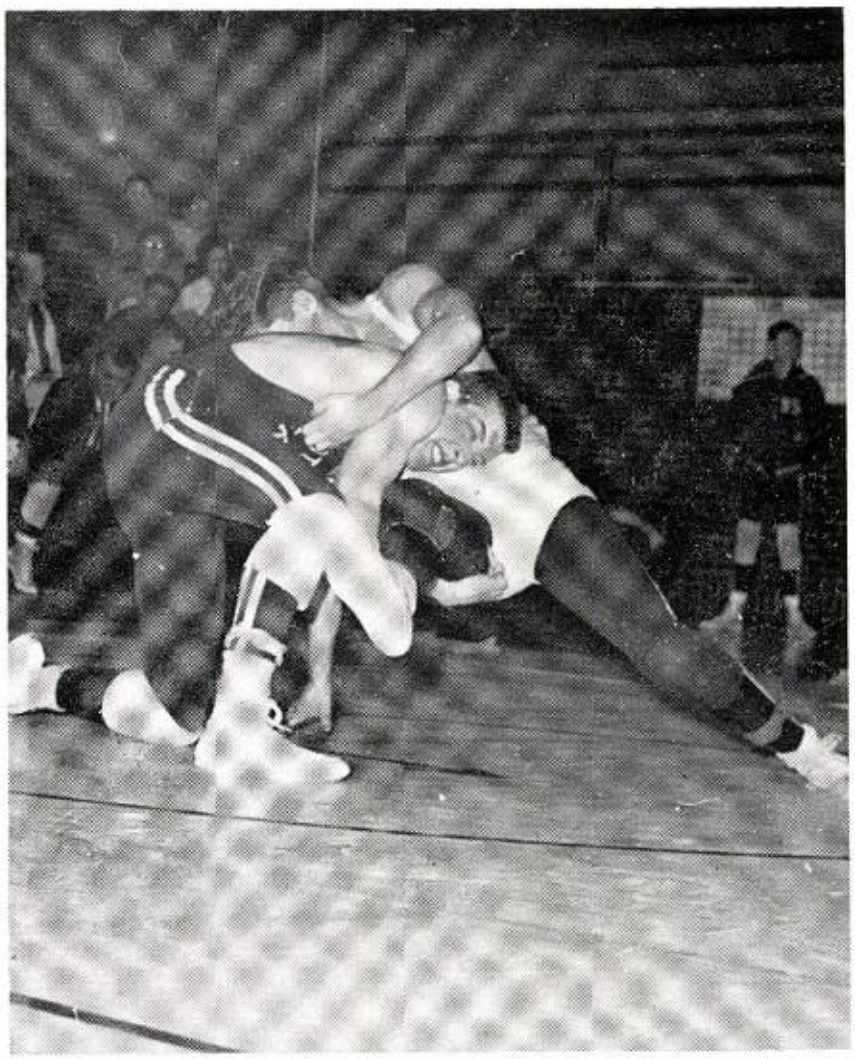
Continuing their tradition of finishing high in the conference and dominating the District Tournament, the 1960-1961 Tiger grapplers finished third in the Big Nine and easily repeated as District champions.

They finished their season with a record of 8-3-1. Their three losses were at the hands of three of the top ranking teams in the state — Owatonna, Mankato and Robbinsdale. In an early match they tied Faribault.

In dual competition throughout the year the Tigers outscored their opponents with a 319 total compared with 202 for their adversaries.

This year's squad was composed mostly of juniors. Only four seniors, Tom Guiney, Rog Christianson, John Gunderson and Larry Wolff, were included on the varsity. They did a fine job with three winning District titles and Christianson capturing a Regional crown.

This year's squad was a surprise to many. It was not expected to equal last year's team which captured District and Regional championships. However, it did just as well in tournament competition and produced a State Champion, Jeff Brooke.



JUNIOR GRAPPLER, BYRON BOER, strained to subdue his opponent during District Tournament action at Albert Lea. Despite his efforts, Boer was eliminated in first round competition.

Tiger Matmen Accumulate 8-3-1

Opening their season, the Tiger grapplers traveled to Mankato for the Mankato Invitational Tournament. Jeff Brooke won the heavyweight championship.

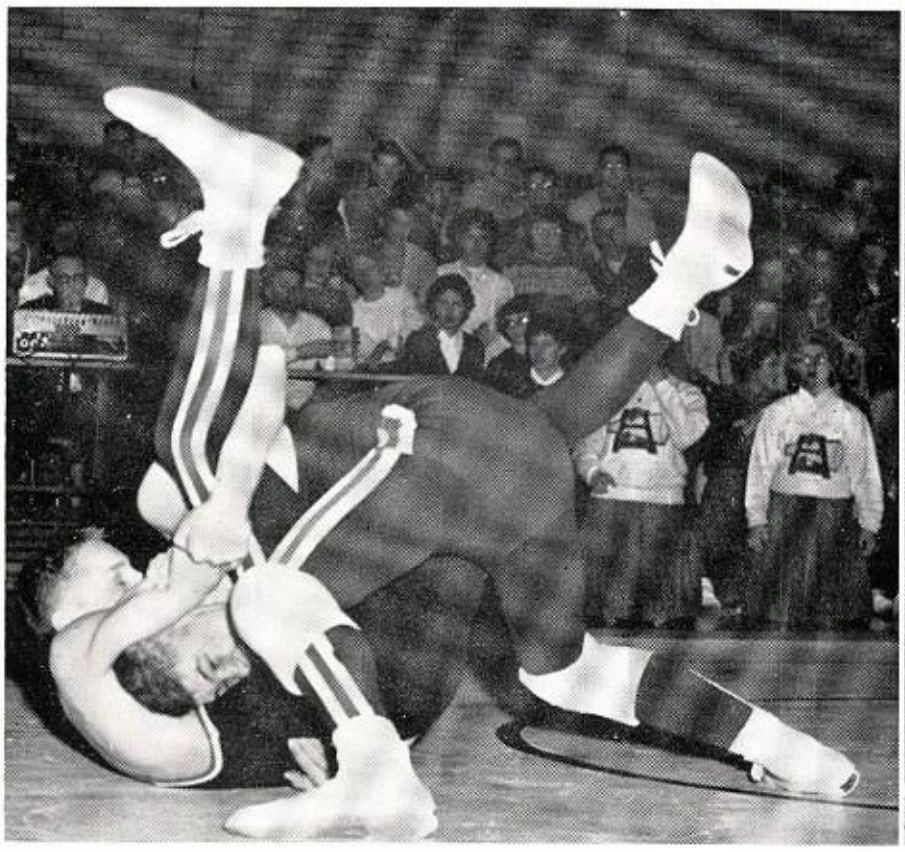
They commenced their dual meet season very slowly as they were thoroughly trounced by Owatonna's powerful aggregation, 44-5. In a near upset they lost a close match to Mankato, 23-19. Capturing their first win of the year, the Ehrhardmen downed Austin by 30-16. Faribault proved to be tough as it tied the Tigers, 19-19.

Wrestling three matches in a row with title contenders, the Tiger masters came out unscathed. They downed Northfield, 18-14, trounced Winona, 30-14 and defeated tough Rochester, 27-14. Putting on a surge at the end of the season they won their last four dual matches. Meeting Austin for the second time, they trounced the Packers again, defeating them 30-10.

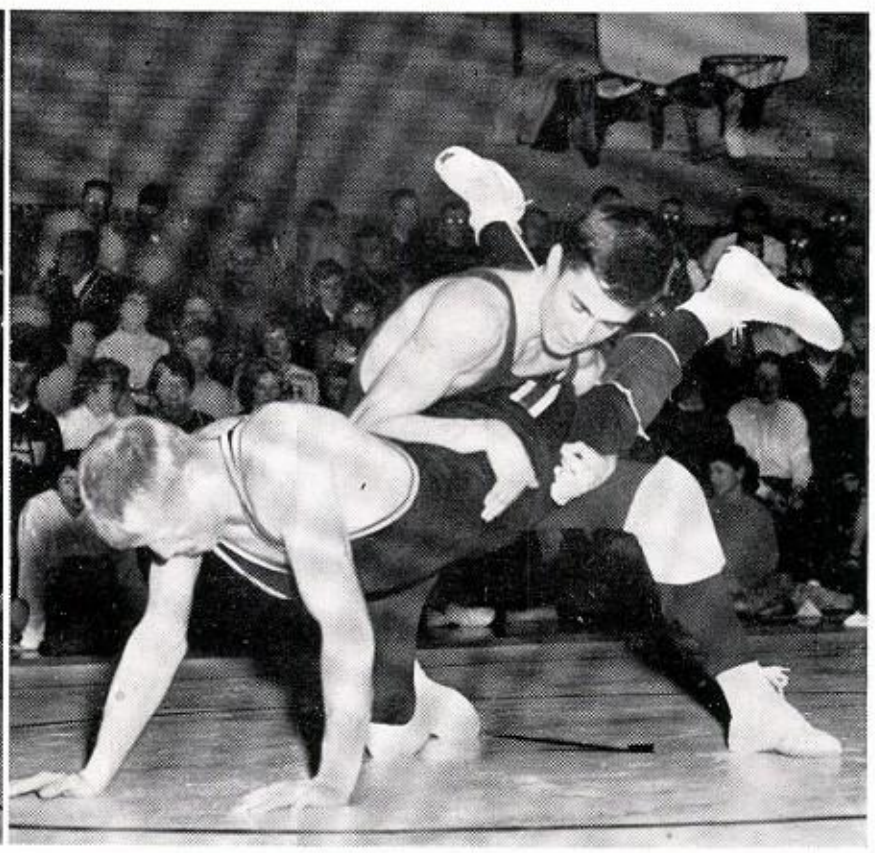
In two non-conference matches, warmups for the coming tournaments, the Tigers defeated Waconia, 30-12, and continued their domination of Waseca by downing the Bluejays, 36-6. In their final match of the season they downed a hapless Red Wing squad as they pounded out a decisive 51-2 over the Wingers.

FIGHTING DOGGEDLY to hang onto his opponent's leg, Roger Kittelson attempted to control his Austin adversary. Kittelson drew with his Packer foe as Albert Lea smashed Austin, 30-10.

SCRAPPY TIGER STRONGMAN Tom Guiney gained additional points for a near fall versus Rochester. Guiney's speed and stamina allowed him to score a win over his foe.



REGIONAL CHAMPION, Pete Fabry, rendered his Rochester foe helpless by taking away his leg power during their mid-season match. Fabry was victorious, and the Tigers won, 27-14.



Dual Meet Mark

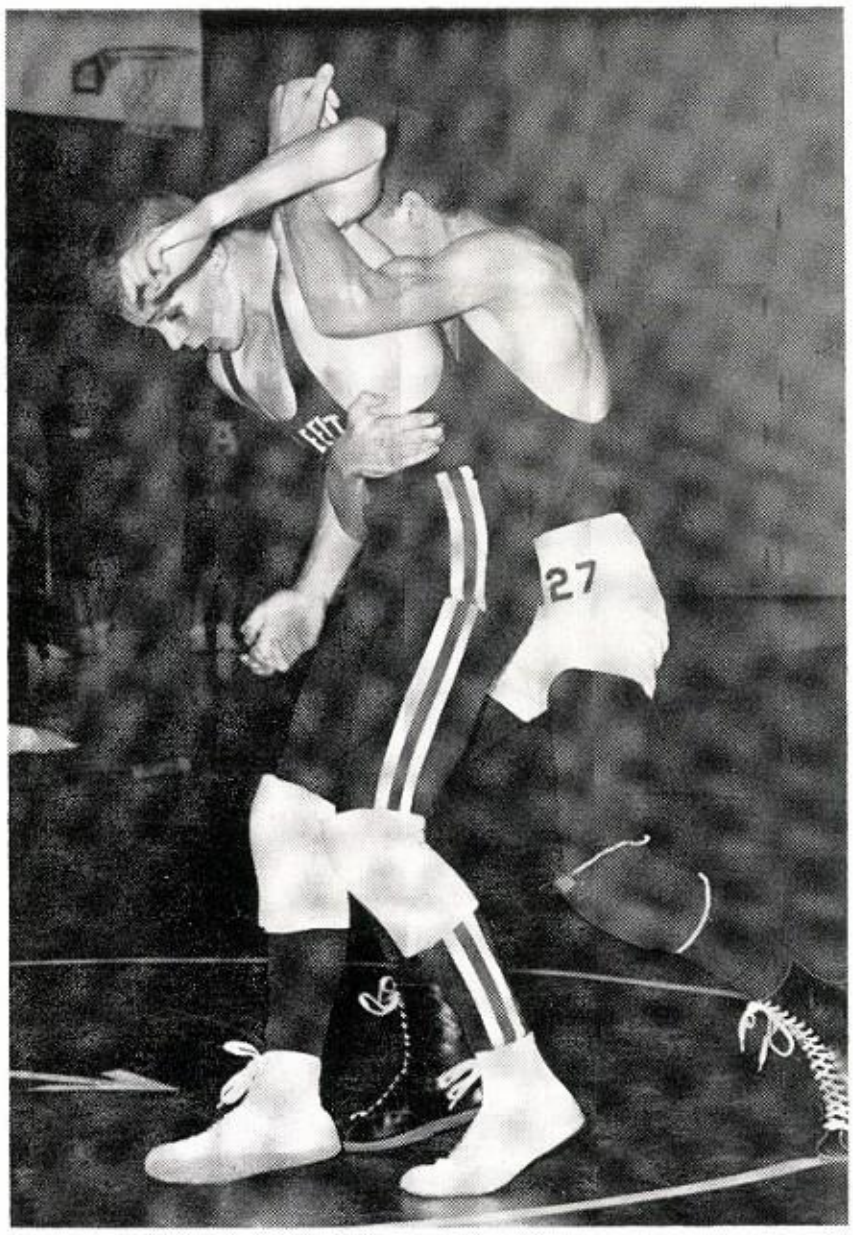
In the District Tournament the Tigers successfully defended their title, racking up a total of 130 points to runner-up Austin's 77. Nine Albert Lea grapplers captured individual titles and two more were runners-up in their respective weight divisions.

John Ingebritson (85), Pete Fabry (103), Rog Christianson (112), John Gunderson (120), Tom Guiney (133), Bruce Palmer (145), Tom McKey (154), Bob Kennedy (165) and Jeff Brooke (hwt) captured coveted District titles. Larry Wolff and Rog Kittleson took runner-up honors and advanced to the Regional Tournament.

Placing 11 ment in the Regional Tournament held at Southwest Gymnasium, the Tiger grapplers continued their domination of the tourney by winning it for the third year in succession. They piled up 74 points compared to runner-up Faribault which finished with 65.

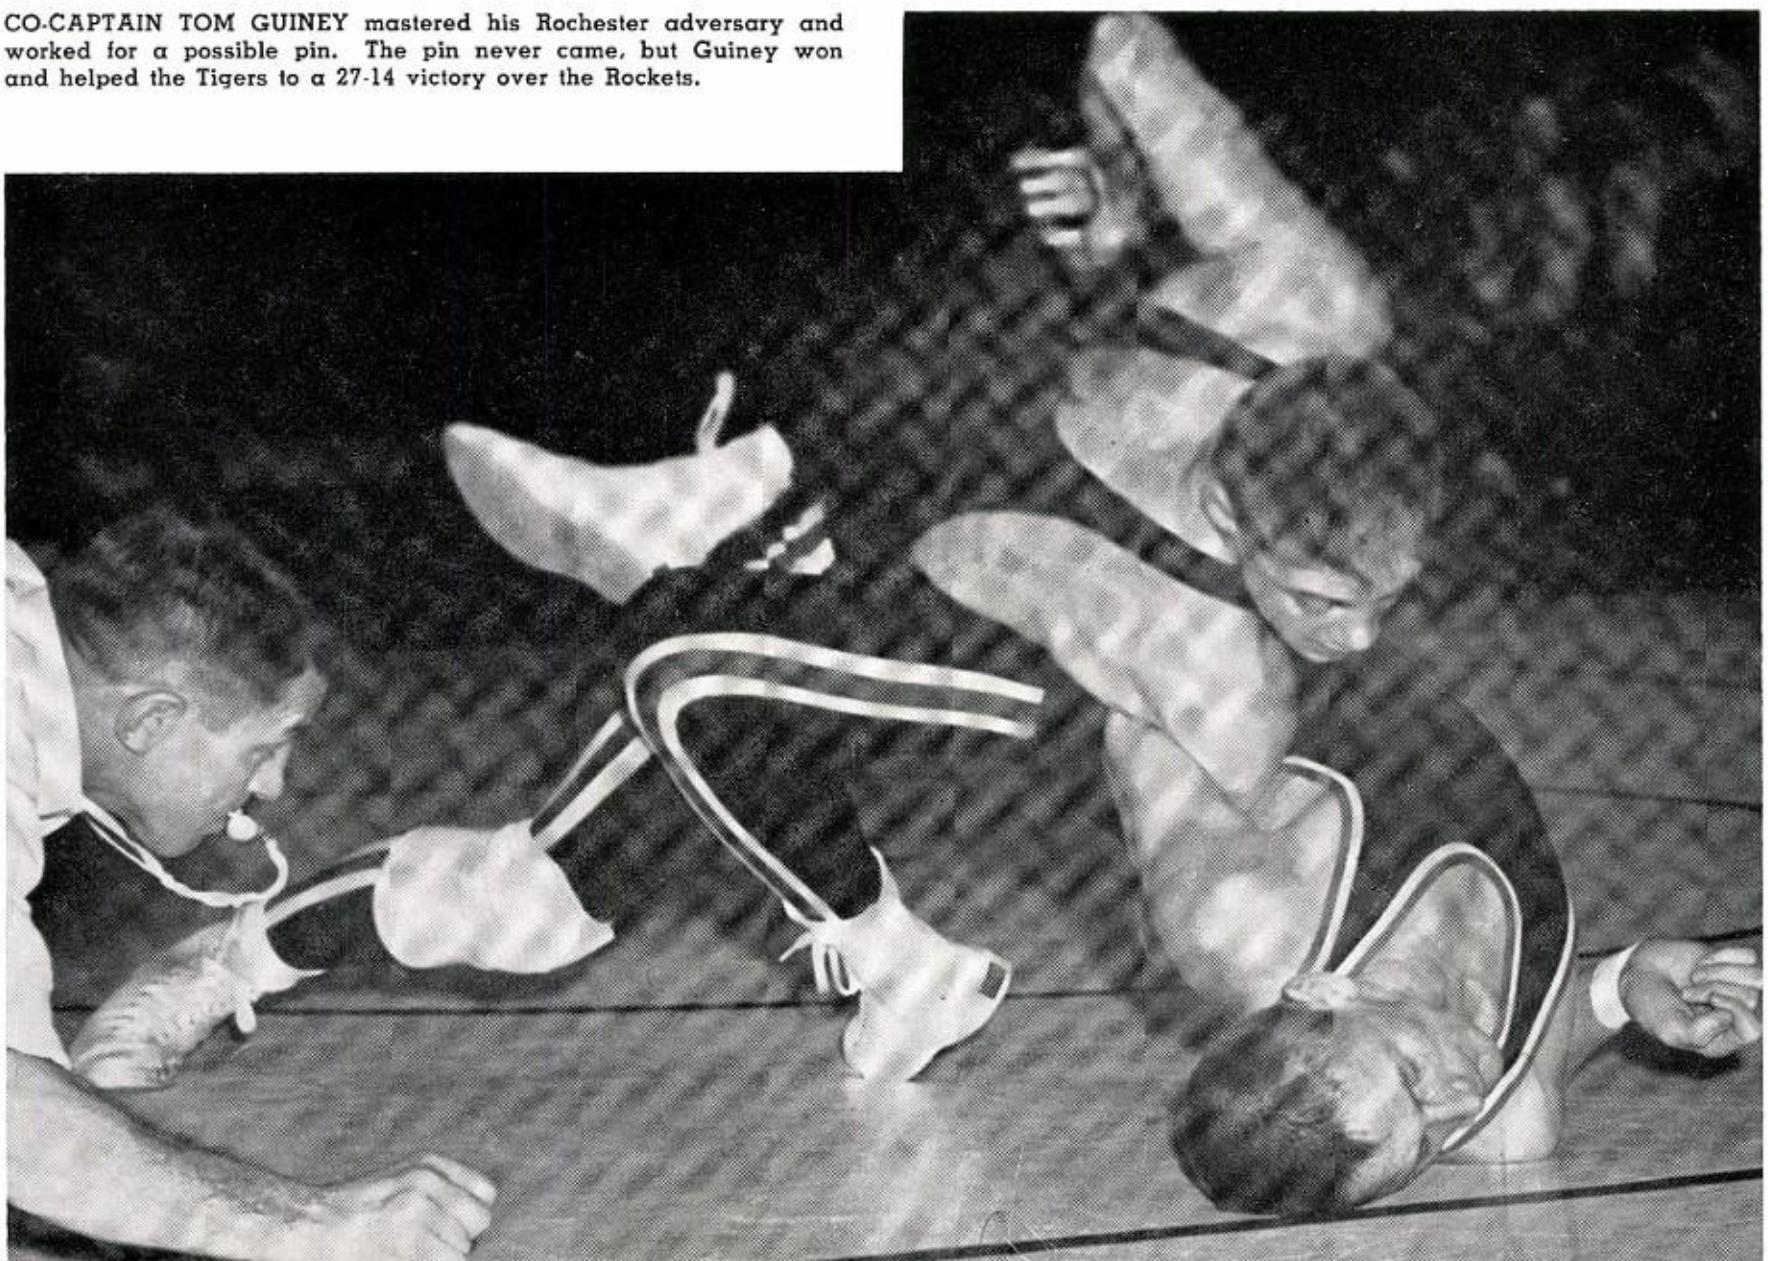
Winning regional titles were Ingebritson, Fabry, Christianson and Brooke. McKey finished second, and thus qualified for a berth in the State Meet.

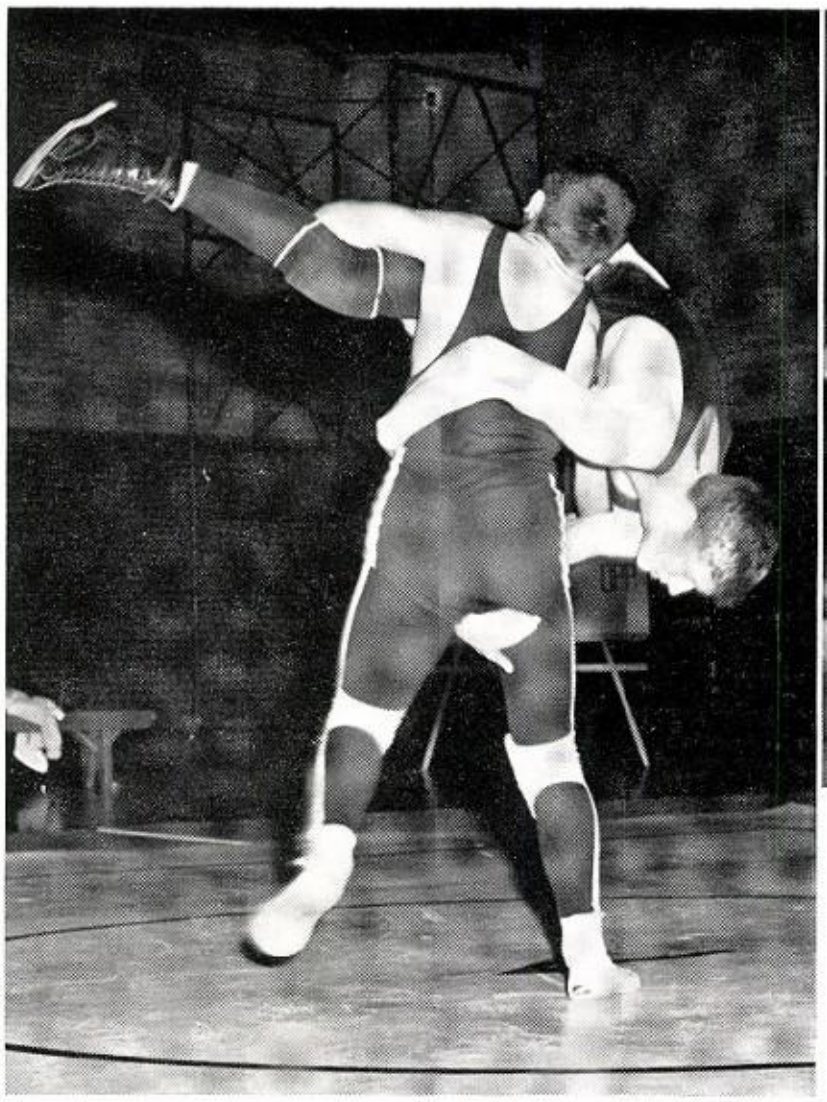
In the State Tourney held at Gustavus Adolphus College the Tigers gathered a tenth place finish.

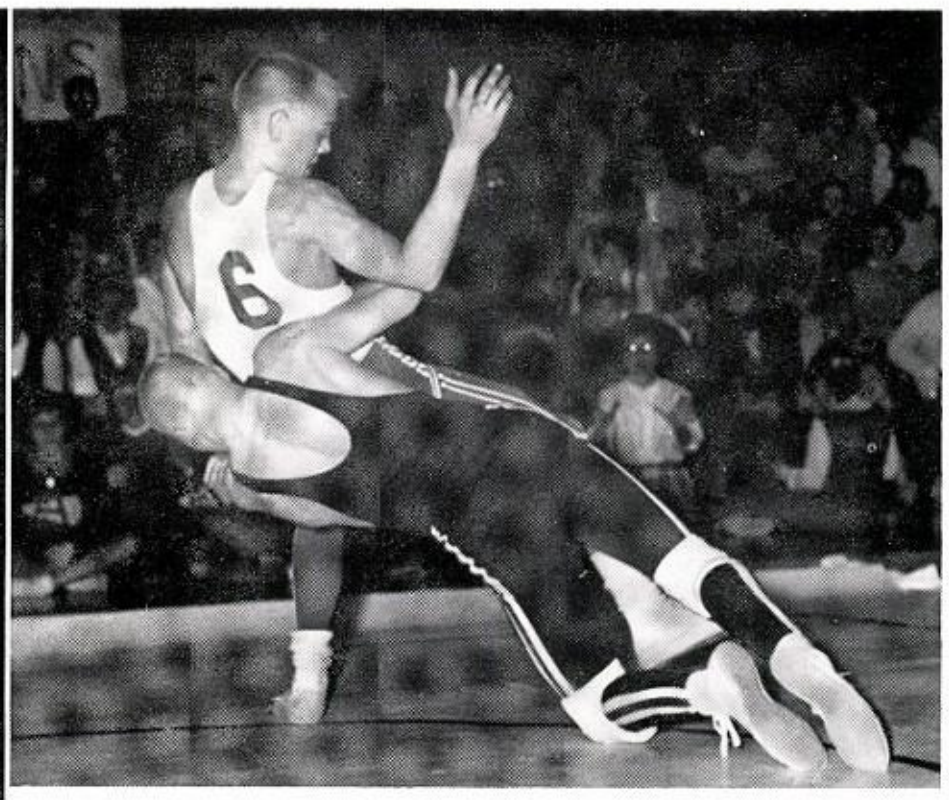


AUSTIN'S 127-POUND MATMAN, Merrill Stephens, prepared to take down Albert Lea's Roger Kittelson in their first match. Stephens defeated the fighting Tiger grappler, 4-2.

CO-CAPTAIN TOM GUINEY mastered his Rochester adversary and worked for a possible pin. The pin never came, but Guiney won and helped the Tigers to a 27-14 victory over the Rockets.



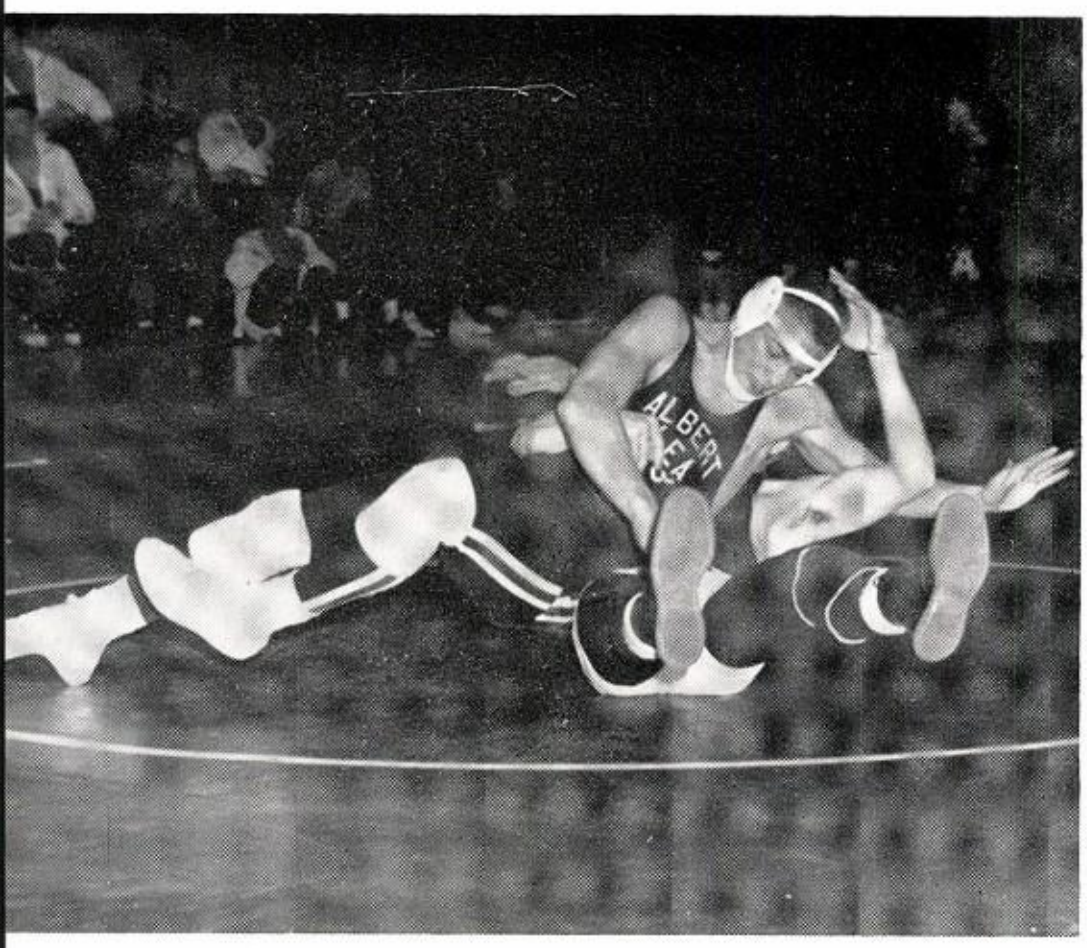




TWO POINTS IN THE MAKING. Roger Kittelson got behind his Owatonna foe and slammed him to the mat for two points. Kittelson showed tremendous improvement during the mat season.

TIGER IRONMAN, BOB KENNEDY, lifted his opponent, Doug Wilcox of Austin, high off the mat during their match. Talented Kennedy acquired the District II championship in the 165 pound division.

Tigers Place Tenth in State Tourney



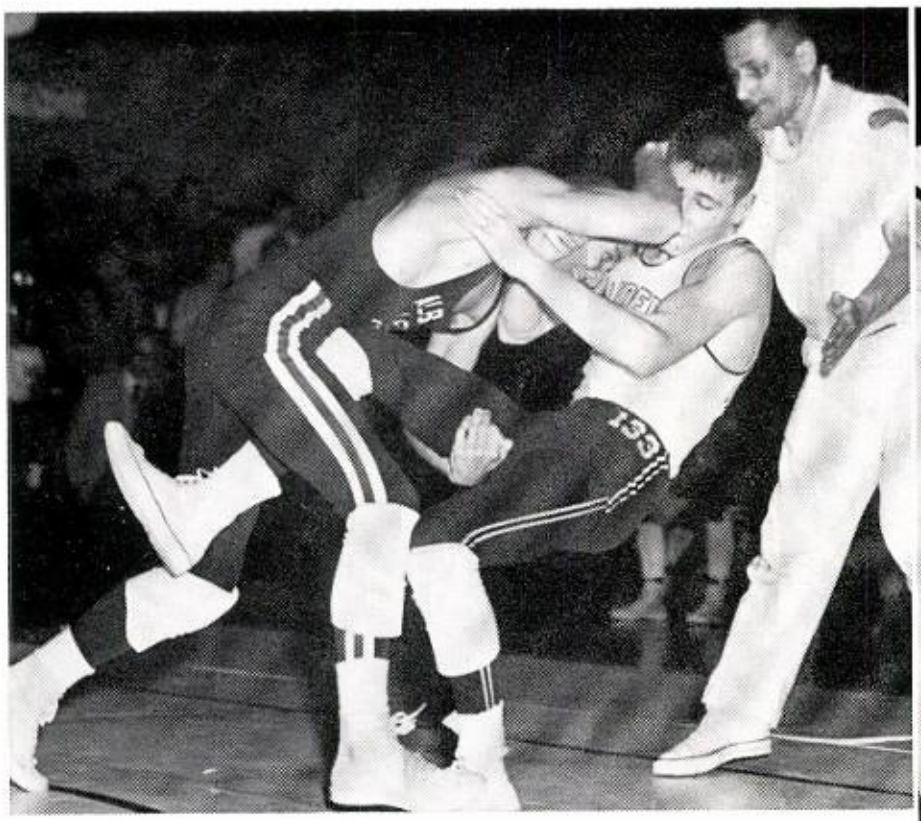
FIGHTING TOM GUINEY landed on top of his Austin opponent for two points as both boys toppled to the mat. Guiney captured the 133-pound District II wrestling crown.

Providing the inspiration for this year's squad were the two co-captains, Tom Guiney and Jeff Brooke. They set good examples and were respected by the boys.

This was supposed to be a rebuilding year for the Tiger grapplers. It proved to be more than that, however, as they again captured the District and Region Tournaments and also finished high in the State.

Determination was what won many matches for the Tigers this year. There were times when there was a tendency to let down, but they realized it before it was too late and often came home without a victory.

Much credit must go to coach Paul Ehrhard. He installed the drive in the team when it was needed.



ANOTHER DISTRICT CHAMP, John Gunderson, fought off his opponent during the Albert Lea-Northfield regular season encounter. The Tiger matmen dropped the Raiders, 28-14.

Brooke Captures Heavyweight Title

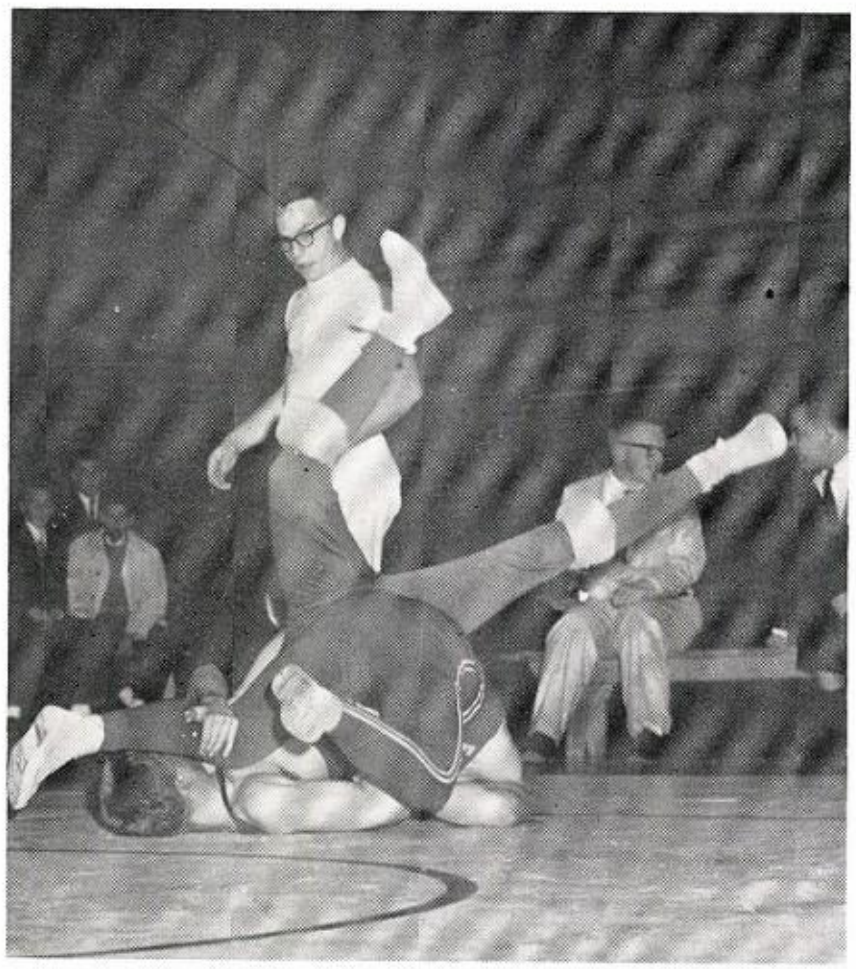
JEFF BROOKE (Upper left and standing), Albert Lea's kingpin in the heavyweight division, stalked his adversary, Austin's Bruce MacLaren. Brooke was the undefeated State Champion in his class.

The stalwart of this year's squad was Jeff Brooke. He went through the entire season without absorbing one single loss. This included dual competition and the District and Regional tournaments. He also emerged victorious from the State Tournament and brought home the metal which was symbolic of his victory. There were times during the season when it appeared that he might go down to down to defeat but he came through and pulled out those important victories.

Jeff was not too heavy for his weight class. This was somewhat of a disadvantage to him, but also an advantage. There were many times when he wrestled fellows that were as much as thirty or forty pounds heavier. It proved to be an advantage as it gave him tht all-important factor of speed. Brooke was faster than most wrestlers his size. This helped him tremendously as he usually got the takedown on his opponent.

Prospects for next year's squad are very promising. Nine returnees are back from this year's squad. This should provide quite a nucleus for next year.

Bengal Grapplers Gain Experience,



Under the tutelage of George Acheff, the Albert Lea Bengals completed the season with a 8-5 record.

The Bengals followed much the same pattern as the varsity. They lost their first two matches but finished strong at the end of the season by winning their last five matches. This shows that some of the boys on the squad show quite a lot of promise of next year's varsity. This is the main purpose of the squad.

Opening their season they were defeated by an Owatonna team, 31-14. Losing their second in a row, they absorbed a 26-19 loss to a tough Mankato team.

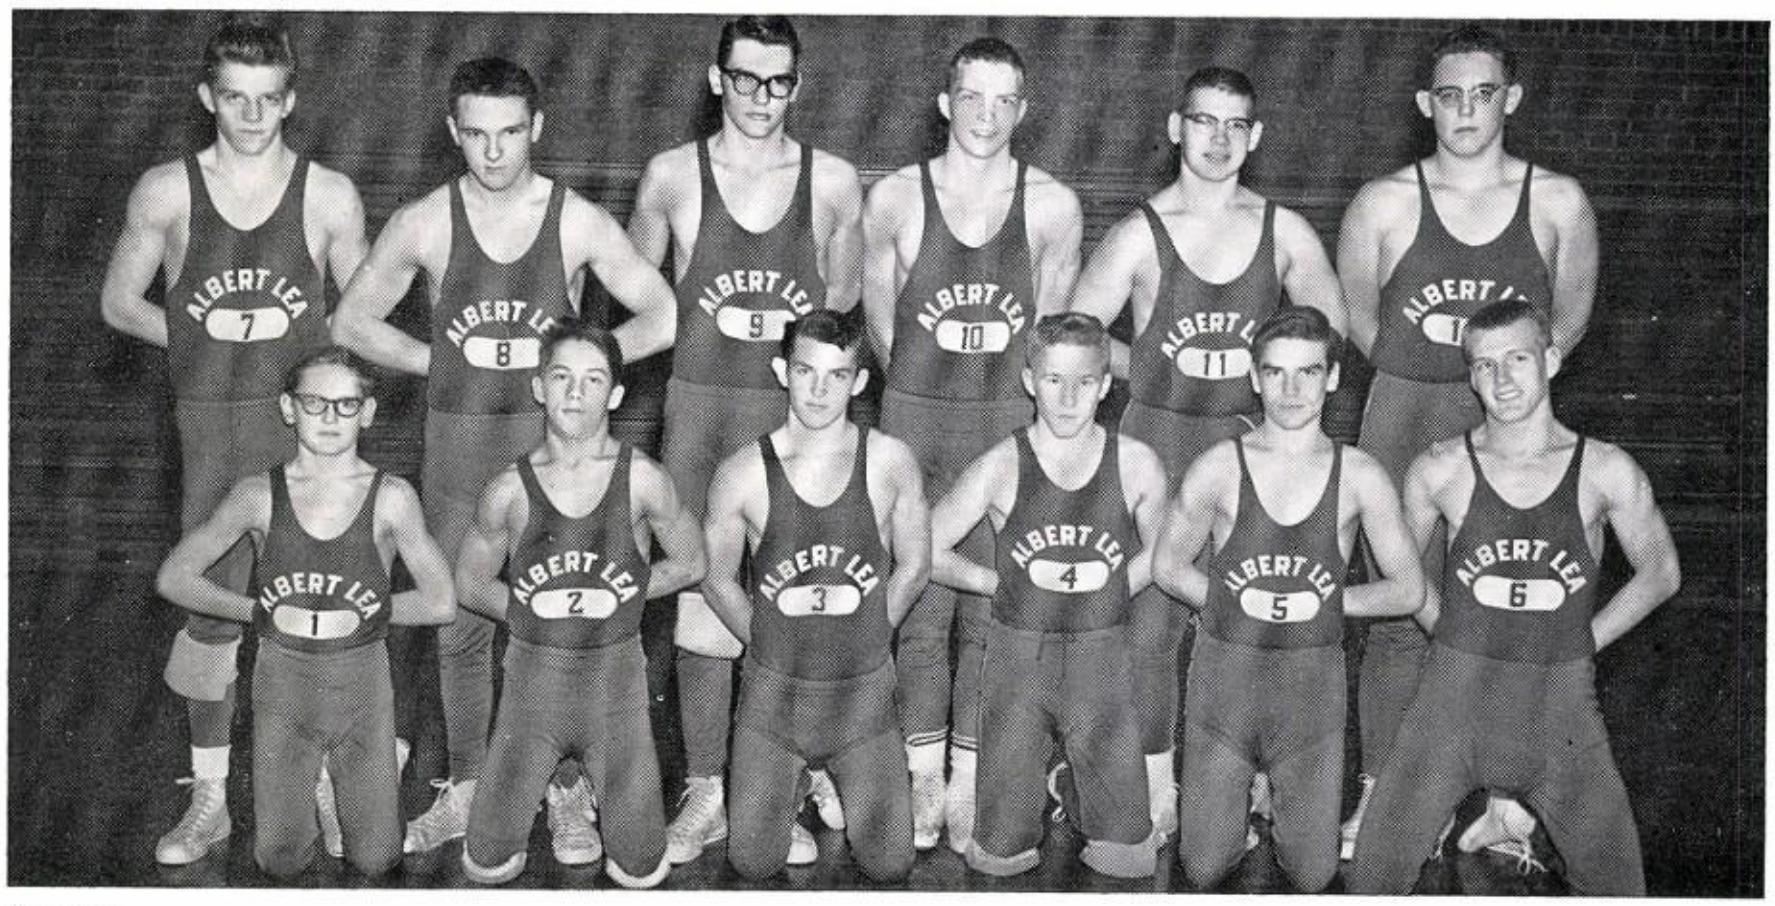
Winning their first game of the year, the Bengals eeked out a 29-21 win over the Austin B squaders. They suffered their third loss to the Hayfield varsity by 27-21.

Resuming their winning ways, the Bengals lambasted Faribault by an amazing score of 33-9. They dropped a tight match to Northfield, 24-22.

Gaining their third win they scraped out a 29-9 win over the Winona Bengals. Meeting Hayfield for the second time of the year they were trounced, 35-8.

DAVE RASMUSSEN, BENGAL MATMAN, found himself in an unhealthy predicament during one of his matches. Rasmussen was one of the more promising boys on the squad.

1960-61 FIGHTING TIGER BENGAL GRAPPLERS — FRONT ROW: Neist, Stauch, Allen, Hurst, Hanson, Gilpin. SECOND ROW: Modin, Houchin, Breamer, Jahns, Westrum, Margadant.



Compile Fine 8-5 Seasonal Mark

The first win in their streak came over Rochester as the Rockets fell by the wayside by a score of 26-11. Ellendale proved to be the next victim as they dropped a 25-20 verdict to the up and coming Bengals.

Pouring it on at the end of the season they ran up their biggest margin of the season as they literally trounced hapless Waseca, 49-3. Ending their season they clobbered Red Wing, 42-6.

There were really no outstanding grapplers on this year's Bengal squad. It was an evenly balanced team with no one compiling an outstanding record.

The main problem on the B Squad this year was inexperience. Usually that is always a problem as there are new boys on the squad every year.

Most likely prospects for next year's varsity are Dan Gilpin, Gary Modin and Dean Allen. These three could usually be counted on for a win if it was needed. Gilpin finished the season with a only one loss whereas Modin dropped only two matches and Allen lost three.

DALLAS BREAMER, 165-POUND BENGAL, found himself the victim of a near fall against Ellendale. Breamer fought back, however, and overpowered his tough opponent.

HEAVYWEIGHT JIM MARGADANT fought to keep his feet against an Ellendale opponent. Margadant's late season performances were extremely impressive to coach Acheff.

Losing many of those close games that could have gone either way was the story of the 1960 baseball team. It finished the season with a record of 5-9.

Opening their season the Tigers journeyed to Blue Earth and dropped a 6-1 decision to the strong Bucs. Getting on the winning trail, they clobbered Mankato, 7-1. Facing what was probably the toughest team they faced all season, the Tigers were beaten, 10-3, by the powerful Austin Packers. After this they dropped a 3-2 heartbreaker to Rochester. On a very cold day the Tigers dropped another close out to Faribault.

In the return meeting with Austin the Tigers put up a good fight before losing to the Packers by a score of 10-4. The fired-up Tigers were ahead at one time and the score was tied at the end of the game. In the extra inning the Packers scored six runs for the victory.

Gaining their second win of the season, the Tigers defeated Red Wing by a score of 10-3. Another of the tough teams, Winona, downed the Tigers, 5-3.

Numerous School Records Tumble

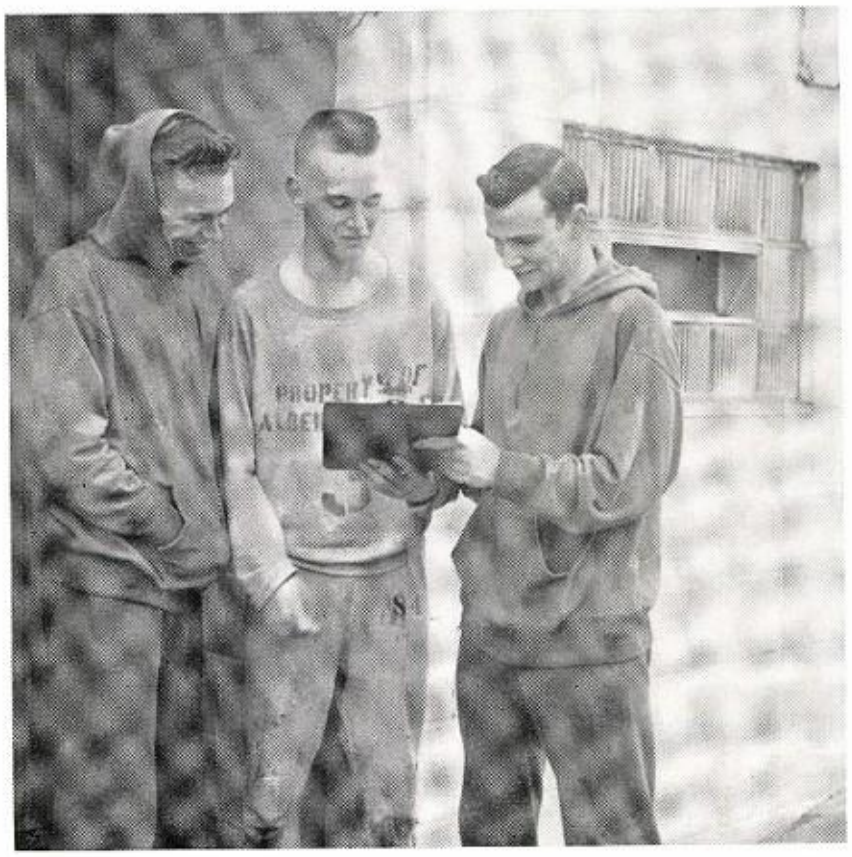
The 1960 Tiger tracksters captured the first Big Nine Conference championship in Albert Lea history. The Tigers had to edge out Mankato and Rochester to snag the coveted crown. Albert Lea scored 52 points, Mankato 51¾ and Rochester 48. Gary Jacobsen, with a brilliant individual performance, scored 17 points for the Tigers in the meet at Albert Lea.

The Tigers swept their two dual meets and placed second in the Mankato Triangular. They also won the Albert Lea Invitational by nosing out Wells, 94-91.

While winning the District II and Region I titles, the Tigers qualified three men, Ron Dahlen, Jacobsen and Dave Palmer, for the state meet. Dahlen's fourth place in the high hurdles gave the Tigers their only points.

Five school records were broken during the 1960 track season. Dahlen set new marks in both the high hurdles and low hurdles. His time in the highs was 15.0 seconds and in the lows, 20.0 seconds. Jim Thompson shattered the shot put mark with a heave of 47' 4½".

Two relay marks also fell. In the 440 yard relay, Joel DeNeui, Lew Kennedy, Thompson and Palmer teamed to run the distance in 46.3 seconds. Kennedy, Thompson, Palmer and Dahlen completed the 880-yard relay in 1.35.5 minutes for another all-time school mark.



TIGER DISTANCE MEN. Distance runners Reginald Harmes, Ray Jacobsen and Al Gavere discussed their times after completing a trial run during a Tiger practice session.

1960 Net Squad

Paul Wilke's Tiger netmen finished the season last year with an overall record of 2-6.

In their initial encounter the Tiger netsters dropped a 6-3 decision to arch-rival Austin. St. James, which comes up with a good team every year, eeked out an 4-3 victory over the scrappy Tigers. Powerful Faribault trounced the Tigers, 6-1, in their next outing. Playing Austin in a return match, the Tigers lost, 7-2.

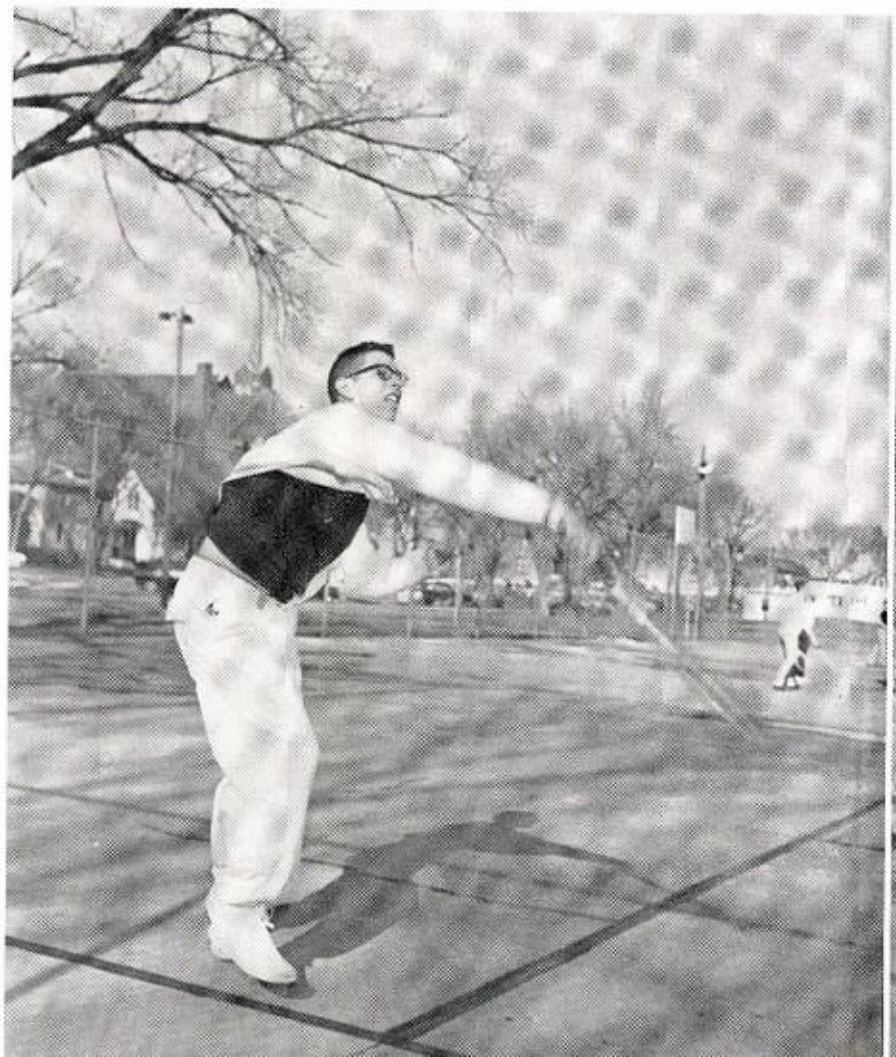
Two of the top teams in the conference were next for the Tigers. Rochester, always one of top teams, downed the Tigers, 6-1. Mankato defeated them, 5-2.

Finishing their season in strong fashion, the Tigers dropped Red Wing, 4-3, and upset Owatonna, 3-2.

In the Big Nine Conference meet the Tigers came through with a strong fourth place finish. Austin, who defeated the Tigers in dual competition, finished two behind them in sixth place.

LEADING RACKET MAN. Senior letterman Paul Wilke returned to bolster the Tiger tennis squad. Wilke topped a list of three returning veterans from last year's tennis squad.

ACCURATE SERVE. Junior tennisman, Dave Boyum, viciously smashed a powerful serve during net drills. Boyum's fine play was a spark to the Albert Lea Tiger netmen.



RACKET MAN ON THE PROWL. Netman John Jensen struck a peculiar pose as he leaped high to return an opponent's shot during an early season tennis practice session.

Linksters Finish

Bill Standly, in his last season as the Tiger golf coach, led his linksters to a season record of 7-1. They also finished a strong third in the Big Nine Meet.

In their opening match they downed a tough Mankato team, 175-194. Continuing their winning ways they dropped a scrappy Northfield squad, 156-164.

Showing that they could come through when the chips were down, they scraped out a close match with Faribault, defeating the Falcons, 124,129.

In one of the most important matches of the year the Tiger linksters eeked out a 275-278 win over arch-rival Austin. Continuing their undefeated ways, they trounced Rochester by a score of 289-311.

Losing their first only dual match of the season, Austin dropped the Tigers, 317-333. Getting back on the winning way, they dropped Owatonna, 163-169.

Last fall's intramural football championship was won by the team captained by Ron Swanson. His team finished the season with a record of 10-1-1.

Swanson's team was blessed with a great deal of speed and weight in its line, which is quite unusual for an intramural team. Also it had a very good passing attack, which had Swanson throwing and Gary Davidson and Ron Hoium receiving.

In second place was the squad led by Gary Roelofs. Roelof's squad ended the campaign with a 6-6-1 record. Outstanding players on this team were Dave Peterson, Lowell Syverson and Mike Morrison.

Finishing in third place was Dave Elvebak's team. It closed the season with a record of 4-6-2. It lost many close games to other teams but always seemed to get keyed up for the games with Swanson. It was the only team to defeat Swanson's championship unit, and it also handed it its only tie. Outstanding on this team were John Jensen, who consistently was passing for long yardage, and Elvebak, the breakaway runner.

The hard luck team of the league was Bill Jenner's squad. It ended the season with a record of 2-9-1.

INTRAMURAL CAGE CHAMPIONS—KNEELING: Jim Jorgenson, Gary Davidson, captain. STANDING: Bill Danielsen, Fred Kycek, Allen Tullberg, Jack Heather.

This year's intramural basketball championship was captured by the team captained by Gary Davidson. In second place was Ron Swanson's team.

Davidson's team was one of balanced scoring and good rebounding. The top scorers were Davidson and Bill Danielsen. These two averaged close to 20 points a game while leading their team to the championship.

The regular season championship was won by Steve Shea's quintet. Swanson's and Davidson's teams finished in a two way tie for second place.

Play-offs were held at the end of the season to determine the overall champion. The play-offs started with Swanson's team beating Shea and Davidson beating Ruerup. In the Shea-Swanson contest, Shea's squad lost their opening game by one point as the result of a technical foul called on one of Shea's players.

Top scorer in the league throughout the season was Orlo Willmert, who averaged close to 20 points a game. Other leading scorers were Dennis Kappas, Swanson, Davidson and Danielsen.

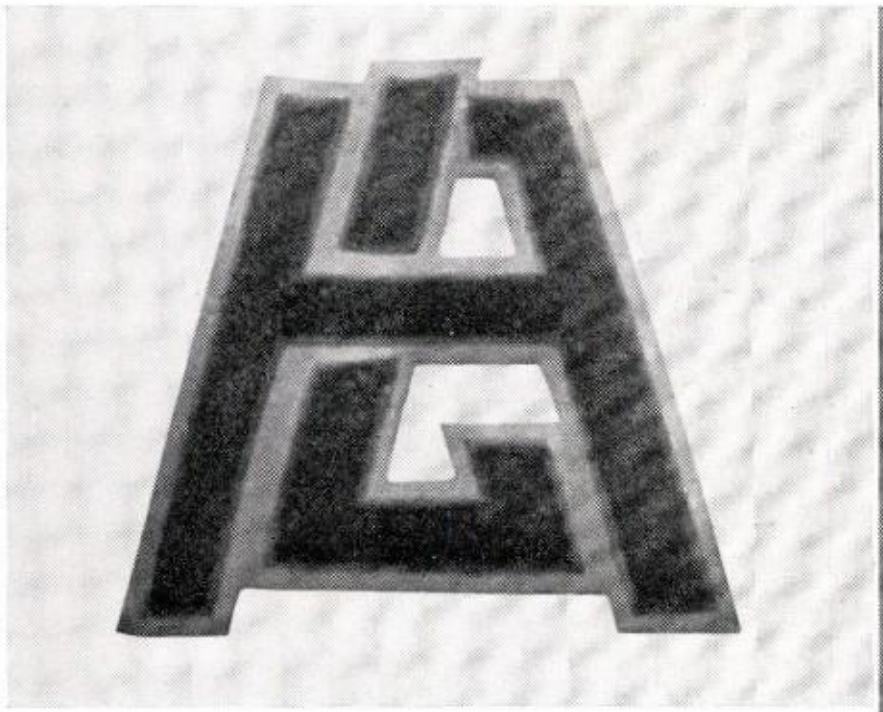
Under the guidance of their new adviser, Bruce Johnson, the Lettermen's Club made a big effort to improve the organization of the club.

The purpose of the Letterman's Club is to unify the athletes into one organization for the betterment of the school. The club attempted to improve the reputation of the school, not only in sports, but in social life as well.

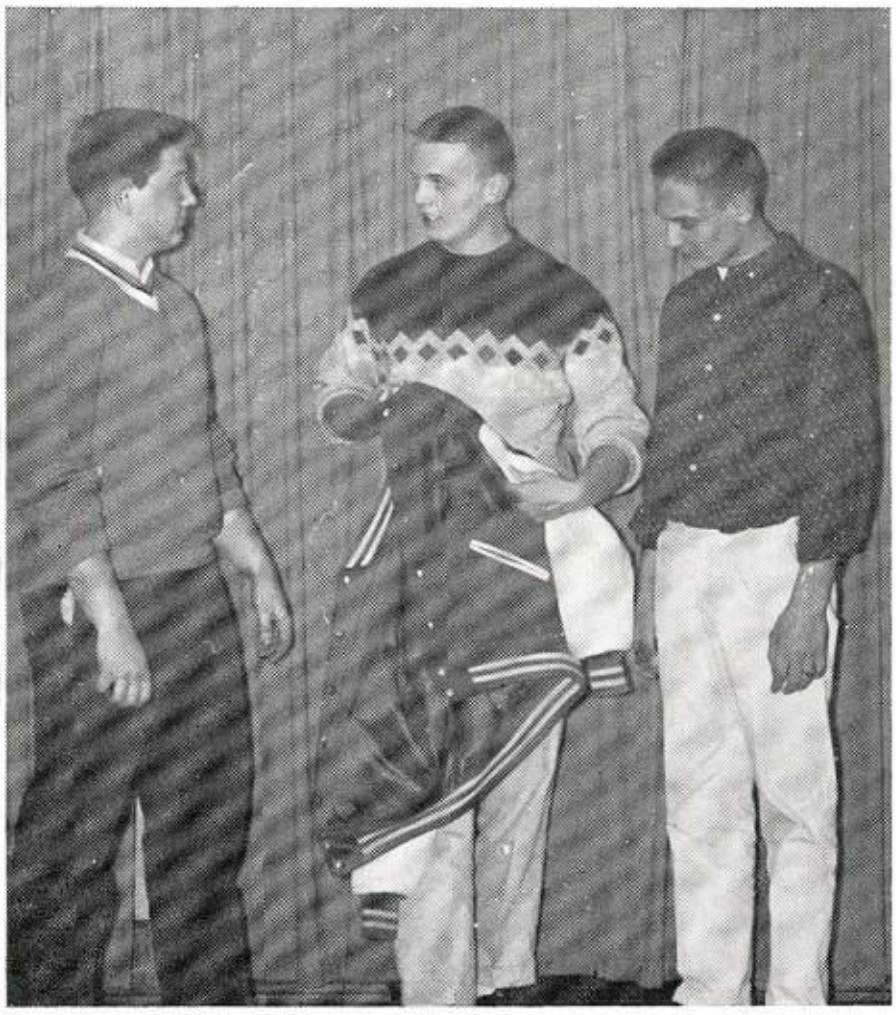
Following the Mason City basketball game, on January 27, the Letterman's Club sponsored a dance in the Boys' Gym. Wayne Mortenson was in charge of the preparations. The music was by records and pop was sold. All profits went to the Letterman's Club treasury.

Officers of the 1960-61 lettermen were picked at the first meeting of the club early in the fall. Bill Danielsen was chosen to fill the key post of president. Mike Knutsen held the position of vice president and John Olson served the capacity of secretary-treasurer. The ordering of letter jackets was the job of Wayne Mortenson.

Any boy who has won a varsity letter at sometime during his high school career is eligible for the club. There were approximately 40 active members in the club this year, more than many other recent year.



WHAT EVERY ATHLETE STRIVES FOR. Every boy who participates in varsity competition holds the coveted school letter in high esteem. Only deserving team members receive a letter.



"DO YOU LIKE IT?" exclaimed Wayne Mortenson to Frank Fretheim and Dennis Kappas as they inspected a new letter jacket. Mortenson was in charge of ordering the jackets.

Cheerleaders Strive To Raise Spirit

THE CHEERLEADERS WERE individuals judging from the varying reactions displayed at a football game. Gail Lageson seemed to be saying, "For goodness sake, Margit Larson, will you take off that campaign button while we're cheering?" Sandy Hanson was puzzled, Judi Olson was ecstatic while Cindy Bothof was just plain happy! "Skip" Wilhelm, alternate, was not pictured.

Several innovations were added to the cheerleading squad this year. During the summer, a local clothing store requested permission to donate new uniforms. Wallace's supplied the wool and paid for the sweaters and letters, which were purchased from an athletic supply company. Consisting of blue pleated culottes, white sweaters and cherry and blue letters, the uniforms were first worn at a pep assembly on January 13.

After the request, it was decided between the varsity cheerleaders and the administration that "Skip" Wilhelm, a senior, would be alternate cheerleader during the football season and become a regular when the new uniforms arrived. The even number of six enabled the girls to attend the basketball games and wrestling matches equally. Three attended each event, since these were usually held on the same night.

In April, a cheerleading clinic was set up to instruct younger girls interested in cheerleading. Each member of the A and B squads was put in charge of a small group, teaching the fundamentals of cheerleading, school songs and various cheers. At the end of the four-week series, next year's squads were chosen.

With Innovations

USING A NEW CHEER, "CIRCLE FIVE", the girls led the huge crowd at Southwest Gym in an effort to help raise the score at the Austin District basketball game March 7.

As unofficial representatives of Albert Lea High School, the girls greeted cheerleaders from opposing schools and tried their best to maintain good sportsmanship at sporting events. They planned pep assemblies, again striving to raise school spirit. Pep Club assisted in the attainment of this goal by financing the making of the culottes, making signs, helping to teach new yells to the student body and by participating in the card section that performed at the Austin basketball games December 16 and March 7.

This year's varsity squad members, all seniors, showed outstanding leadership in other school and extra-curricular activities throughout their senior high years. All were in A Chorus with three in Chorale, three were Homecoming Queen attendants, two were Student Council officers, three were student Lionesses, one was a Kiwanis representative, three were prom committee chairmen, one was a candidate for Queen of Snows, one was a member of the Tiger and Ah La Ha Sa staffs and all belonged to Pep Club and Hi-Teens.

JUMPING HIGH WAS "SKIP" WILHELM, varsity cheerleader. This jump was a typical ending to many of the cheers used this year.

ACTIVE PEP CLUB SIGN-MAKERS Charlotte Skogheim, Becki Boyer and Sandy Hanson taped a sign to the bus that carried the Tiger grapplers to the Mankato wrestling match.

Increased Spirit and Participation

Promoting school spirit and related activities was the main objective of the Pep Club this year.

Consisting of female members from the entire senior high, the club carried on projects to raise money to be used toward the achievement of their common goal. They employed tried-and-true means, such as bake sales and pompon selling at the Homecoming game, and they sponsored a dance for the student body. These funds were used toward various ends, such as purchasing a letter sweater for the exchange student, Bernard Bouvet, and supplying the paper for the signs that appeared in the halls and adorned the buses that carried players and fans to other towns.

The club was organized into permanent committees, the newest being the Card Section Committee directed by "Skip" Wilhelm. Jean Madson headed the committee that met to improve the Tiger that hangs on the wall at Southwest Gym, the Constitution Committee with Chairman Mary Gilbertson attempted to review the constitution, Becki Boyer's Sign Committee worked many hours on colorful signs and the Special Assemblies Committee planned the awards assembly and provided the athletic teams with miniature footballs, basketballs and wrestling mats, signifying the sport in which the athletes participated.

Another project was School Spirit Week, held in December. There also was a poster contest between the classes and a Cherry and Blue Day. These activities were designed to place more emphasis on the Albert Lea-Austin basketball games.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Phyllis Hostager, the club members helped the cheerleaders by planning a pep assembly, aiding in the teaching of new yells and buying the culottes for the new uniforms.

AN ANNUAL PROJECT OF PEP CLUB is cleaning the trophies. Carol Yost, vice president, Judy Kennelly, treasurer, and Lynda Bell, president, were among many who polished and dusted the trophies before arranging them in the new case.

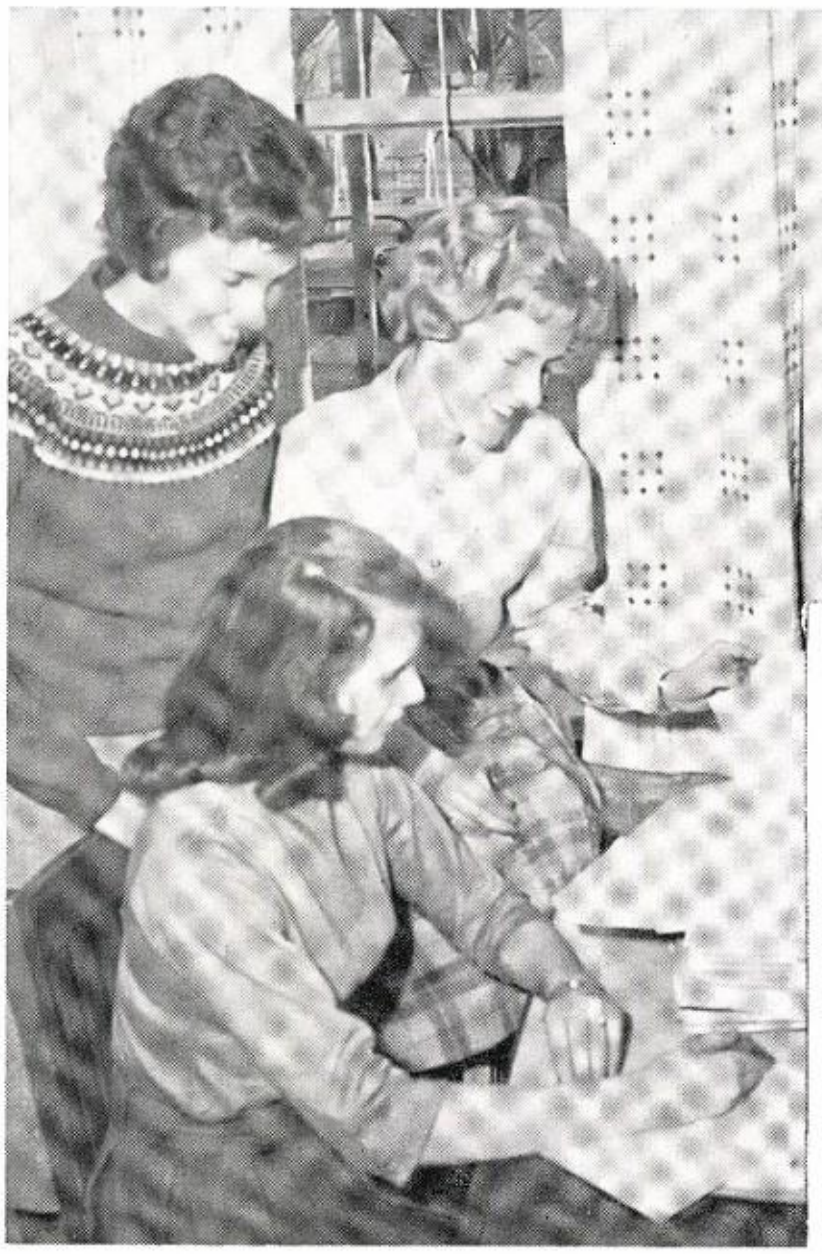
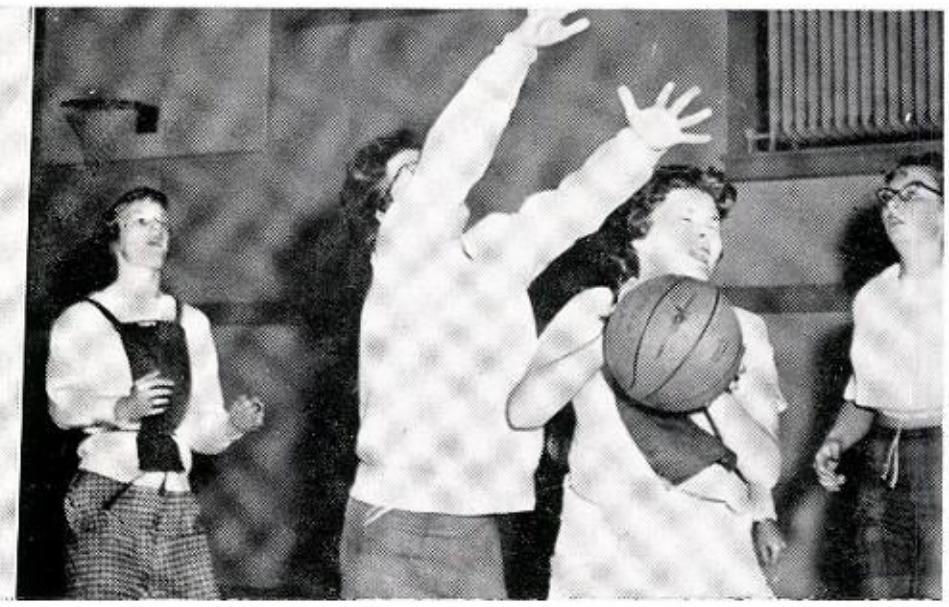
GRA Members Attend Play Day



A CONSTITUTION IS THE BASIS for any organization. Ruth Jordahl, treasurer; Judi Engbritson, president; and Nancy Chapman, secretary; attempted to improve and revise the GRA constitution.



"WATCH OUT!" WARNED MARTHA WAYNE as Bonnie Hanson tried to get the basketball from Renee Johnson during one of the GRA tournament games in the Girls' Gym.

To have organized fun and to give girls a chance to play in a competitive sports were the the purposes of the Girls' Recreation Association.

The girls started the year by having a get-acquainted party, with all interested girls invited. During the evening refreshments were served.

At their next meeting, they started playing volleyball, wtih teams being selected. After several evenings of strenuous playing, Pam Hirsch's team emerged champions. With sophomore, junior and senior teams competing against each other in an inter-class volleyball tournament, the sophomores were champions.

The basketball tournament started shortly after volleyball was over. Champions were Pam Hirsch's team. They also sponsored an inter-class basketball tournament, with the juniors emerging victorious.

The final event of the year was an awards banquet at which various members received awards.

Bowling Leaguers Attempt Strikes

Climaxing a year of bowling, girls belonging to the American Junior Girls' Bowling League participated in two tournaments. On March 25, they bowled three lines at Town Club Lanes and sent the scores to the Mail-O-Graphic Tournament in Chicago. There the scores were rated with approximately 10,000 other teams in the United States. All eight teams attended the Minnesota Junior Girls' Bowling Tournament April 8.

More than 35 senior high girls were members of the eight teams, each consisting of five members, that bowled every Tuesday after school at Town Club Lanes. They bowled two lines each week, under the supervision of Mrs. Fran Ashcroft.

The teams were sponsored by local clubs, organizations and business groups: American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, Community Co-op Oil, Dahl Mobile Oil, Does, Eagles Auxiliary, Moose Auxiliary and VFW. Each sponsor gave his team a name and $10 which covered transportation costs and entry fees for the State Tournament and paid for the end of the year banquet.

RUTH EMSTAD, PRESIDENT, DISPLAYED GOOD FORM as she demonstrated her bowling technique to the other Bowling League officers; Corrine Hanson, secretary, and Judy Holway, treasurer.

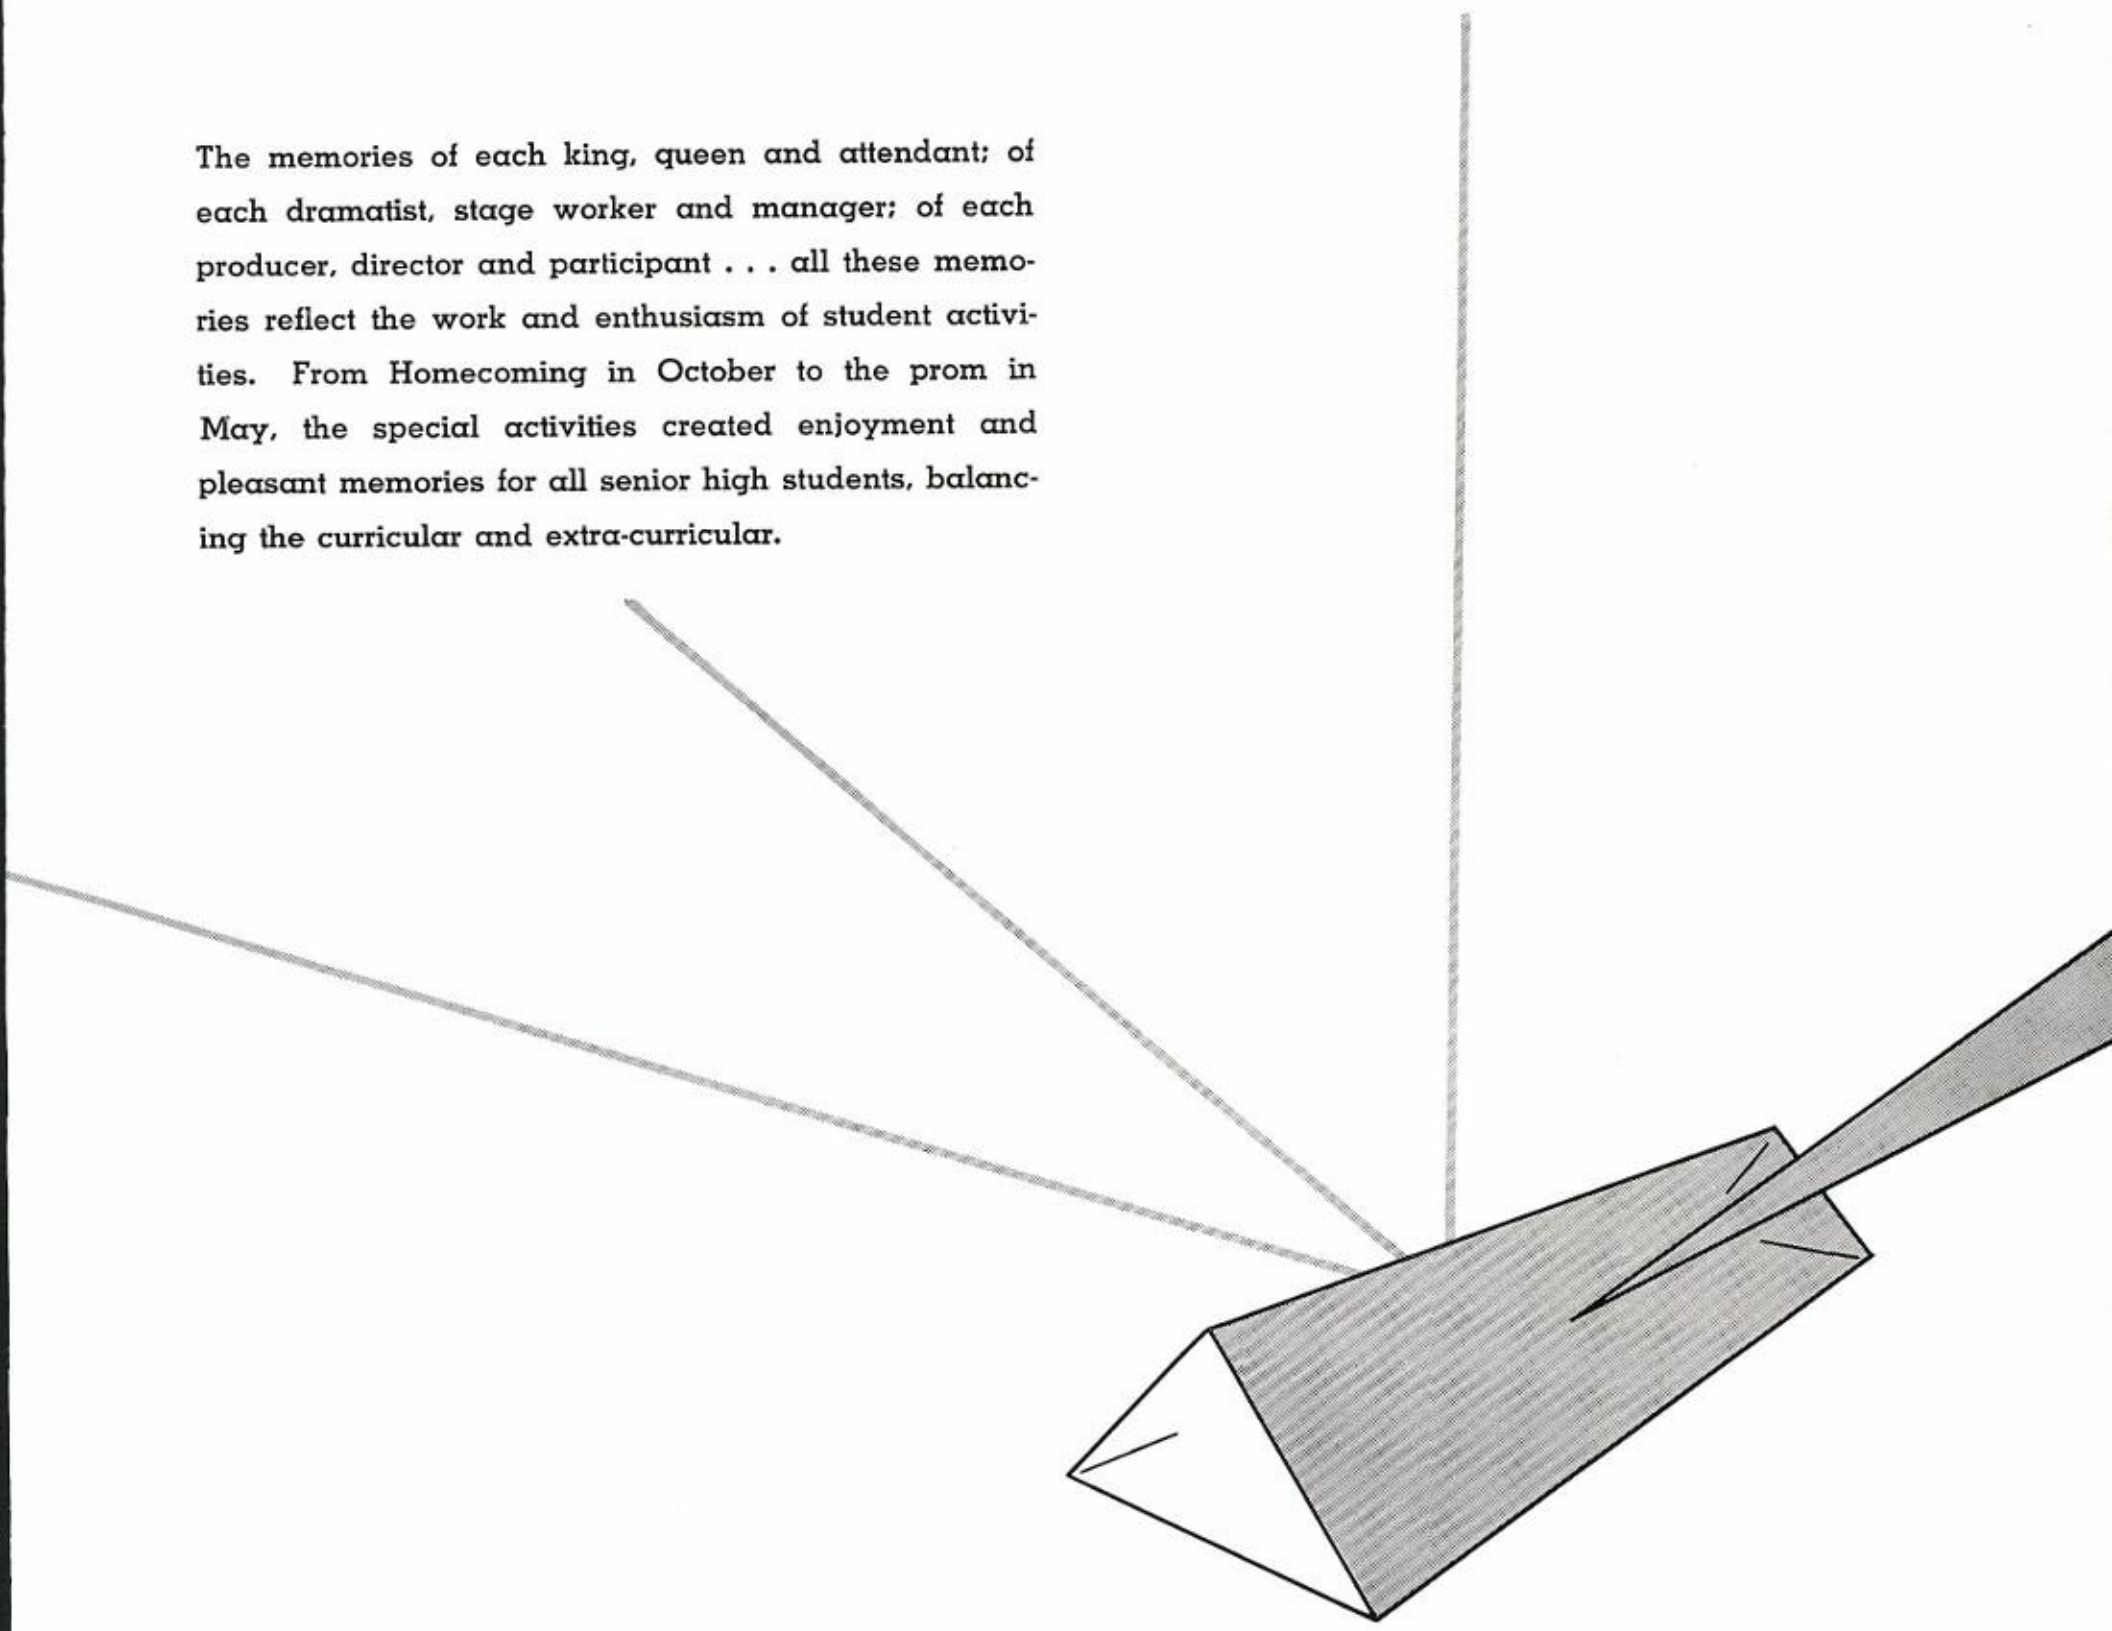
STUDENT LIFE

The memories of each king, queen and attendant; of each dramatist, stage worker and manager; of each producer, director and participant . . . all these memories reflect the work and enthusiasm of student activities. From Homecoming in October to the prom in May, the special activities created enjoyment and pleasant memories for all senior high students, balancing the curricular and extra-curricular.



Queen Barbara

THE ROYAL COURT consisted of Queen Barbara Ann Hegland and her attendants: Gervaise Wilhelm, Carolyn Farry, Sandra Hanson, Linda Ille, Margit Larson and Lois Hassberg. Representatives were David Jordahl, music; Michael Morrison, dramatics; Paul Wilke, master of ceremonies; John Farry, crownbearer; William Rhiger, organizations; and Richard Oliphant, athletics.

Queen Barbara Graciously Reigns

GLOWING WITH RADIANCE after a happy day were the Homecoming Queen attendants: Carolyn Farry, Sandra Hanson, Lois Hassberg, Linda Ille, Margit Larson and Gervaise Wilhelm.

Graciously smiling at her royal attendants as the curtain parted to the strains of "La Czarine" was radiant Queen Barbara Hegland. She was attired in the traditional white formal and held a bouquet of American Beauty Red Roses. Her six attendants, Carolyn Farry, Sandra Hanson, Lois Hassberg, Linda Ille, Margit Larson and Gervaise Wilhelm, wore pastel blue formals and held a single red rose.

A fanfare to prelude the introduction of Queen Barbara to the student body was offered by coronetists Roger Christianson, Barry Yocum and Richard Anderson. Master of Ceremonies Paul Wilke presented the Queen and her attendants to the student body.

Queen Barbara descended from her throne to take the traditional Queen's pledge and to receive the sparkling rhinestone tierra as her crown. After ascending her throne and giving thanks to her subjects, Queen Barbara listened as representatives pledged their support.

Bringing a conclusion to the coronation ceremony was Sharon Kurth, who gave a solo, "A Perfect Day."

Homecoming got off to a spectacular success as the traditional parade and bonfire took place October 5.

The seven Queen candidates attired in furs and riding in open convertibles, 24 floats each depicting a different phase of the desired victory and excited spectators made the Homecoming parade successful.

The brightly decorated floats constructed with the theme "Wallop Washburn" in mind, were judged by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. Homerooms 204 and 304 were selected as prize winners.

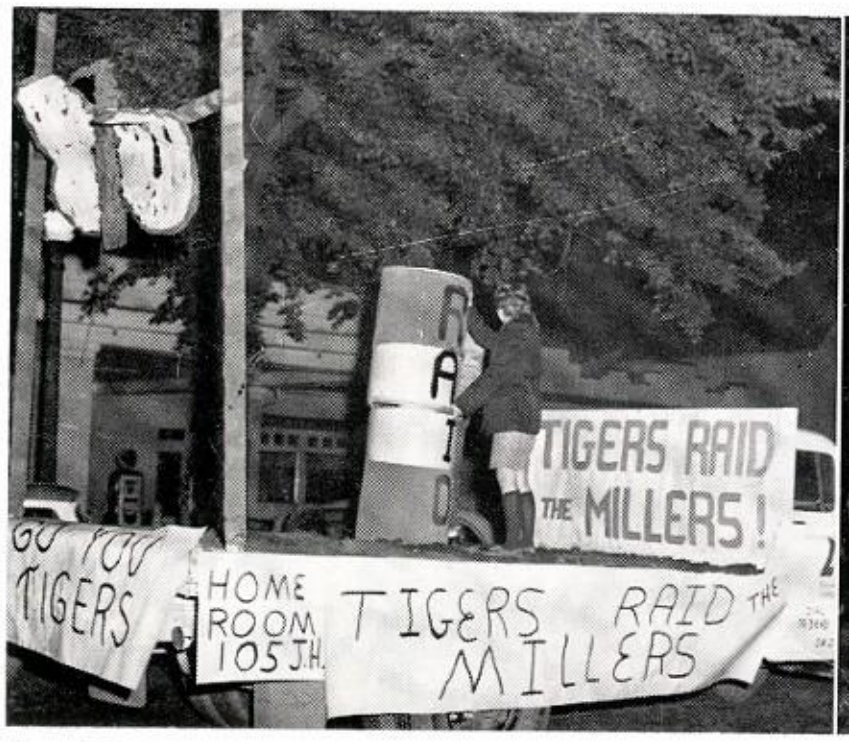
As the end of the parade passed, all spectators, young and old, rushed to Morin Park to view the bonfire with the Pep Band providing the music and the cheerleaders leading the school chants. The chant, "We want the Queens" led to the introduction of the queen candidates. While the crowd of exuberant spectators watched, the billowing flames swept away the remains of the students' efforts.

Richard Oliphant was in charge of all Homecoming events. Working under him was David Palmer who planned, organized and supervised the bonfire.

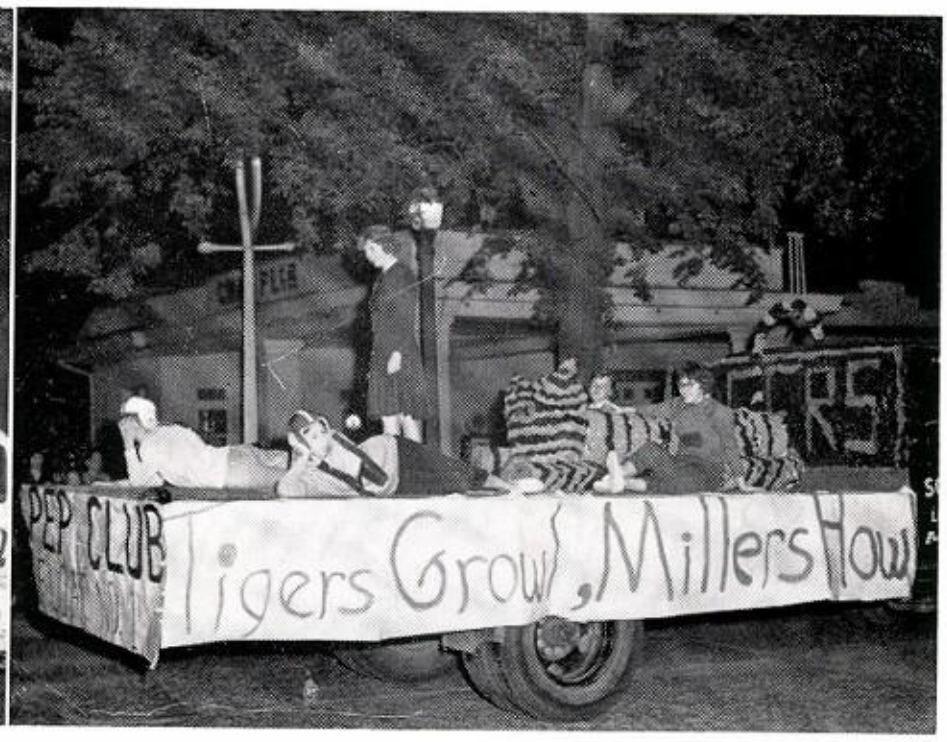
WORKING VIGOROUSLY to complete their float before parade time were Sandra Hanson, Jane Nelson and Barbara Collins.

Students Join in Parade, Bonfire

EMPHATICALLY "exterminating" the Millers, homeroom 105 portrayed the excitement of Albert Lea High School fans.



DEPICTING THE VICTORY of the Tigers were Mary Jordahl, Patricia Frizzell, JoAnn Olson, Linda Modlin and Judith Chrisinger.

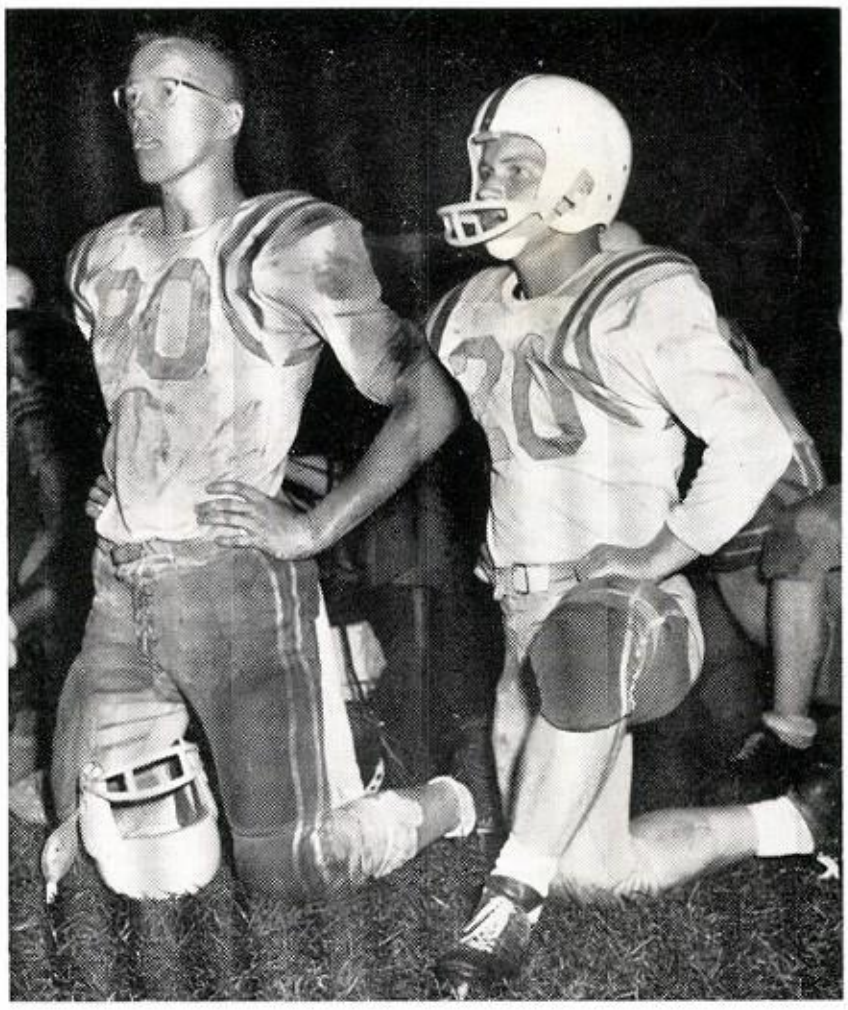


Opening the 1960 Homecoming game was the presentation of the flag and the National Anthem by the Senior High Band. Then the field was darkened and the Albert Lea team ran through a spotlit paper tiger head between the east goal posts.

After an exciting first half, the band marched onto the field and formed a "W", faced the Washburn stands and played their school song. The band formed a square and played "The Black Bottom" while the girl members did the Charleston.

Following this, they formed a crown and the lights were dimmed for the presentation of Queen Barbara and her court, during which "La Czarine" was played. The royalty rode on a lighted float donated by Bzoskie Sign Company. Barbara carried a bouquet of scarlet roses, and each attendant carried a rose The band then formed an "AL" and played "Come on Tigers."

"October Odyessy" was the theme of the dance held in the Boys' Gym following the game. Decorations included a crepe paper ceiling in a giant pinwheel of fall colors, a balloon tree with a balloon for each player and silhouettes of players, cheerleaders and bright autumn leaves on the wall.



ANXIETY was shown on the faces of Del Bosacker and James Larson as tension mounted between the Albert Lea and Washburn teams.

To Create Memorable Homecoming

SCHOOL SPIRIT MOUNTED as the Homecoming bonfire brought a climax to the night for many of the jubilant parade-goers.

RICHARD OLIPHANT, who escorted Queen Barbara Ann to the dance, extended the honor of the dance with Barbara to Stephen Claybourn.

Females pursued the males on Sadie Hawkins' Day, November 11. At 12:12 each girl raced to the bookroom to obtain tags with which she could tag any boy.

As the females spotted their game, the chase was on. If a boy survived the chase for five and one-quarter full hall lengths or 15 city blocks, he was no longer free game. The library, Girls' Gym, 117 J. H. and 304 were designated game refugees. Definitely no tagging was allowed during classtime.

When a boy was caught, he was taken to the bookroom so the girl could buy a marriage license which proved that the boy was her date for that evening. A $2 prize was awarded to Myreen Gavle for capturing the most eligible bachelor, Paul Wilke.

Hobo and clashing costumes were worn at the dance. The girl was required to provide transportation for the evening. Each girl not able to furnish transportation paid the boy ten cents a mile.

GIRLS MUST PAY all expenses. Obeying the rules were Gervaise Wilhelm and Judith Olson who were buying their marriage licenses.

Local Custom Brings Merry Chase

SHOWING OFF their Sadie Hawkins snags at the dance were Myreen Gavle and Dee Ellertson who caught Paul Wilke and Ralph Erlandson, respectively, as their dates for the evening.

"HELP!" cried Paul Wilke, most eligible bachelor, who was surrounded by two determined girls, Janice Peterson and Myreen Gavle, as each sought the $2 offered for his capture.

Dance Climaxes Winter Festivities

Adding to the festivities of the Christmas holidays was the annual Winter Carnival. Holiday tournaments in hockey and ice-skating and two dances for junior and senior high students constituted the major events.

The senior high dance, entitled "Snow Serenade," was held at the Armory on the evening of December 28.

Climaxing the dance was the coronation of Judy Boyum and Stephen Claybourn as the Queen and King of Snows. Homecoming Queen Barbara Hegland crowned Judy and presented her with a bouquet of roses while Rodney Seeger placed the crown on Stephen's head. The couple was then presented with gifts of jewelry from the royal court.

Attendants to the King and Queen were Lynda Bell, Rebecca Boyer, Julie Boyum, Karen Mathews, Judith Olson, Robert Demo, Richard Oliphant, David Palmer, Robert Wallace and Paul Wilke. Each girl received a single red rose and each boy was presented with a white boutonniere by the crown bearers.

Various other events were planned for the enjoyment and recreation of all students during Christmas vacation. All activities were sponsored by the Youth Council and a Council of Clubs.

GRACIOUSLY REIGNING over the 1960 Winter Carnival Festivities were Judy Boyum and Stephen Claybourn who were crowned at the Winter Carnival Dance held December 28 at the Armory.

Annual Tiger's Roar Presents Tale

"Showboat," the theme of the 1961 Tiger's Roar, was presented January 28, 30 and 31 in the high school auditorium to a large audience at each performance. The set was constructed of a large showboat named "The Mistress of the Mississippi." This was the vessel around which the legend of its past was told.

Grandpa, portrayed by Michael Morrison, had been a showboat captain and had had many amusing experiences which he related to his grandson, Jay Slife.

In the first act the showboat was portrayed in its early stages during the latter nineteenth century. Acts included the Glee Club, a two-piano number, a singing Negro cook and a pickaninny dancer. The showboat progressed to the 1920's in the second act. A "murder," Peter Gunn chorus line and "torch singer" appeared with the second act. In the third and final act, the showboat went "modern" and depicted the present-day showboat. The Pied Pipers, a modern ballet and a girls' quartet completed the Roar.

CLIMBING TOWARD A SUPERB ROAR was the 1961 production staff. Counterclockwise were Karen Mathews, director; James Groos, producers; Carole Lee, stage manager; John Iverson, set design; Suzanne Helgeson, properties; Lois Hassberg, programs; Mary Keil, costumes; Margit Larson, tickets; Roxanne Wehrhan, Susan Walgamot and Barbara Slife, script; Elaine Posthumus, publicity; Dee Ellertson, make-up; William Danielsen, stage manager; Linda Ille, producer; and David Jordahl, director.

HARD WORKING Negro children, Karen Folck and Terry Sorenson, took time from their duties to add spice to life on a showboat.

TAPPING THEIR TOES across the showboat deck, Sandra Wentzell and Katherine Taylor energetically danced to "Walk, Don't Run."

Of 'Showboat's' Historical Journey

The idea for the 1961 Tiger's Roar was submitted by Roxanne Wehrhan and Barbara Slife. It was written by Roxanne, Barbara and Susan Wolgamot.

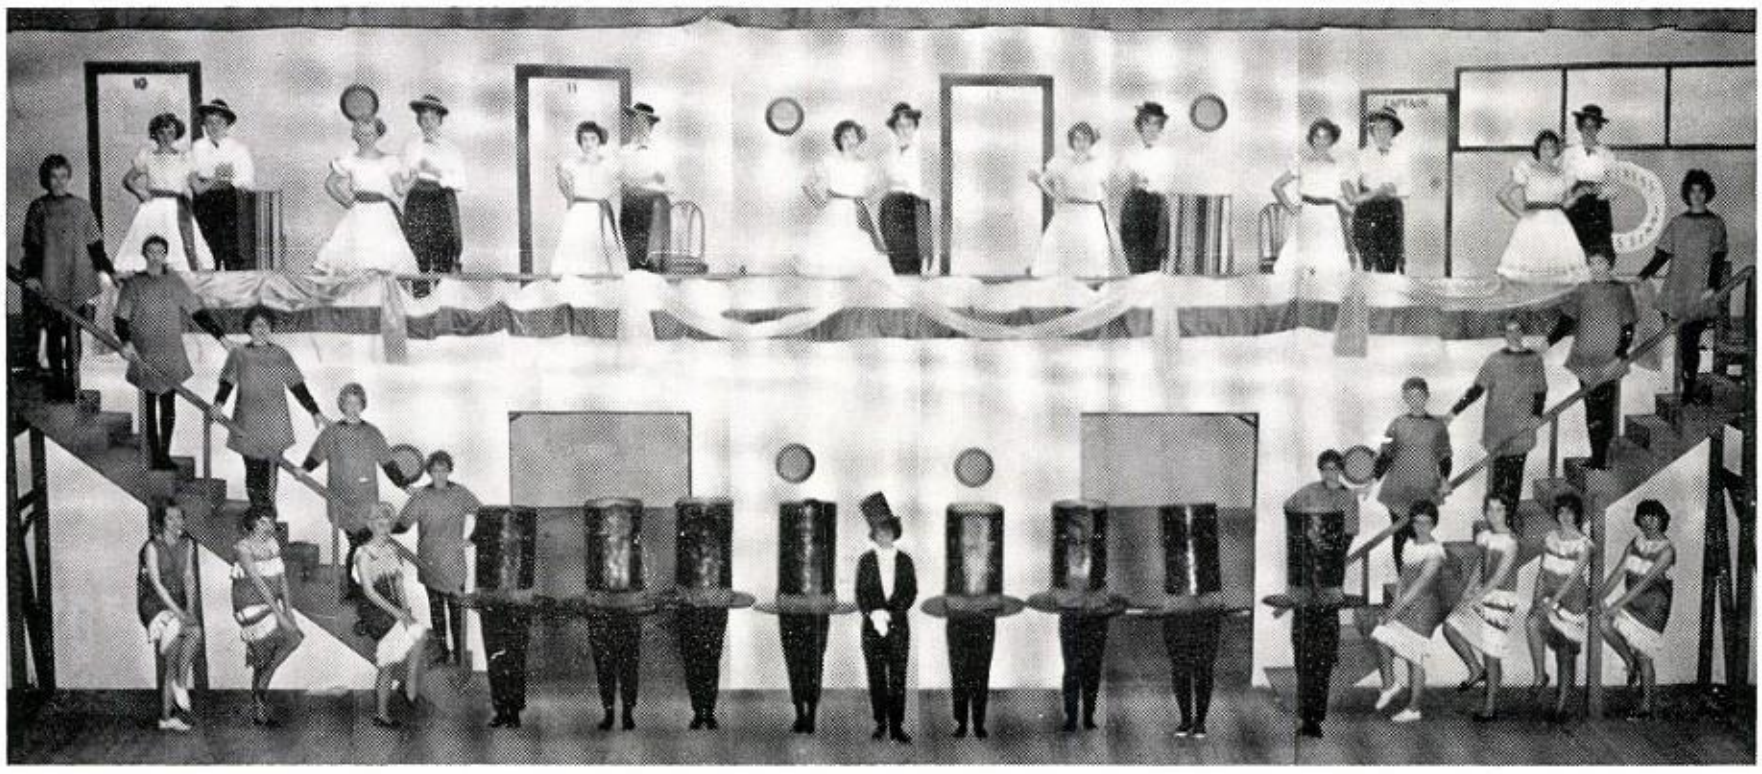
A Student Council committee selected the co-directors, David Jordahl and Karen Mathews, the co-producers, James Groos and Linda Ille, and the other various committee heads. They all worked very closely with the faculty advisers, Mr. Robert L. Myers and Mr. R. Wayne Cleveland, to make the production one of the best ever presented in Albert Lea.

The cast was picked by the production staff. It was Thomas Counters, captain of the early showboat; Morris Haskins, captain of the modern showboat; Robert Demo, Michael Jansma, David Peterson and Leo Yokiel, deckhands; and William Danielsen, John Iverson, Larry King and Gary Roelofs, card players.

DEVASTATING as a flapper of the 1920's was Rodney Seeger as he joined Frank Ostby and Thomas Van Beek for "Tea for Two."

SLAPSTICK COMEDY PREVAILED as Sandra Veldman, Gail Wedge, Virginia Jacobson, David Knudtson, Mary Skophammer, Bruce Glesne and John Bailey combined to present the skit, "Fool for a Night."

TWIRLING AND GLIDING their way through all three acts of the Tiger's Roar were the four chorus lines of senior girls. The "Charleston" opened the second act to set the atmosphere of "Roaring Twenties" and the Village Moderns closed the 1961 Tiger's Roar.



"FRIENDS, ROMAN, COUNTRYMEN, lend me your ear . . ." David Larsen, who played the part of Caesar's Ghost, introduced the play while Jane Nelson, Cleopatra, followed his command.

Bringing up Mother, with the assistance of a ghost or two, presented the problem in the fall play, "Great Caesar's Ghost," presented November 18 and 19.

The play revolved around two Victorian mothers, Mrs. Phoebe De Royster and Mrs. Penelope Maxwell, and their belief in the supernatural, personified by Mahjah the Mystic. Mrs. Maxwell's daughter, Helen, was forced into solving her mother's problems and the problems of Mrs. De Royster's daughter, Debby. Helen herself had a problem — she was engaged to a man her mother disliked because he was not mystic.

When a sympathetic Aunt Polly arrived, the problems were transferred to her shoulders. Debby's problem was easy to solve, but the other two proved more difficult. The timely arrival of Uncle Phineas — with a ghost — helped to solve these.

The two families decided to pretend that the Mahjah had made Phoebe and Penelope invisible, and Tommy Tucker, Helen's boyfriend, would pretend to bring them back again. In that way, the two women would be frightened away from mystics and at the same time Penelope would learn to appreciate Tommy's talents and consent to the marriage.

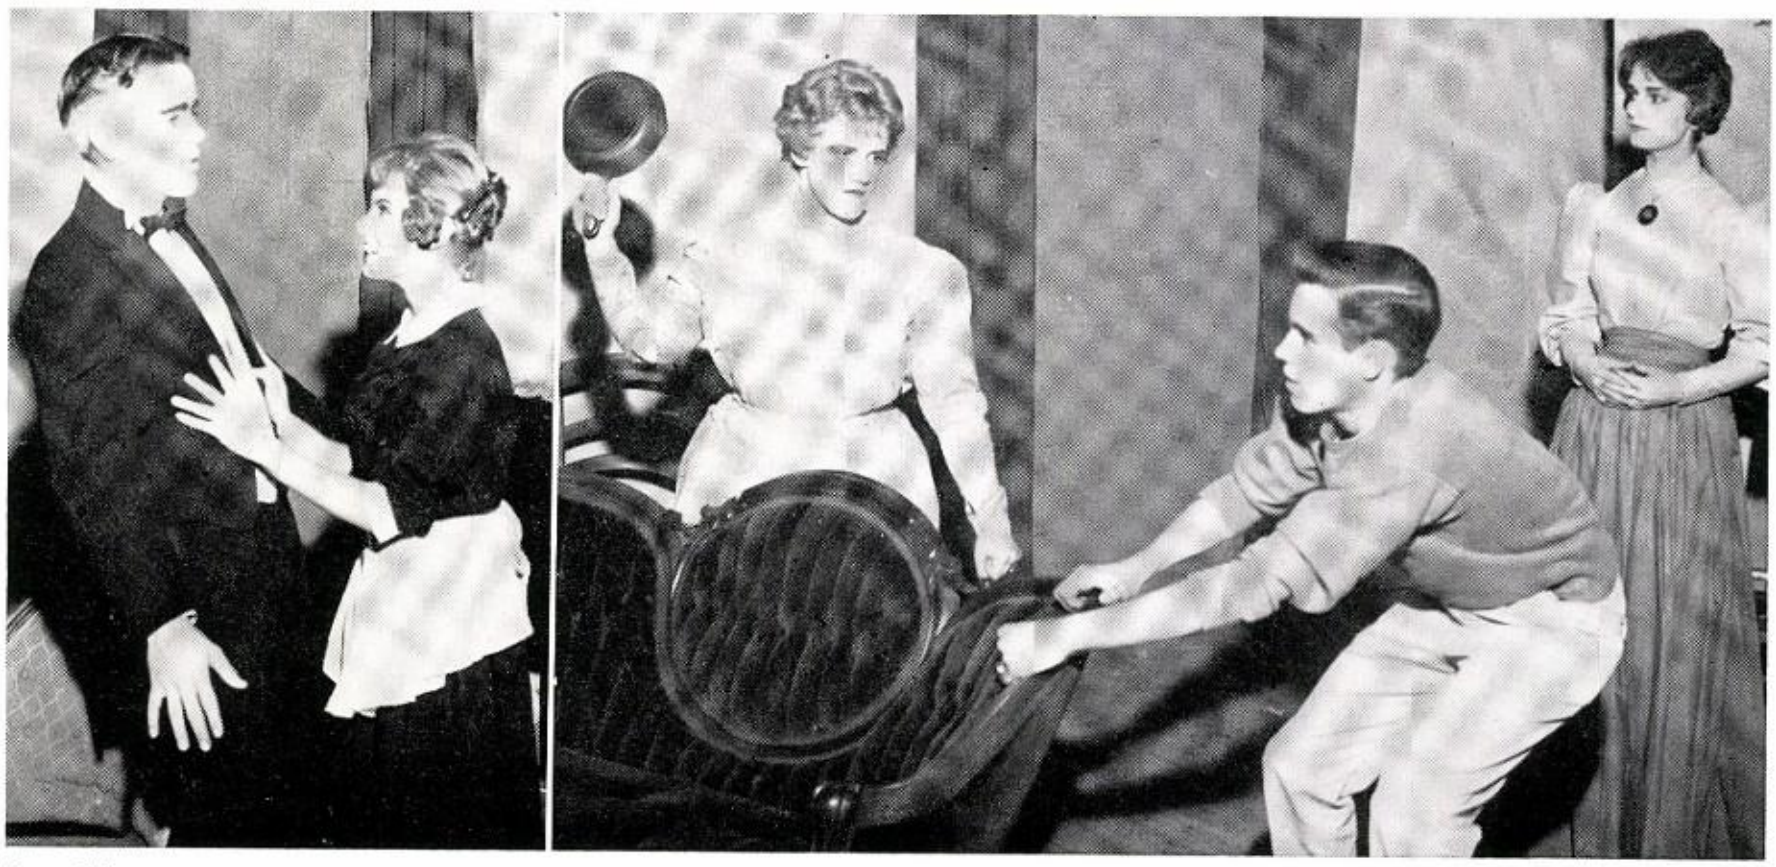
Meanwhile the maid, Esther, had been pursuing the butler, Johnson, until she persuaded him to invite her to the theatre. The cook, Hattie, had been pursuing a neighbor boy who constantly stole her cakes.

The play ended happily with Phoebe and Penelope firm in their disbelief of the supernatural and mystics.

Dramatists Portray Victorian Era

TRYING TO WIN the heart of the disinterested butler, Thomas Counters, was Lois Hassberg, the household maid.

DISPLAYING the feelings of a frustrated cook whose product is being devoured was Judith Engbritson as she wildly chased Timothy Bothof, a neighbor boy. Carolyn Farry, the daughter, watched the typical scene with an attitude of helplessness.



Ridding the whole world, especially the Parisian district of Chaillot, of all the evil and greedy people was the expressed desire of Countess Aurelia, the "Madwoman of Chaillot." The Madwoman really wasn't insane. In fact, she seemed to be one of the few sane people in the entire play.

A cellar, at 21 Rue de Chaillot, served as the Countess' home in which she entertained her friends—four other "madwomen" and Parisian vagabonds.

The peace and happiness of Chaillot was disrupted by the greedy prospector who found oil beneath the streets. He planned to blow up the city to get the gold, but Pierre, his agent, was unavoidably detained and thrown in the Seine River. The vagabonds took him out of the river and carried him to the Madwoman's cafe, the Cafe Cheez Francis. Pierre's life was saved by Irma, a waitress and the Countess' personal maid.

Meanwhile, the Madwoman, aware of the crookedness of the Prospector, plotted with the other "madwomen" to rid the world of him and his kind. With the help of the Sewer Man, she discovered the entrance to a bottomless pit in her cellar. She held a trial for the evil people and one by one, as they were found guilty, sent them into the pit from which there was no return. The play ended with a scene of great rejoicing.

ANGERED BY THE PRESUMPTUOUSNESS of John Bailey, prospector; and Alva Jenson, president; Roxanne Wehrhan, Countess Aurelia; supported by Neal Gendler, sewer man; drove them from her domain.

And Gaiety of Parisian Vagabonds

THE ENTIRE CAST of the "Madwoman of Chaillot" rehearsed their lines for the final scene when Chaillot, purged of the evil people, rejoiced. In this scene the pigeons began to fly and the grass began to grow again because of the absence of evil in the world.

GAZING ADORINGLY into the eyes of Irma, played by Barbara Gurwell, was Pierre, played by William Rhiger.

WORKING BUSILY TO finish sewing the last roll of cheesecloth to finish the ceiling for the prom were John Iverson, Mary Keil and Barb Kofstad, who were grateful that their work was almost done.

Sombreros, straw chairs and gaily painted wall murals in a typical Mexican garden setting helped to depict the theme, "South of the Border," chosen for the 1960 Junior-Senior Prom held May 13 in the Boys' Gym.

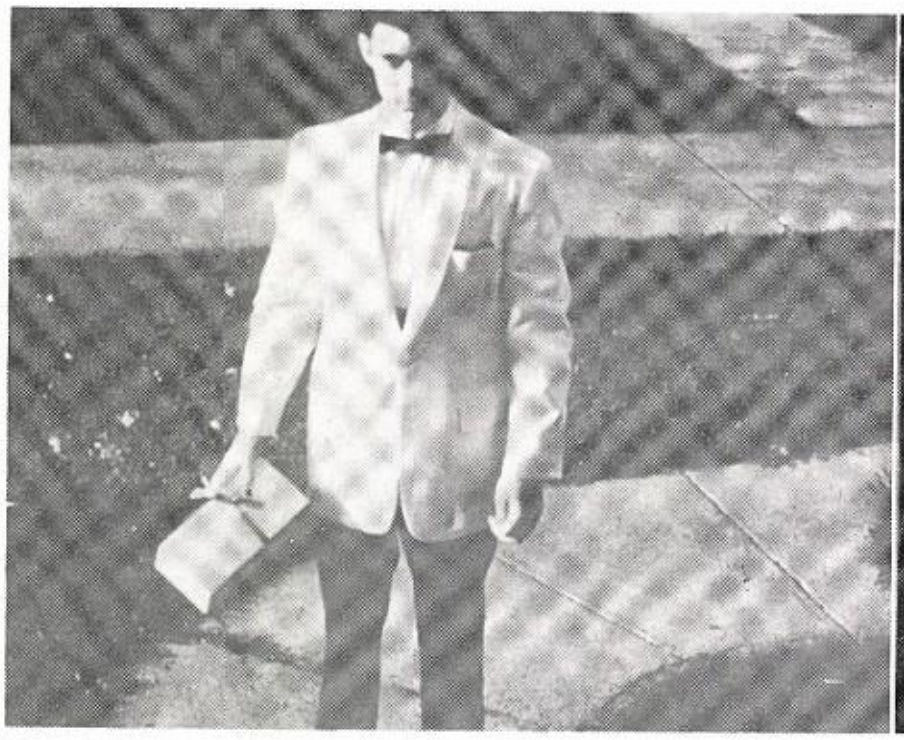
Girls dressed in billowing formals and boys in tuxedos and dinner jackets found themselves in a replica of old Mexico at the buffet dinner in the cafeteria. Small tables covered with gaily checked tablecloths and decorated with candles in wax-covered bottles were enclosed in a small, screened-in area of the cafeteria. The art classes painted the murals in the modern trend.

The traditional promenade through Central Park began the evening's festivities. Led by Roger Christianson, Junior Class President, and Carol Rasmussen, the promenade was viewed by many people.

Dancing began to the strains of the Henry Charles Orchestra. The Grand March, one of the main events, was led by Roger and Carol and Bruce Cotton, Senior Class Vice President, and Sandra Wentzell.

1960 Prom, "South of the Border",

ANXIOUSLY ANTICIPATING an evening filled with gaiety, Robert Demo hesitated a moment before calling for his date.



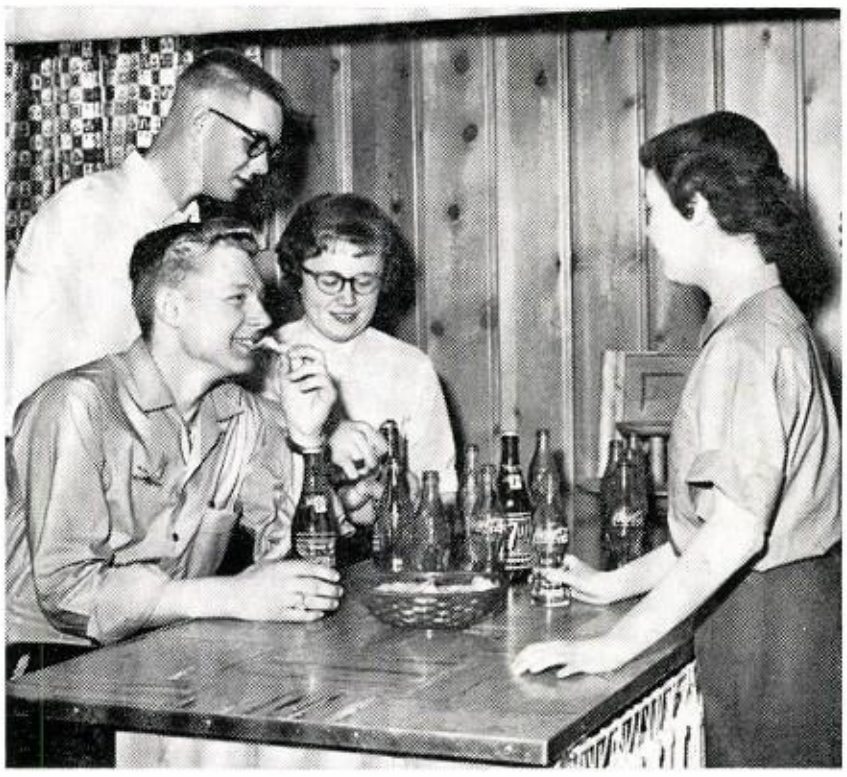
ACTING AS HOST at one of the many pre-prom parties was Ralph Erlandson, who was serving guests Karen Meixell and Carole Lee.

Pre-prom punch parties added much zest to prom night. Many prom-goers began the evening as early as 5 p.m. to attend get-togethers planned by their friends.

Following the dance at the school, many of the students were guests of the Elk's Club, which sponsored a dance. This dance ended with a breakfast.

The punchbowl of the prom consisted of a miniature fountain with punch spouting from tiny gargoyles. Punch was served by sophomore girls dressed in the Mexican peasant mode of dress.

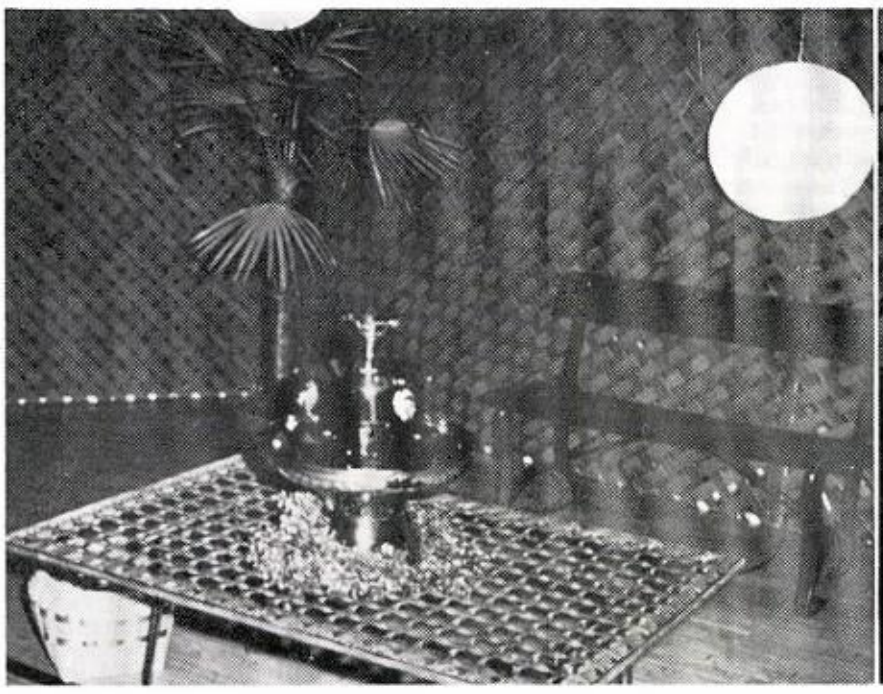
Work on the 1960 Prom began in January with the selection of a theme. In April, the actual construction and decoration were started. Work was supervised by the class officers, Roger Christianson, Mary Keil, Linda Ille and Carole Lee, and the committee chairman, William Rhiger, intermission; Carolyn Farry and David Jordahl, bandstand; Mary Gilbertson and Barbara Hegland, buffet; Cynthia Bothof and Margit Larson, punchbowl; Myreen Gavle and Michael Morrison, walls; Gervaise Willhelm and Stephen Claybourn, ceiling; Lois Hassberg and Robert Demo, cafeteria; and Jane Nelson and Dee Ellertson, invitations.



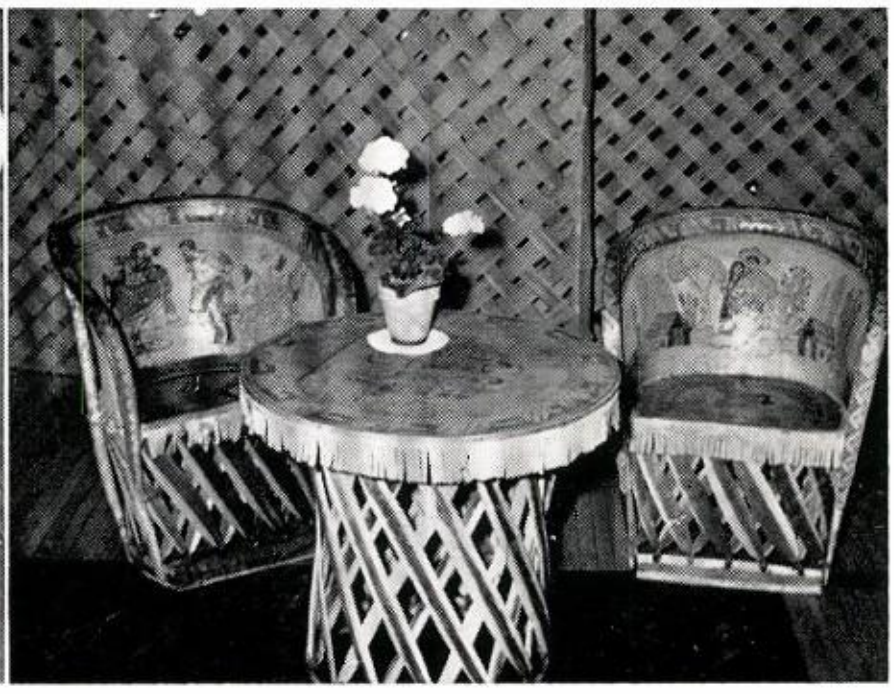
FOUR WEARY prom-goers, Donald O. Nelson, Janet Myers, Donald J. Nelson and Janice Nelson, ate at their post-prom party.

Portrays Enchanting Mexican Scene

DECORATING the Boys' Gym for the 1960 Prom took many long hours of hard and extensive planning by the various prom committees.



MANY REPLICAS of Spanish furniture were used to create the illusion that the happy prom-goers were in the scenes of old Mexico.



As we reflect on this year of 1961, we are able to see many aspects of school life at Albert Lea High School. All may be remembered with joy. The future, too, can reflect much for high school students. Graduates look forward to building a new life for themselves. Underclassmen await the following school years, secure in the knowledge that their school truly reflects the spirit of America.

Hi,

Well school is out and I suppose yours are as happy as mine? It has been lots of fun having you in biology. Wasn't it a ball with all the frogs?

Have fun this summer and lotza luck next year.

Bye

Kathy Sipple

Just a little note to remind you of the good times we had
during the many exciting
years. Especially Cards, Sr.
